NATS ACQUIRE ART SHIRES IN TRADE FOR TWO

Braxton and Tate Sent to Chicago for Fiery First Baseman.

COLORFUL PERFORMER MAY REPLACE JUDGE

Griffith Bolsters Club for Pennant Drive With Reserve Infielder.

NEW PURCHASE BOAST SENSATIONAL RECORD

"Freshest Busher" in Major Leagues Can Hit and Field in Fine Fashion.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

The bountiful person and impudent antics of Art Shires self-styled "The Great," will be transferred to Washington as a permanent base of operations as a result of a player deal engineered last night by President Clark Griffith, of the Nationals, who traded Pitcher Garland Braxton and Catcher Bennie Tate to the White Sox for the blatant Chicago first baseman.

Three hours before the limit on intraleague deals was to expire at midnight last night, Griffith announced the Washington Club's second startling trade within three days—an exchange which brings to the Capital the player who two years ago earned the soubriquet of "the freshest busher in the big leagues" and who in his short but sensational career has justified the appelation.

That is the irrepressible Shires, who on sundry occasions has admitted to being one of the best, if not the best, first baseman in the league; confessed to being a natural hitter, proud of the fact that he chews the largest cut of tobacco in baseball and, taken by and large, a great ball player in his own estimation who says he likes it when the battle is thickest and the going is roughest—a combination of a throwback to the pioneer era of baseball and flaming youth in the big leagues.

No Cash Involved.

And in exchange for Shires, Griffith cut adrift a veteran Washington battery in Braxton and Tate, the former ranking as the prize relief pitcher of the league and Tate a reserve catcher long recognized as capable of holding down a regular berth on several major league clubs not as well fortified in backstock talent as the Nats.

It was a straight player deal with no cash involved, Griffith said. The deal is calculated to strengthen both teams with the White Sox in dire need of batterymen and the Nats sorely-pressed for reserve infielders. The status of Shires as the Nats' regular first baseman is dependent upon the play of the veteran Joe Judge, now nursing an injury, but who is expected to return to the lineup later in the week when the Nats begin a long home stand.

"Joe Judge is the greatest first baseman in the game when he is in good fettle," said Griffith last night, "and there is none to compare with him. But when he is out of the game, or suffering from injuries, we need a man like Shires. Whether Shires plays regularly or not I can't say now.

Shires Out of Line-up.

"We are well fixed in pitching and could better afford to let Braxton go than to risk getting along without a substitute for Judge. Tate, too, is a good catcher, but not as necessary to the team as Shires."

Shires this season has failed to display the slugging ability that marked his first two seasons in the big leagues and, as a matter of fact, has been out of the game as a result of injuries suffered more than a week

HOUSES ARE IN DEMAND

Are there enough houses for rent in Chevy Chase?
Eight applicants attempted to rent the home advertised by Mrs. L. Todd, of 3738 Huntington Street, Chevy Chase, through a Post Classified Ad.
Of course, the home could be rented to only one, and seven others have to seek their abode elsewhere.
This is another example of quick response to Post Classified Ads, and by the way, it's a little tip to others who may have houses for rent.

James Brown Scott To Sit in Hague Court

G. U. Professor Slated for Post Left Vacant by Hughes.

DR. JAMES BROWN SCOTT.

Geneva, June 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.—James Brown Scott, president of the American Institute of International Law, is slated to succeed Charles Evans Hughes as American judge on the permanent court of International Justice, it was learned authoritatively today. Dr. Scott either has been or will be nominated by an American group composed of Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker and Roland W. Boyden, of Boston. When Mr. Hughes resigned from the bench of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague, Mr. Boyden succeeded him.

Dr. Scott's nomination has already been made by the Cuban committee which brackets him with Antonio Sanchez Bustamente, Cuban judge on The Hague court, who is seeking re-election. Inasmuch as nominations are usually made with the approval of governments, it is pointed out that Dr. Scott would not have been designated by the Cubans without Washington's having been consulted.

The League of Nations Council decided at its session earlier this month that a by-election would be held to elect a judge to finish out the balance of Mr. Hughes' unexpired term. Consequently the American candidate will be voted upon twice. Plans are

SENATE MAY FINISH LABORS NEXT WEEK

Democrats Threaten to Balk Plan Till Veterans' Bill Is Passed.

TAX INCREASE FORESEEN

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Although the tariff is out of the way, the end is not definitely in sight for the Senate. Republican leaders were talking rather bravely yesterday of adjournment at the end of this week, but a more likely prospect would seem to be the end of next week.

A threat was made on the floor from the Democratic side that there should be no talk of any adjournment arrangement which did not give the Senate time to pass the veterans' bill and then pass it over the President's veto. A veto is expected if it goes to him in anything like its present form.

Financial experts have sent out the word that the bill's passage in its present form would mean a tax increase. Estimates of what the bill would cost the country run up to $400,000,000, and some go even higher.

It is not known just how near to accuracy this is, but the bill has alarmed the administration and the word has gone out that a tax increase would follow.

It is doubtful, though, if the Senate would wait around here ten days to see what the President planned to do with the bill.

Following the rivers and harbors bill, which is now before the Senate, is the Parker bus bill. A filibuster lies ahead of this measure, and it is likely that it will be sidetracked.

The rivers and harbors bill may be disposed of today, but it is more likely that a vote will not come until tomorrow. Progress was made on it yesterday, but today the Blaine amendment comes up for considerable debate. This amendment limits the flow of water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois Drainage Canal and provides that the limit can not be changed without congressional action.

This is, however, the only remaining controversy in this bill. It is loaded up with projects which the administration did not want, but they are all authorizations.

Senator Hiram Johnson gave notice that he would insist that Congress remain here until the rivers and harbors bill went to the President, but inasmuch as it calls only for authorizations and as the President is intensely interested in many of the items the senator's implied apprehen-

SIMMONS HOPEFUL PAY BILL WILL PASS

Two-Hour Parley Held by Policemen, Firemen Groups With Nebraskan.

BUDGET TIE-UP STILL ON

In an attempt to rescue the Capper-Zihlman pay bill, representatives of the Police and Fire Departments held a two-hour conference yesterday with Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska.

While no agreement was reached, there were indications that in the end a pay-raise bill will be enacted. How liberal it will be is entirely up to Mr. Simmons.

The Nebraskan has the bill thoroughly stymied. He has been holding it up until he can obtain a promise that his amendments to it will be accepted, and he has had the House leaders squarely behind him.

Leaving the conference yesterday, Mr. Simmons said:

"I am hoping that the bill will pass, and that policemen and the firemen will get their raises. First, though, the sponsors of the bill will

House Will Hear Of Cannon Funds

Tinkham Gets Permission to Discuss Fate of Bishop's $48,000.

The fate of the $48,000 which Bishop James Cannon, jr., told the lobby committee was none of the Senate's business, is to be discussed on the floor of the House today by Representative George Holden Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts.

Tinkham yesterday asked permission to address the House for an hour on that subject and, greatly to his own surprise, there was no objection. Out of the numerous drys in the House, none came forward to defend the bishop by preventing Mr. Tinkham from incorporating a discussion of the Cannon case in the Record, where it will enjoy a privileged status with respect to republication.

Just what Mr. Tinkham plans to say about the bishop is something that Mr. Tinkham is keeping strictly to himself, except that it is known the address will probably assume somewhat the form of a questionnaire addressed to the bishop and relating to the $48,000.

Al Capone's Brother Gets Three Years in Tax Fraud

Two Fines of $10,000 Each Assessed in Gangster's First Conviction.

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—The two main Capone brothers, "Scarface" Al and Ralph J., who have kept fairly free from jails and prisons during their tumultuous careers in Chicago's gangdom, will be separated for the next three years if a sentence for income-tax frauds imposed today by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on Ralph stands.

Ralph Capone, the elder of Scarface, has never achieved the widespread publicity of Al, but Government investigators discovered that between 1924 and 1929 he had deposited $1,871,000 under seven different names in one Cicero bank, and had failed to mention it in his income-tax returns. Consequently Ralph was in-

HOOVER TO PUT NAME ON NEW TARIFF TODAY

G. O. P. Accepts Act as Issue in Elections Next November.

DEMOCRATIC CLAIMS SCOUTED BY WATSON

NEW RATES TO TAKE EFFECT AT MIDNIGHT

Customs Rush in New York Ascribed to Efforts to Avoid Levies.

(Associated Press.)

The challenge of the Democratic national executive committee that the tariff would be "the issue" in the November congressional elections was accepted by Republican leaders yesterday as President Hoover arranged to sign the bill and Democrats in and out of Congress assailed the executive's week-end statement.

"Let it be an issue," said Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican chieftain. "We have never lost yet on that issue. The people of America have prospered under tariff protection."

Taking the floor soon after the Senate met, Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, accused Mr. Hoover of "hyprocrisy and deception" in his statement announcing he would approve the Hawley-Smoot measure.

Shouse Recalls Taft.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, in a statement to the press, described the President's announcement as "an approval of the tariff bill with emphatic and important reservations."

Along the same line was a statement from Jouett Shouse, chairman of the minority party's national executive committee.

"More and more," Shouse said, "the political year of 1932 takes on the same appearance as that of 1910 when President Taft, after deploring the enormity of the Payne-Aldrich tariff, signed it, and by that act signed his retirement from the White House two years later."

The Harrison attack came soon after Vice President Curtis had signed the bill and sent it to the White House. The President is expected to sign it today in the presence of the six Senate and House Republican conferees, including Chairmen Smoot, of the finance committee, and Hawley, of the ways and means committee.

If it is signed today it will take effect tomorrow, or midnight tonight, to be exact.

Despite the brief grace allowed between the old and new rates, Treasury

CHICAGO PLANS POLICE QUIZ AS CHIEFS RESIGN

CANAL YIELDS BODY OF GANGLAND VICTIM

Mutilation May Prevent Man's Identification, Coroner Says.

PROHIBITION BLAMED FOR WAVE OF CRIME

Chief Justice Alludes to Lingle Slaying in Calling for Grand Jury.

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.). — New brooms began to sweep Chicago today.

Mayor William Hale Thompson's two police chiefs quit the firing line in the war upon gangs and gunmen, forced out by the high tension of public indignation.

Into the breach in swift succession came public and private agencies resolved to purge city hall, police and underworld of the gangsters' thrall.

The city council committee on police, hearing the reports of the two retiring commanders, Commissioner Will F. Russell and Capt. John Stege, detective chief, determined upon a thorough investigation of the police department. Its inquiry will be launched Thursday with Alderman Arthur F. Albert as prosecutor. Albert is the city council leader who last week demanded of Mayor Thompson that Stege and Russell be removed for 60 days to allow a house cleaning.

Canal Yields Body.

The body of a supposed gang ride victim, from which the head, hands and feet had been removed to prevent identification, was taken from the Sanitary District Canal at Lockport, near here, today.

It was from the same canal that the body of Eugene "Red" McLaughlin, notorious gunman aligned with the George "Bugs" Moran gang, was taken recently The body, punctured with bullets and weighted with iron, was churned to the surface by a passing tug.

After the discovery, Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney's office, theorized that a number of Moran hoodlums who dropped from sight recently had been killed and their bodies similarly disposed of.

The list included Moran himself, who has not been seen since June 2; Robert (Frisco Dutch) Schmidt, a pal of McLaughlin; Leo Mongoven, Moran's bodyguard; Harry Higgins, St. Paul racketeer, and Benny Bennett, machine gunner.

Retaliatory Killing Seen.

There was nothing in the clothing to indicate the identity of the victim taken from the canal today.

The body found today was put in the canal at about the same time

Starvation Recluse Ends Life by Shotgun

Davis' Body Found in Danville Shack After He Voiced Desire to Live and Had Broken 26-Day Fast.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 16.—Frank W. Davis, aged recluse, who was cheated for awhile of the death he vainly sought through self-starvation, today had found the solace he desired. Failing to die in a manner he thought morally right, he kept his tryst with death by ending his life with a shotgun, a method which he believed to be morally wrong. Davis was found dead from a wound in the chest in the kitchen of his shack by neighbors who had called on him yesterday morning.

His remains were laid at rest this afternoon in a grave on the farm of Mrs. Josephine Miller, a neighbor.

Physicians stated today that Davis had been dead at least ten hours when found in a half-sitting posture with the shotgun beside him, one end of a cord tied to the trigger and the other end to his foot.

It was a clear case of suicide, according to Magistrate Gourley Johnson, acting coroner. The gunshot load had entered the heart and the thumb of his right hand was torn away, indicating that he was holding the weapon against his breast and fired the gun by stretching his leg.

Davis had broken his self-imposed fast on June 7, after going without food for 26 days. He had said that to end his life by violence would be morally wrong and "messy." He refused all efforts to prevail upon him to eat and it was only when county authorities threatened to commit him to the Western State Hospital at Staunton, that he changed his mind and began eating.

Just as P. J. Hundley, Commonwealth's attorney of Pittsylvania County, was planning to send him to the asylum, Davis announced that he had taken a different viewpoint of life and promised to give no further trouble. He was removed to the home of Mrs. Josephine Miller, a neighbor, to whose granddaughter, Miss Hazel Sea, aged 17, he had willed his 10-acre farm.

On last Tuesday he returned to his cabin and apparently was doing nicely. Although the gun which reposed at his bedside during his fast remained at his shack, he had promised persons interested in his case that he would never use it and no uneasiness in this respect was felt.

Davis had stated that he had forgiven a cruel world and that he had changed his mind about dying. He had given as the reason for wanting to die that he had outlived his dear ones, that he had no friends and that he was getting too old to work. He came to this section about 30 years ago. He was reticent when questioned about his life.

Davis' suicide had spiked rumors that his self-imposed starvation attempt was a hoax. There had been a belief in some quarters that he was eating food secretly. However, he had appeared quite weak and emaciated after 26 days of fasting.

He had scoffed religion and expressed a disbelief in Christ, although he said he believed in an omniponent being who "probably did not have time to be bothered by earthly beings" like himself.

WHITE LEADS IN MAINE G. O. P. SENATE PRIMARY; SCHALL IN MINNESOTA

34 PRECINCTS SHOW HIS LEAD TO BE 1,203

Selb Running Far Behind in Same Tally With Only 259.

DEMOCRATS BATTLE OVER MINOR PLACES

Farm-Laborites Have Two Candidates for Senator, One for Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., June 16 (A.P.).—Minnesota's voters gave their verdict at the polls today in party battles for national and State offices with interest centered in the outcome of the fight for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

While the Democrats had only minor contests to settle, having selected their nominees in State convention, the Republican camp witnessed a bitter battle between Senator Thomas D. Schall and Gov. Theodore Christianson for the senatorial nomination. John F. Selb, a wet, was a third candidate.

Schall Has Early Lead.

Returns from 34 precincts out of 3,767 in Minnesota give for senator, Republican: Christianson, 1,446; Schall, 2,649; Selb, 259.

Overcast skies and showers in some parts of the State held down the balloting early, but in others intense interest in local contests brought a heavy trek to the voting booths. Estimates of the total vote expected varied, but a Republican total of 400,000 was forecast.

Both Senator Schall and Gov. Christianson expressed hostility toward the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill in their campaigns, favored prohibition and continued affiliation of the State's senators with the independent Republican faction, but made up for their agreement on national issues with bitter personal attacks.

Farmer-Labor Battle.

In the Farmer-Labor ranks, two former representatives in Congress sought the party's favor for the senatorial nomination. They are Knud Wefald and Ernest Lundeen, each of whom has served in the House previously. Five Republican representatives were unopposed in the primary, and one, Selvig, of the Ninth District, will have no opposition in the fall general election.

Six candidates were in the Republican race for the gubernatorial nomination, including former Gov. J. A. A. Burnquist. There also was a contest for the Farmer-Labor gubernatorial nomination.

Polls were open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. (Central standard time).

Representative Wallace H. White, of Maine (above), and Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota.

JERSEY VOTE TODAY WATCHED BY NATION

Three G. O. P. Senate Contest Entries Seek to Win on Wet Platforms.

DEMOCRATIC WOMAN UP

Newark, N. J., June 16 (A.P.).—With final expressions of confidence in the outcome, New Jersey's candidates for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate tonight wound up a campaign which has aroused widespread interest for weeks.

The polls open tomorrow at 7 a. m. (Eastern Standard time) and close at 8 p. m.

The candidates:

Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico and delegate to the London naval conference, whose platform demands repeal of the eighteenth amendment and State control of liquor traffic.

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former United States senator, who supported the eighteenth amendment but who now seeks its repeal and some system of centralized control of liquor.

Franklin W. Fort, representative in Congress and former secretary of the national Republican committee, who entered the race as a dry the day after Morrow announced his stand on prohibition.

John A. Kelly, real estate and insurance man, who describes himself as a soaking wet.

Morrow and Kelly, in addition, are contesting for nomination for a term from November, 1930, to March, 1931, made vacant by the appointment of Walter E. Edge as Ambassador to France.

For the long term, the Democrats are agreed upon Alexander Simpson,

Six Killed as Trolley Car Crashes Into Auto

Norman, Okla., June 16 (A.P.).—Six persons—two young men, a young woman and three children—were killed near here tonight when an interurban car bound for Oklahoma City struck an automobile at a grade crossing. Two other occupants of the motor car were injured.

The bodies of the victims, whose names could not be immediately learned, were placed on the interurban and taken to an Oklahoma City undertaker's.

Liberals Will Aid Labor Government

Unemployment in Britain National Emergency, Says Lloyd George.

London (Tuesday), June 17 (A.P.). The Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, said this morning that David Lloyd George had offered Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government the whole support of the Liberal party in the House of Commons "to secure a sound and dependable majority for emergency measures to wage war on unemployment."

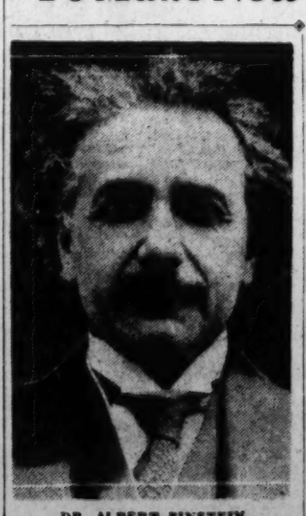

Talking to the Herald parliamentary correspondent, on the eve of reassembly of Parliament tomorrow after the Whitsuntide recess, the veteran Liberal leader showed his anxiety about unemployment and said it was going from bad to worse.

"It must be treated," he declared, "as a national emergency—as much an emergency as the situations which arose during the great war."

If all of the Liberals support the Labor party, the MacDonald government should be able to put through any legislation it proposes. The Liberals hold the balance of power in the British Parliament.

Einstein Strives Mightily To Make New Theory Clear

Space Is Only Reality, Says Physicist, But in More Nebulous Detail.

DR. ALBERT EINSTEIN.

Berlin, June 16 (A.P.).—Several thousand power celebrities, including some 200 Americans, today heard Dr. Albert Einstein, famed theoretical physicist and author of the theory of relativity, unfold his newer thesis of the reality of space.

The great German scientist uttered his new theory for the first time publicly in his own land. He said its essence was that space, birthplace of all matter and thought, having been brought into reality by Sir Isaac Newton, has in the last few decades "swallowed up the ether and time and is about to swallow up the field and corpuscular theory, too, so that space

Representative Piles Up 3,000 Lead in Pine Tree State.

ONE-FOURTH OF STATE COVERED BY REPORTS

FIVE FIGHT FOR POST VACATED BY WHITE

Light Vote Makes Outcome Difficult to Forecast, Observers Say.

Portland, Maine, June 16 (A.P.).—With more than one-fourth of the State reported, Representative Wallace H. White, jr., seeking the Republican nomination for United States senator, and Gov. William Tudor Gardiner, candidate for renomination, held substantial leads over candidates tonight in the Maine primaries.

White led former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, 9,280 to 6,307, with 171 out of the 632 precincts in the State tabulated, while Gov. Gardiner's total was 10,493 to 6,336 for John Wilson, former Mayor of Bangor.

Dewar Runs Far Behind.

Dugald B. Dewar, who, notwithstanding Maine's strong prohibition sentiments, essayed the Senate race as a "wet," was trailing far behind with 890 votes.

Messrs. Brewster and White waged an issueless campaign, with Mr. Dewar adding some color with his constant hammering away at the prohibitory laws, both national and State.

Gov. Gardiner contented himself with standing on what he termed the "results" of his two years' administration.

Fire in Congressional Race.

The only important contest besides the Republican nominations for senator and governor was in the Second Congressional District for the seat to be vacated by Mr. White, where three Republicans and two Democrats were entered.

State senators and representatives were up for nomination as well as county officers.

Because of the light vote, in many of the smaller communities only three and four votes being cast where two years ago, in the September election, between 20 and 100 votes were polled, political observers were unable to make predictions.

Spanish War Pension Asked by Albert Fall

Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, now under sentence for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny in connection with the Elk Hills naval oil reserve lease, has applied to the Government for a Spanish War pension. He was captain of Company H, First Volunteer Territorial Infantry, and is, therefore, if totally disabled, entitled to $72 a month. If not in that class he may receive $60 or less.

The rules of the Pension Bureau, which is under the Department of the Interior, prohibit officials from giving out details of an application but it was admitted by them that Mr. Fall had asked for a pension and the matter is being considered. Mr. Fall was one of the first to apply under the new act, which was passed over the President's veto.

In addition to the Senate contest, voters will nominate congressional candidates in the 12 districts of the State, 7 of the 21 counties will choose candidates for the State Senate, and candidates for full membership of 60 in the House of Assembly. Nominees for county and local offices also will be chosen.

$50,000 Slander Suit Filed in City

Vasco Head Says Remarks of Former Director Injured Him.

Charles J. Mains, president of the Vasco Products Co., of Brentwood, Md., filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court seeking to recover from Fred A. Spicer, of 10 Wholesale row, $50,000 for alleged slander.

Mains sets out that Spicer was a former member of the board of directors of the Vasco Co. He atlleges that in 1927 it was necessary for the company to sue for $4,800 on a stock transaction and that Spicer countered with a plea that the suit be dismissed, making certain remarks about the compatny's president.

Mains alleges that these charges were of a fraudulent and defamatory nature and brought him into public ridicule, infamy and disgrace. Attorneys Peyser, Edelin & Peyser appear for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Sarah White Expires in Capital

Mother of Mrs. H. L. West Succumbs at Home of Daughter.

Mrs. Sarah Vernon Eskridge White, mother of Mrs. Henry Litchfield West, died shortly after 7 o'clock last night at the residence of her daughter, 2701 Connecticut avenue, northwest, in her ninetieth year. Her illness began over seventh months ago when she suffered a fracture of the pelvic bone and, although this injury disappeared after two months of hospital treatment, the shock confined her to her bed until she passed away.

Mrs. White, who came to this city in 1867, shortly after the Civil War, was born in Portsmouth, Va., January 13, 1841. She was the widow of William Henry White, and was the daughter of the Rev. Vernon Eskridge, U. S. N., and his wife, Sarah Armistead Hope, all of Portsmouth, Va. Besides her daughter, she is survived by three grandchildren, Mrs. Morgan Stinemetz, Orangeburg, N. Y.; Mrs. Orville B. Drown, Edgemoor, Md., and Vernon Eskridge West, first assistant corporation counsel, and six great-grandchildren.

Arrangements for the funeral will be made today. Interment will be in the family burial plot in Portsmouth, Va.

POLICE FIND JEWEL FOR WIFE OF ENVOY

WAS PAWNED FOR $100

In a pile of jewelry in a local second-hand store police yesterday afternoon recovered a $2,000 diamond, pearl and emerald necklace, set in platinum, which Donna Amelia L. de Alfaro, wife of the Minister from Panama, Senor Don Ricardo Alfaro, lost in the Mayflower Hotel May 12. It had been pawned, police say, by a hotel employe a week ago for $100.

The necklace, which contained 53 diamonds, was purchased by Senora de Alfaro in Paris a year ago and was included in her prize collection of gems. Senora de Alfaro discovered the loss of her necklace after attending a reception at the hotel and made a report to the police.

Detective Sergts. Kuehlin and Fihelly were assigned to the case and conducted a thorough canvass of local second-hand stores in the hope that the finder might pawn it. Yesterday they found the jewel which was quickly identified by Senora de Alfaro as the one she lost.

Investigation disclosed that the hotel employe had pawned the necklace a week ago. He told police that when he did not find any advertisement in the newspapers concerning the loss of the jewel he decided to pawn it.

The man returned the $100 to the second-hand dealer and Senora de Alfaro decided not to prosecute him.

Driver's Efforts Saves Burning Passenger Bus

While engaged in admiring the Washington Monument late yesterday afternoon, passengers on a Richmond-Washington bus suddenly found the vehicle filled with smoke and flames from fire beenath the hood.

Quick work on the part of Driver J. B. Snead, of 1717 Seventeenth street northwest, was all that saved the vehicle from being seriously damaged before apparatus from Truck Company, No. 3, arrived on the scene to extinguish the blaze with chemicals. The driver held the flames in check with his fire extinguisher while the fifteen-odd passengers climbed to safety. No one was injured, and no baggage was damaged.

Boys at Cheltenham Help Fight Blaze in Broom Factory.

Fire early yesterday destroyed the broom factory at the Maryland House of Reformation at Cheltenham, Md. The damage is believed to amount to nearly $75,000.

The several hundred boy inmates assisted in fighting the flames and volunteer fire departments were called to the scene from Upper Marlboro, Capitol Heights, Greater Capitol Heights, Seat Pleasant and Leonardtown. A Washington fire company also was dispatched.

The fire was confined to the broom factory, a two-story building of large size, although other buildings were threatened. Approximately 5,000 completed brooms and five carloads of broom material as well as the equipment in the factory were destroyed.

The factory was operated by the F. A. Ripple Sons Co., of Baltimore, the boys in the school working in the factory under contract.

Coast Guard Officers Assert Liner Talked to Other Boats 20 Minutes.

Boston, June 16 (A.P.).—The testimony of two Coast Guard officers today established the fact that no S O S message was received from the steamship Fairfax on the night it rammed the tanker Pinthis causing a loss of 47 lives. It was also brought out that it was not until nearly 10 hours later the Coast Guard cutter Tampa, 23 miles from the scene of the disaster was told the Pinthis had gone down with all hands.

The testimony was considered by officials among the most important thus far developed at the Government's inquiry.

Another statement was that for 20 minutes after the accident the Fairfax was in communication with two other ships while here operator was supposedly under orders to transmit an S O S call.

Keyser, W. Va., June 16 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Wells yesterday observed the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage at their home here. Mr. Wells served in the Union army, and five years after his return from the war he married Miss Roberta Ann Richardson in Aberdeen, Md. Fifty years ago they moved to Keyser, where they have since lived. Five of their seven children are living. Mr. Wells is still active at 82, while Mrs. Wells is 79.

TAKES TARIFF BILL TO HOOVER

Harris & Ewing.

Miss Geraldine Davies, secretary to Representative Guy E. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, shown arriving at the White House yesterday with the tariff bill to get President Hoover's signature.

TARIFF ACT AWAITS HOOVER PEN TODAY

WATSON GIVES DEFIANCE

officials announced they were ready to administer the new tariff structure. Copies of the bill have been sent by mail to the 49 customs districts in continental United States and its possessions, and its more important provisions, along with new regulations, have been hastened to port officials by telegraph.

Customs officials announced that $11,000,000 in duties was collected at the Port of New York Saturday, as compared with a usual Saturday collection of $1,000,00. They ascribed the increase to efforts to bring in as much goods as possible under the old rates before the new ones go into effect.

Three Resolutions Remain.

Meanwhile, before the bill was law, three resolutions by backers of the measure had been introduced in the House to correct as many items in the bill. They also must pass both houses and be signed by the President to become law.

One resolution would reduce from 3,000 to 300 the minimum number of cigars allowed entry in a single package. Cuba wants the present 3,000 minimum wiped out altogether so she can ship small lots to the United States by parcel post and the bill meets her wishes. But American cigar manufacturers have protested the repeal, hence the resolution.

Another proposal would apply the bill rate of 8 per cent on maple, birch, and beech flooring to other by-products of these woods, while a third would more definitely define cotton rags as "wiping rags, wholly or in chief value of cotton, except rags, chiefly or actually used in paper making." The bill places a rate of 3 cents a pound on such rags.

Upward Trend Predicted.

After talking to President Hoover late in the day, Senator Smoot said he expected business to show an early favorable reaction to the bill. Ending of the uncertainty, he said, would permit business and industry to go ahead on a normal basis and he expressed confidence that the trend would be upward. The senator said he expected the farmer to receive first benefits from the new tariff.

Senator Harrison held a copy of the President's statement in his hand as he told the Senate he did not suppose "there ever was a document sent out from the White House that had more misleading statements and alleged facts in it than the one issued yesterday." Recalling statements given the press at the White House that the President intended to make a thorough study of the bill before reaching a conclusion, he continued:

"Yet the statement of Mr. Hoover announcing he would sign the bill was prepared even before the House passed it.

Hypocrisy Charge Made.

"How can the people have confidence in a party whose leadership, from the man in the White House down to the head of the committee in this chamber, practices hypocrisy? You knew that all the spuriousness, deception, and hypocrisy which you prated to the country was but a sham. It has been disclosed by this action."

Reading from newspaper dispatches that the stock market had declined, Senator Harrison said: "That tells the story."

"But they are up again today," interjected Senator Smoot.

Senator Robinson suggested that Smoot explain this statement, but Senator Harrison said he wouldn't press the matter as "it might be embarrassing."

Senator Smoot said he had been informed just ten minutes previously that the market had begun to climb again.

"Perhaps that was White House information again, and it was wrong," the Mississippian retorted.

Liners on Atlantic Pace To Beat Higher Tariff

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—It's full steam ahead for Atlantic liners on the westward run, for a race is on to bring in as many ships as possible before President Hoover signs the tariff bill.

Captains of many liners were instructed by their home offices today to make every effort to get their papers to the customs house at the earliest possible moment. The cargoes of ships that clear their papers before the bill is signed will not be subject to the new tariff, even though the goods are still in the hold when the President acts. The new duties will be levied against the cargo of ships, even if they dock before the bill is signed, if the papers have not been through customs at that time.

A. C. Fetterolf, president of the International Mercantile Marine Co., said today that a matter of a few minutes might mean thousands of dollars additional duty under the new rates.

The general hurry was reflected in the speed with which the masters of the Westerniand and the Minnetonka, of the Atlantic Transport Line, got their papers to the customs house after landing this morning.

Manufacturers Praise Tariff Bill Signature

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—A joint statement issued today by John E. Edgerton, of Lebanon, Tenn., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and H. L. Derby, New York, chairman of the association's tariff committee, said that President Hoover's signature to the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill will bring "a breath of relief to all industry and all business."

"The new law," the statement said, "for the first time in the history of the country, should result in taking the tariff out of log-rolling and political manuvering and relieve business from the disastrous effects of general revisions for years to come."

Ring Valued at $325 Stolen.

Police yesterday afternoon were investigating the theft of an oblong-shaped dinner ring set with 36 diamonds reported stolen from the bedroom of the apartment of Katherine Balle, of 1341 Connecticut avenue, yesterday. The ring was valued at $325.

Edison Household Divided On Primary's Rum Issue

Inventor's Son Believes Father, and Perhaps Mother, Will Vote for Fort, While 10 Others in Menage Probably Will Go to Morrow.

West Orange, N. J., June 16 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—The political current in the Edison family is alternating. It emanates variously from wet and dry cells. After Thomas A. Edison's declaration that he would vote tomorrow for Representative Franklin W. Fort, dry candidate for the New Jersey senatorial nomination, conflicting statements have been made about the selections of other members of the Edison menage.

Mrs. Roy V. Wright, State chairman of the woman's division of the Morrow campaign committee, announced today that ten members of the Edison family have promised to vote for Ambassador Morrow and that Thomas Edison's will be the lone Fort vote.

That is less than accurate, according to the inventor's son, Charles Edison, head of the Edison interests in West Orange. The younger Edison gave out a statement at the Edison laboratories here today setting forth that some members of the family are voting for Morrow, some are undecided and that his mother would probably join Thomas A. Edison in casting a dry vote for Fort, even if she was one of the original members of the Morrow-for-senator movement in the calm days before the ambassador declared against prohibition.

"The only thing I know," Charles Edison said, "is that we took a straw ballot among the members of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison were undecided. They are just wondering what they are going to do. Mrs. Edison and myself—that is, Mrs. Charles Edison—are for Morrow, but that has nothing to do with prohibition. With both father and mother the dry issue seems to stand out. Of course, Mr. Edison (the father) is with Fort and most likely mother also. The primary has caused considerable discussion among the members of the Edison family, but to say that father is the only one who is going to vote for Fort, well, that just isn't so. It's rather using the imagination."

DAWES, AT CAPITOL, PUSHES NAVAL PACT

Proponents Cheered in Spite of Delay Expected in Reporting Treaty.

DATA STILL ARE SOUGHT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Developments yesterday in the naval treaty fight were encouraging to the pact's proponents despite prospect of further delay in reporting the treaty to the Senate. They were as follows:

First—Charles G. Dawes, American Ambassador to Great Britain, spent most of the day with senators at the Capitol and sought to inject new life into the fight for speedy ratification.

Second—President Hoover told Senator Watson, the Republican leader, that the special session to consider the treaty would be called the day after the regular session ends.

Third—The foreign relations committee postponed yesterday's meeting but will meet today, and Senator Borah, chairman, will be relied upon by the administration to carry out directions for an early solution of the so-called secret documents issue and for reporting the treaty to the Senate.

Requests to Be Renewed.

Fourth—Requests for action by the committee with a view to vindicating the Senate's right to obtain all information on treaty-making will be renewed under circumstances which do not promise success. But Mr. Borah will be asked to permit members of the committee to prepare minority reports, and a suggestion may be made today to have the committee call Ambassador Dawes as a witness and enlist his aid in the secret-document controversy.

Mr. Dawes knows all about the secret documents. He took the initiative in arranging for the visit of Prime Minister MacDonald to America last fall. Whatever highly confidential exchanges occurred incident to this visit or to the Anglo-American discussions resulting in the abandonment of America's cruiser policy, it is understood that Ambassador Dawes is one of the very few persons having the data.

Senators realize that it would be unfair to Ambassador Dawes to ask him to disclose confidential information without the permission of Secretary Stimson, especially since Mr. Stimson has himself taken the position that such information should be withheld from the committee. But it is felt by some members of the committee that Mr. Dawes may have some valuable suggestions as to how to end the unfortunate impasse between the State Department and the committee. As mediator between Secretary Stimson and the Senate committee, Mr. Dawes might be able to render genuine service, it is suggested.

Dawes and Borah Confer.

Senator Borah and Mr. Dawes conferred about the treaty yesterday. The ambassador had lunch with Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, who is acting as one of the administration's key men in overcoming opposition to the pact.

When the committee meets today the question of reporting the treaty to the Senate will come up for decision. Even if the majority are ready to adopt a report favoring the pact the question of minority reports will have to be disposed of. As a matter of courtesy to senators at work on minority reports the committee will probably delay reporting out the treaty until these reports have been completed.

Senator Robinson, of Indiana, yesterday precipitated a short exchange on the floor over the treaty when he put The Post's editorial of yesterday in the Record. Senator Reed immediately asked that Secretary Stimson's radio speech of last Thursday, criticizing naval officers for opposing the pact, be included. Senator Hiram Johnson interrupted to say that the Stimson speech was already in the Record. Mr. Reed thereupon withdrew his request and the incident ended.

Camper's Body Found In Shallow Stream

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 16.—When he went to wash his hands in the Buckhannon River at a camp near Carrolton in Upshur County, Joseph Herrick, 22, a novelty salesman of this city, either dropped dead of a heart attack or was drowned yesterday. His lifeless body was found face downward in a few inches of water.

The victim was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Herrick, of this city.

Concert Offered By Young Pupils

Piano Students Taught by Mrs. R. J. Manning Please Audience.

The annual piano concert was presented by pupils of Mrs. Routt Johnson Manning last night in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church at Columbia Road and Fourteenth street.

Fourteen-year-old Constance Russell, well known as a radio artist over station WRC, sustained her artistic reputation. The playing of Miss Maxine Duel also won distinction for her, especially when she took part in a joint Liszt number with Miss Russell.

Training as well as ability was evidenced in Casson Crittenden's playing of "Loreley" and Miss Amanda Chittum's interpretation of several Scotch melodies. The junior pupils, comprised of Barbara Thal, Barbara Culley, Harrie Borjes, Mary Ann Somervell and Judith de Lima executed several melodies. They were introduced by 10-year-old Clark Hawkins and 11-year-old Darragh Nagle, who played difficult numbers with credit.

Yancey Is Unreported In Flight Over Chile

Santiago, Chile, June 16 (A.P.).—Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, American flyer, had not arrived here at a late hour tonight, although he had been expected before 6 p. m.

Capt. Yancey left Antofagasta this morning. The government called on radio stations and telegraph companies to seek reports of the American.

Four Policemen Hurt In Berlin Red Clash

Berlin, June 16 (A.P.).—Four policemen were injured tonight in a clash with Communists who were demonstrating in the Lustgarten opposite the former kaiser's palace.

When the Communists refused to disperse a policeman fired and seriously wounded one demonstrator. The others retaliated by attacking the officers.

JULY 8 WILL MARK NEW ROAD OPENING

Ritchie Expected to Attend Exercises at Church in Bladensburg.

GRADUATION RITES HELD

Date of the celebration which will mark the opening of River road from Defense highway at Bladensburg to Kenilworth, D. C., has been postponed to July 8, it was announced at a meeting of the committee in charge last night. The change was made so that the many citizens who asked for reservations could be accommodated, accordnig to Robert W. McCullough, chairman of the committee in charge.

The road-opening exercises are being held under the auspices of the Greater Bladensburg District Citizens Association, and will be held in the parish hall of St. Luke's Episcopal Church at Bladensburg at 8 o'clock.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland has signified his intention of attending. An informal reception will be held at the home of Mr. McCullough on River road, at which the governor will greet citizens of the neighborhood. State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, of Prince Georges County, also has been asked to speak.

The Rev. Calvert Buck, superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital of Washington, was the principal speaker at graduation exercises held last night at the Marlboro High School. Diplomas were presented by County Superintendent of Schools Nicholas Oren. Forrest Blunt, principal, introduced the speakers.

Beulah May Beall was awarded the gold medal given by the Marlboro branch of the Southern Maryland Trust Company for the best all-around student. The Prince Georges County Chapter, D. A. R., medal for the student most proficient in United States history was awarded to Frederick A. Straining, Jr.

Diplomas were awarded to:

Academic—Beulah May Beall, John William Radcliffe Branch, Adeline Clagett Burroughs, Mary Trimble Gaddis, Frederick Sasscer, Frederick A. Straining, Jr., Andrew Joseph Wyvill.

Dipuomas were awarded at Bowie to the following: Elsie Mae Brown, Mary Theresa Fladung, Elizabeth Mary Hance, Alice Helen Taylor, Mary Elizabeth Thomas, James Arthur Kelbaugh, Warren Claude Suthard.

Lynchburg Man Hurt When Struck by Auto

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., June 16.—B. W. Casey, of this city, was hurt about midnight last night on the Natural Bridge road half a mile from Lynchburg when he was struck by an automobile driven by Stuart Camden, of Roanoke. Camden came to police headquarters, reported the accident, and told police where they would find an injured man. He said he thought the man was trying to hold him up and he did not stop because he was unarmed. Casey apparently tried to stop Camden to get a ride to the city.

At Lynchburg Hospital it was found he had a compound fracture of his left leg and probable internal hurts about his chest and head.

Boston Educator Talks To Mt. Savage Seniors

Mount Savage, Md., June 16.—The annual commencement of Mt. Savage High School took place tonight in the school auditorium, inaugurating the final week of activities for high schools of Allegany County. Dr. Adams Puffer, director of Beacon Boys Bureau, Boston, delivered the address to the class, and the diplomas were distributed by Ferman G. Pugh, president of the Allegany County Board of Education. County Superintendent Charles L. Kopp also took part in the program.

Maryland Doctor Hurt In Automobile Accident

Dr. William Benson, of Nealsville, Md., 60 years old, was critically injured in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon on the Gaithersburg highway, near Rockville, Md. His car ran into a culvert while he was driving alone.

A passing motorist took him to the office of Dr. C. E. Hawks, in Rockville. His injuries comprised several broken ribs, a punctured lung, and severe bruises. Dr. Benson, who operates an insurance agency in Washington, was later taken to Sibley Hospital. His condition was said to be critical.

Mrs. Cora Bailey Expires.

Lynchburg, Va., June 16 (Special).—Mrs. Cora P. Bailey, 63, wife of George O. Bailey, died Saturday night at her home, 1310 Twelfth street, where she had been ill six weeks. She is survived by her husband, four children, two brothers and three sisters, among whom are W. G. Lyons and Mrs. J. L. Lyons, of Newport News.

Rector's Resignation Accepted.

Lynchburg, Va., June 16 (Special).—St. John's Episcopal Church, acting upon recommendation of the vestry, yesterday accepted the resignation of the Rev. Thomas M. Browne as rector. Mr. Browne recently suffered a nervous breakdown and is resting now at his former home at Haymarket.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5 p. m. to noon today.

Vice President Curtis signed the tariff bill.

Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, declared that failure to dispose of the Muscle Shoals problem at this session would be "conclusive evidence that the administration prefers that the Government lose $4,000,000 a year rather than that one kilowatt of power from Muscle Shoals be sold to municipalities."

Confirmed the nominations of Miss Bess Goodykoontz, of Iowa, to be Assistant Commissioner of Education; Edward T. Franks, of Kentucky, to succeed himself as a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and Charles E. Allen to be United States marshal for the Western District of Washington.

Adopted a resolution calling upon the State Department to inform the Senate by what law it assumes "to approve or disapprove" the proposed flotation in this country of $100,000,000 of reparations bonds through the International Bank.

Adopted the Couzens resolution authorizing investigation of railroad consolidations and their effect upon the public interest.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5 p. m. to noon today.

Passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing the Treasury to construct a $650,000 Coast Guard vessel for use on the Great Lakes.

Adopted the Senate resolution to authorize the Postmaster General to accept the bid of the Mississippi Shipping Co. to carry mail between United States gulf ports and the east coast of South America.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Luce resolution to establish a commission of fifteen for participation of the Federal Government in the 300th anniversary celebration of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Chairman Britten, of the naval committee, announced that selection of the site for the proposed $5,000,000 west coast dirigible base has been postponed until December.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Knutson bill to make the pension laws applicable to the Coast Guard.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Drane bill authorizing an additional judge for the Southern District of Florida.

Chairman Graham, of the judiciary committee, announced that he intends to try to have the House pass the Senate bill for two additional judges for the Northern District of Illinois before the session ends.

Chairman Hickey, of the special committee authorized to investigate the official conduct of Judge Harry B. Anderson, of the Western District of Tennessee, called a meeting for this afternoon.

Committee investigating Communists found that the United States is powerless to deport Russians because of lack of relations between the countries.

Passed the Smoot-Elliott bill to enlarge the Natural History Building of the National Museum. It now goes to the President.

Seventh Candidate In Eighth Virginia

John M. Daniel Enters Race for Congress as Strict Prohibitionist.

Richmond, Va., June 16 (A.P.).—Another candidate for Congress in the Eighth Virginia District, in addition to the five Democrats and one Republican already mixing it there, has announced through Gov. John Garland Pollard. He is John M. Daniel, who made known his intentions from Stafford Court House.

In a communication addressed to the governor the candidate, who apparently has not allied himself with any party, declares he is "the only candidate that makes a public declaration that he is an uncompromising prohibitionist." Such he says in a third person statement on the views of John M. Daniel, "is the platform, on which he stands, and the men and women voters in his district will elect him for their congressman in the November election, 1930. The prohibition law is no Volstead, no one-man act, no experiment, but the act of our wise Congress, recorded in our Constitution for the benefit of present and future generations."

No advices concerning Mr. Daniel's candidacy had been received today by John M. Purcell, State treasurer, to whom it is necessary to pay registration fees.

Purcellville Station Employe Succumbs

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., June 16.—Custer E. Clark, 52 years of age, for a number of years an employe of the Washington & Old Dominion Railway station in Purcellville, died Sunday night at 9 o'clock from a stroke of paralysis which he suffered that afternoon. He is the son of the late Lewis P. Clark, of Purcellville. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. John Davis, of Purcellville; his stepfather, three sisters, Mrs. Florence Tucker, Mrs. E. H. Seaton, and Mrs. Ellwood Hampton, all of Washington, D. C.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, from his late residence, the Rev. C. T. Taylor and the Rev. O. L. Gochenour officiating. Interment will be at Vienna, Va.

Tea House Fought By Citizens Group

Chevy Chase Gardens Body Fourteenth to Oppose Proposed Resort.

Opposition to the proposed establishment of a tea house in Wisconsin avenue, between Hunt avenue and Langdrum lane, was registered last night by the Chevy Chase Gardens Citizens Association at a meeting in Somerset School. Action of the association increased the number of protesting organizations to fourteen. The section in which the house is located is in a restricted residential area.

The association also discussed the removal of alleged insanitary conditions said to be existing in a lot near Hunt and Wisconsin avenue. Members of the association will consult with the Health Department and the owner of the property.

On June 23, the association will hold its first annual dinner at Olney Inn, Olney, Md., it was announced.

Plenty of Ice Whenever You Need It

Great chunks of ice, clear as the purest crystal, ready to drop into big, friendly pitchers or hospitable beverage shakers. Chunks that chill without melting so fast that they dilute the contents of the pitcher. Plenty of ice whenever it is needed.

—That is one of the reasons why the American Iceman is so popular these days. People want real ICE for festive occasions. And they want it delivered on time. The calls of the American Iceman are as carefully scheduled as the arrivals and departures of passenger trains. And the quality of this pure, sparkling ice needs no press agent.

BOATS, AEROS, HUNT FOR EIGHT ON LAKE

Tow Rope of Speed Craft Occupied by Prominent Toledo Men Cut.

CAPITAL MAN IN PARTY

Toledo, Ohio, June 16 (A.P.).—Many hours of searching Lake Erie and its islands by boats and airplanes had failed tonight to discover the mysterious fate of eight prominent Toledoans who disappeared Saturday while riding in a speedboat to Pelee Island.

Whether the men were alive tonight—marooned on some island—or whether they perished in an accident to their boat, was undetermined.

Examination today of the speedboat, which was discovered yesterday, floating upright, added new queerness to the mystery. Its tow rope had been severed as if by a knife. "Did some one cut it deliberately to set the craft adrift from some island?" was the question that came into the minds of the searchers. It remained, however, as unanswered as the rest of the enigma.

Glass Wings Broken.

The glass wings of the boat's windshield were broken, the propeller was bent and there was tar on the propeller shaft as if the boat had hit some sunken derelict or other obstruction.

The inside of the boat was dry. The power plant was still in gear. Three of the eight life preservers were missing.

Occupants of the craft when it put out from Toledo Saturday were: Charles H. Nauts, internal revenue collector for the district; his son, Herbert, an attorney; Franklin B. Jones, former member of the Lucas County Board of Elections; Arthur Kruse, president of the Kruse-Burman Mortuary Co.; Frank Miller, former city water commissioner; Henry Heinbush, assistant county engineer; John Myers, pilot of the boat, and John Hipcock. They had intended to go to an Elks' picnic at Pelee Island.

Hunt on Again Today.

Lake boatsmen said it was possible the speedboat, traveling at its maximum speed of 55 miles an hour, might have struck some submerged object with an impact that would have thrown the men into the lake. They said, however, it seemed highly improbable that all eight would have been killed or drowned in this manner.

Although no trace was found of the missing Toledoans, the crew of one of four Coast Guard boats engaged in the search, reported finding the body of Norman Cuthbert, Detroit, who has been missing several months. Airplanes, Coast Guards and private yachts are to resume the search tomorrow.

Edwin M. Littin, Toledo boat manufacturer, said a tug bound for Buffalo, and towing barges, passed West Sister Island about the time that the Toledoans were in that neighborhood. It was considered plausible that the missing group was taken aboard this tug.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 16 (A.P.).—Hope that eight Toledo men, missing from a speedboat on Lake Erie, might have been rescued by a passing steamer bound for this city dwindled tonight. Navigation officials reported that no lake boat so far arriving at this port had seen anything of the men, missing since Saturday.

There still remained a possibility, lake men said, that a rescue was effected by some of the Hedger Barge Line boats.

One Former Washingtonian.

A well-known former resident of Washington is among the seven Toledo, Ohio, men for whom a wide search was under way yesterday after they disappeared from a speedboat in which they left Toledo Saturday. He is Herbert Nauts, 40 years old, who served here as a special attorney in the Bureau of Internal Revenue from 1919 until about 1924, when he began the private practice of law with offices in the Southern Building. He lived in Washington until about three ago, when he returned to engage in law practice in Toledo, where he lived before entering the Army and serving as an officer of artillery overseas in the World War.

He had a wide circle of friends here and was a member of the University Club, the Racquet Club and the Washington Golf and Country Club. He made his home here at the Benedict, 1808 I street northwest.

have to remember that they entered into a contract.

"In a contract you have to assume the obligations as well as the benefits. They are willing to accept the benefits—the $550,000 in raises—and they also ought to be willing to accept the obligations—the limiting amendments which the House wrote into the bill."

Present at the conference with Mr. Simmons were Sergt. Frank Varney, president of the Policemen's Association; Capt. Edward O'Connor, president of the Firemen's Association; Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, and Paul Malone, clerk of the District appropriations subcommittee.

The amendments which Mr. Simmons wrote into the bill over protests of the House District committee, and over protests of the city's civic and trade organizations, scale down raises for police and fire officials, cut the number of third-class privates who get the maximum raise automatically, increase retirement contributions, and kill the provision basing annuities of retired men on new salary rates.

When the bill reached the Senate, that body disagreed to the amendments and sent the bill to conference. Had the House also sent the bill to conference the amendments would have gone out. Representative Simmons knew this, and that is why he has kept it out of conference.

The deadlock over the District appropriation bill continued at the Capitol yesterday, with neither the Senate conferees nor the House conferees showing any evidence of yielding.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, the chief Senate conferee, insists that he and his colleagues will not approve the bill until the House agrees to a larger Federal contribution.

House Remains Adamant.

The Senate advocates a $12,000,000 Federal contribution, and the House a $9,000,000 contribution.

While the senators are willing to agree on a compromise figure, however, the representatives refuse to approve anything more than $9,000,000.

Senator Bingham had expected to submit a report to the Senate yesterday announcing that the conference had failed, but he had to hold it up because two of the House conferees, Representative Holaday (Republican), of Illinois, and Cannon (Democrat), of Missouri, were out of the city and thus could not sign it.

Optometrist Gets Token and Fellowship at Boston Meeting.

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., June 16.—Award of the gold medal of the Distinguished Service Foundation for Optometry and a fellowship of the foundation to Dr. Edwin H. Silver, of Washington, D. C., today marked the opening session of the American Optometric Association, in convention here. The presentation of the medal and fellowship was made by Dr. Samuel W. Stratton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on behalf of the foundation.

Award of this honor to Dr. Silver, according to the citation accompanying the medal, was for distinguished service in connection with the work of the motor vision commission of the association, of which the Washington man is chairman. "Dr. Silver has made a distinct contribution to national safety, with consequent saving of human life," the citation said.

Founded by Dr. George S. Houghton, of Boston, the Distinguished Service Foundation was established to offer a reward to physicians, engineers, optometrists and others who make any contribution to the betterment of eyesight for the human race.

Farmer Mistakes Wife For Thief; Slays Her

Church Point, La., June 16 (A.P.). Fernest Thibodeaux, a farmer, heard a noise in his chicken yard early today and reached for his shotgun.

By the dim light of early dawn, he could see a person moving about near the chicken house. Taking careful aim, he fired.

A body fell to the ground without an outcry. Thibodeaux ran forward and peered down into the upturned face. It was his wife, killed instantly by a load of birdshot. She, too, had heard the noise and had gone into the yard to investigate.

Crash Kills War Mother On Way to Son's Grave

Sandusky, Ohio, June 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. R. E. Renfro, of Carbondale, Ill., a war mother who was en route to France to visit battlefields where her son fought in the World War, was killed today when her automobile collided with another car 4 miles west of Bellevue, Ohio. She was driving to New York for embarkation.

Two companions, Dr. Mary Stegal, professor in a teachers' school near Carbondale, and Mrs. Melissa Hodge, also of Carbondale, were seriously injured. Mrs. William Kayser, another companion, escaped injury.

Office of Miami Lawyer in Perjury Case Entered; Affidavits Read.

Miami, Fla., June 16 (A.P.).—Police tonight continued their investigation into reports that the office of Richard H. Hunt, Miami attorney, was entered over the week-end by persons believed to be seeking evidence collected by the attorney in perjury cases now pending trial against "Scarface" Al Capone.

Hunt said he believed the entry, made through another office in a down building, had been made by persons seeking originals of the evidence against Capone. He told police his office safe had been opened, and $140 in cash had not been taken. He said a large roll of carbon copies of affidavits and other papers in connection with the perjury charges against the gangster had been gone through by the invader, or invaders. None of the papers was taken, however.

Capone, arrested Saturday on the perjury charges, made bond of $14,000 for four warrants. George McCaskill, county solicitor, said today he thought the cases might be brought to trial next week.

Julian Lamar Wins in Suit With Charges Against Society Woman.

Reno, Nev. June 16 (A.P.).—Julian Lamar, portrait painter, was granted a divorce here today from Lucy H. K. Lamar, New York society woman and artist.

Mrs. Lamar did not appear in the case. Lamar charged that his wife was of a jealous nature and that she interfered with his work and even intimated that he was not visiting the homes of wealthy patrons for the purpose of painting portraits.

He said she was extravagant and put him deeply into debt, that she opened his mail and extracted checks therefrom and withdrew funds from a joint savings account, leaving him only a small balance. In fits of anger, he said, she would slap his face and pull his hair. The Lamars married March 10, 1920, and separated in 1928.

Bargain Throng Breaks Window; 10 Injured

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Ten persons were hurt and a dozen fainted when part of a bargain hunting throng of 1,500 women pushed through a plate glass window in Brooklyn today.

The crowd was in front of a shop advertising coats and hats at $1 each. Police reserves struggled to keep the throng in check. Impatient and stifled by the heat, the women suddenly surged forward and splintered the window. Two girls were taken to a hospital severely lacerated.

Fleeing Student Shot After Alleged Insult

Atlanta, Ga., June 16 (A.P.).—Dennis Hawlitt, a Negro student at Morehouse College here, was shot to death yesterday after he was said to have insulted a white woman and today police were holding three men for questioning.

Witnesses said a white man leaped from an automobile, in which there were two other persons and shot Hawlitt as he fled. Police did not disclose the names of the men held.

that McLaughlin's was thrown there, Coroner E. A. Klingstone said. An autopsy was ordered to determine whether death was caused by bullets.

Roche said Bennett came here to deal with Moran but quarreled with him instead and gave his trade to the gang led by "Scarface Al" Capone. This, Roche said, might have led Moran interests to kill Bennett and Moran or some of his followers might have been killed in return.

It appeared that the elaborate efforts to prevent identification would prove successful, Coroner Kingston said.

A county grand jury was ordered today by Denis J. Normoyle, chief justice of the criminal court.

"When the gunmen go beyond their guerrilla warfare and attack the ranks of private citizens," said Judge Normoyle, "it is time to curb them. Gangsters are not only a menace to this community but a disgrace to the whole United States. The city's reputation has been injured and it is up to us to act."

Chief Justice Normoyle alluded to the daylight assassination a week ago today of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, whose killer remains unknown, although the retiring detective chief intimated as he packed his uniform and started for his new post, a captaincy at an outlying station, that the police "know more than the public supposes" about the murder.

Business Leaders Meet.

Meanwhile business leaders met secretly at the Association of Commerce and voted to enlarge the "secret six" committee investigating the reign of crime to sixteen men representative of various business groups, and to increase its scope of activities and fatten its purse.

Commissioner Russell, the veteran of thirty years in the department—he worked up through the ranks from patrolman in 1900 to commissioner in 1928—smiled as though relieved when he told the reporters of his resignation, but reminisced a little sadly of the vain war he had waged for two years. His own regime had coincided with the regime of the machine gunners. Against the deadly patter of vendetta bullets he had opposed the routine roundup of hoboes and gangsters and gun toters—and lost. In less than six months this year thirty-nine men have fallen victim of gang guns—none has been avenged by an indictment, much less a court conviction.

Both Blame Prohibition.

Russell and Stege alike blamed prohibition for the situation. Russell, too, complained of an inadequate force, necessitated, he said, by the impoverished city treasury.

"I am an illustration of man's inhumanity to man," he said, "but I have mounted insurmountable obstacles. By that I mean prohibition and I don't care who knows it."

Stege told the police committee he regretted leaving the detective bureau before he could solve the Lingle murder. Then he sidetracked to tell his theories of crime.

"We did the best we could," he said. "There has not been one conviction of one gangster for killing another since prohibition went into effect except in Chicago, and in that case the supreme court reversed the decision of the jury. In another case there was positive identification, but the jury turned the defendant loose."

"All over the United States, prohibition is responsible for all of this."

May Name Successor at Once.

John Alcock, deputy commissioner, will act as commissioner until a successor to Russell is appointed, and Capt. John Egan will succeed Stege temporarily. Mayor Thompson, still silent, is expected to send a nomination for commissioner to the city council Wednesday.

Stege will be eligible to retire on a pension after serving nine more years in the police department. He was once discharged from the department on the charge that he had sworn falsely when he made application for a job, but after a long court fight he was reinstated.

It was brought out during his trial that Stege had killed a man in defense of his mother when he was 15 years old. Testimony disclosed he had served about six months in Pontiac for the killing, and that he had been granted a full pardon by Charles S. Deneen, then governor and now United States senator from Illinois.

(Associated Press.)

Any campaign for suppression of gangster activity in Chicago certainly will have the moral support of Ambassador Dawes but he yesterday disclaimed any plan for active work to that end.

Leaving the White House, he said he had not been consulted on any proposal for him to lead in such a movement. He deplored crime conditions in the Illinois metropolis.

Mr. Dawes lives in Evanston, just outside of Chicago, and is going there today to stay about a month. His business will be in connection with the 1933 world's fair there.

He brought with him from London Sir Henry Cole, director of foreign affairs and expositions in the British foreign office, who will aid the fair's work.

dicted for attempting to defraud the United States and for failure to pay income taxes and concealment of assets.

He was convicted on all the charges on April 25.

Judge Wilkerson today denied defense motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment and sentenced Capone to three years in the Federal prison at Leavenworth and to two years in the Cook County Jail and two $10,000 fines. The jail sentence was ordered suspended, however, to be enforced only in the event the other sentence is set aside by a higher court.

Capone had another new experience today—spending the day locked up in the bull pen in the United States marshal's office. Judge Wilkerson decreed that, pending an appeal, Capone should furnish a new bond of $35,000.

Capone, bewildered and stunned by the sentence, was immediately locked up and held until late today, when the additional bond was posted.

This was said to be the first time that Ralph Capone has ever been convicted. His broher, Al, however, spent nearly a year in jail at Philadelphia for carrying concealed weapons, being released last February, and is now in controversy with officials of Miami, Fla., who seek to have him ejected.

At Ralph's trial, Government witnesses testified he apparently was doing a large business in bootlegging beer at $55 a barrel, since a large portion of the $1,871,000 deposited in his several different accounts was largely composed of checks for $55, or its multiples.

Capone countered with testimony to show that he was a pauper and that even the $1,000 he had offered the Government as a compromise would have to be raised among friends.

sion that it might be vetoed is not believed to be warranted.

It was Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, who insisted that the Senate be ready to vote on the President's veto of the veterans' bill and he was joined by Senator La Follette. Senator McNary agreed that there should be this vote, but he expressed confidence that the bill could be passed today. It is doubtful if the rivers and harbors bill will be disposed of by that time.

Another possible money wrench in the machinery appeared in the plan of Senators Ashurst and Hayden, of Arizona, to filibuster against the deficiency appropriation bill because of the Boulder Dam appropriation.

The leaders were looking around, however, with a view to applying cloture to head off this delay.

It is understood for that matter that Senator Watson, Republican leader, told Mr. Hoover at a breakfast conference that there was little likelihood of the Senate being ready to adjourn this week, and similarly to have told Speaker Longworth of the House that it was a little too early to agree upon preparation of an adjournment resolution.

Father Loses His Life As Two Sons Drown

Cincinnati, June 1 (A.P.).—Three persons, a father and his two sons, were drowned today in the Ohio River at Fernbank Dam, near here. The victims were John H. Mayer and his sons, Jack, 13, and William, 11.

The trio had been picking blackberries along the river bank and then went swimming. It was believed the father died in an unsuccessful attempt to save his sons from drowning.

Strives to Make His Thesis "Perfectly Clear" to Lay Listeners.

VOICES FAITH IN BELIEFS

will remain as the only theory representing reality."

All ideas of light, time, the ether and related phenomena, the scientist declared, will be absorbed in the all-inclusive concert of space.

He said the theory had "eliminated from the ether the last vestige of materiality."

Dr. Einstein's hearers, with the exception of the scientists, seemed unable to comprehend his words and so he went over some of his exposition, so that his new theory might be made "perfectly clear."

The space idea was the one he said recently he had evolved while ill in bed. "He said if one compared two elements in space they were regarded only as to size. He said there was a further element—you can also compare those elements in the matter of direction."

Space, Dr. Einstein said, must be regarded as primary and matter as secondary, being derived from it. His new theory holds that space, having originated matter, now has turned around and is eating it up—"having its revenge."

Alludes to Greeks.

In his early remarks, Prof. Einstein said:

"While it is illogical to rely upon the senses, and their reactions, for building up a theory of the physics of the universe, nevertheless, since men are human, all theories must be based in some degree upon the experiences of their senses.

"In pre-scientific days thinking of a finite world of solid bodies formed the base of the first attempts to reduce the sense of men's experiences to a logical system.

"The Greeks thought in terms of the relative positions of solid bodies and built their mathematics upon a few elements such as the point, the plane, the line, and distance.

Explanation of Relativity.

"They dealt with solid objects and their relative positions. To Descartes is given the credit for first introducing the idea of continuous space. This, added to Newton's mechanics, made a fairly complete conception of Descartian space.

"At that moment space became a physical reality. Next came studies of light and the introduction of the concert of the ether. To this was added the destroying influence of the Faraday and Maxwell electromagnetic fields. These fields could not be included in the Newtonian concert of ponderable matter and a ponderable ether."

Relativity, as Dr. Einstein used the word, means that there is no possibility of measuring absolute time, distance or mass. Mr. Einstein had been working on a solution of the correlation between the laws of electricity and those of gravitation.

Space Loses Character.

"No absolute character can be ascribed to speed, to acceleration or to the idea of an inertial system in nature, the system of which nature opposes change of motion or deflects or reverses motion," he said.

"A complete relativity theory," Dr. Einstein said, "must embrace all Gaussian (magnetic) measurement and coordinate systems in a four-dimensional space. Space thus loses its absolute character."

Until Dr. Einstein developed his relativity theory it had been believed that time and space existed of themselves, even if there were nothing else—no sun, no moon, no stars.

Voiced Faith in Self.

Dr. Einstein recently said, seemingly referring to his theory of relativity, that his colleagues were not in agreement with him on certain points, and even went to the extent of considering him mentally unbalanced.

"Nevertheless," he said, "I have faith in the path I am traveling, and although my theory is not yet finished I have evidence that, so far as I can judge, the end is near."

He made the statement in the course of a public talk at University College, Nottingham, England, at which time he announced the theory of space he related here today.

Final Plans Approved for Church President Is Expected to Attend.

Philadelphia, June 16 (A.P.).—The Quaker meeting house to be erected in Washington, which President and Mrs. Hoover are expected to attend, will be finished about Thanksgiving Day.

Walter F. Price, Philadelphia architect, said today that plans have received final approval. The principal contributor to the erection of the meeting house is a New England woman whose name has been withheld. Mr. Price returned today from a final conference with her in Rhode Island.

The new building will be erected on ground between Decatur place and Phelps place and Florida avenue, and will cost between $50,000 and $60,000.

TWO WHO ESCAPED FAIRFAX JAIL TAKEN

Officials Surprise Pair as They Sleep Soundly in Hayfield.

COUPLE STILL MISSING

Surprised by officers as they slumbered in a hayfield, two of the four prisoners who escaped from the Fairfax, Va., Jail late Saturday, were taken into custody yesterday near Manassas. They are Nicholas Breeden, of Washington, awaiting trial for assault, and William Parrigan, of Alexandria, indicted for assault and robbery.

Learning that Breeden had relatives in the vicinity of Manassas, Sheriff E. P. Kirby of Fairfax County went to the home of the fugitive's brother-in-law late Sunday night, accompanied by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and Constable Mike Lynch, of Prince William County.

While searching thickets near the farm of Dick Hinson early yesterday, Sheriff Kirby noticed a white object in a nearby field. Approaching cautiously, with drawn gun, the officer found Breeden and Parrigan sleeping soundly. The prisoners were returned to the Fairfax Jail, from which they had escaped by prying bricks from the wall with an iron bar.

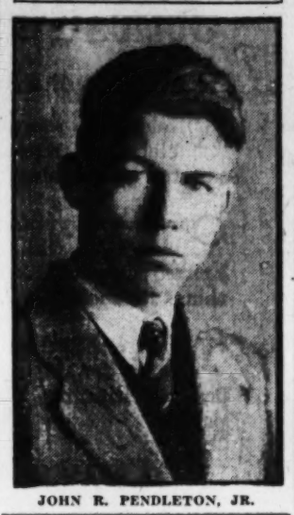

The two men still at large are Taylor Edwards, 47, of Clifton Station, Va., and Edward Maddox, 30, of Occotink, Va. Edwards was indicted for assault with a dangerous weapon and Maddox was serving a six months' term for drunk and disorderly conduct.

Priest Fined on Charge Of Owning Brandy Still

Schuyler, Neb., June 16 (A.P.).—The Rev. Antone Folta, 45, pastor of Holy Trinity Church, at Huen, today was fined $500 and given a suspended jail sentence of one year after he pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing a liquor still. The priest was paroled to his attorney by District Judge F. L. Spear.

Father Folta was arrested by deputy sheriffs last week after they found a still near his parish home. In a statement after his arrest the priest said he operated the still to have "brandy" for his friends and not for commercial purposes.

The Iron Gate Inn Serves Daily Luncheon

—from 12 to 3. You will find plenty of parking space around the Iron Gate Inn, 1734 N street. You enter through a paved courtyard, for all the world like places in Paris. There is a garden, there is a second-floor loft, there is the cool breezy interior on the ground floor. A chicken salad luncheon is especially popular. The dinner menu includes roast turkey every night. Luncheons are from 50 cents up. Dinners are from $1.00. This is one place which serves until 8:30, which is pleasant, for who in the world wants to always dine early on a lovely summer night?

Dancing on the Willard Roof

—has become the most popular diversion of the present moment. Meyer Davis music and the famous Willard Hotel cuisine have proven too great a combination to resist. If you haven't been up there you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

The entire room has been redone in the most divine shade of blue; blue hangings at the windows and blue slipcovers on the chairs. With white table linen and sparkling glass and silver, the effect is too cool and lovely for words. Through the great windows one glimpses across the green tree tops the Lincoln Memorial, the waters of the Potomac, the new Arlington Bridge. The summer breezes waft through the spacious room. It is extremely pleasant.

The cuisine at the Willard is too famous to need comment. Meyer Davis Orchestra plays for both luncheon and dinner. There is dancing from 7 to 9:30. Table d'hote luncheons are $1.50. Dinners are $2.50. A la carte service is, of course, always available.

—have been reduced in price again, so that beginning today you may select the most adorable models at prices you never dreamed of. In fact street and afternoon gowns have been grouped with evening models at three prices, $28, $38 and $48.

There are also unusual reductions in coats and suits of irreproachable tailoring. Smart hats for all occasions are priced at $12.50 and $15.

The Misses Department On Second Floor

comes forth with new prices this morning, too, with everything in the department in three groups, marked at $12.50, $15 and $19.50. Some wonderful suits and coats in the Misses' section have been reduced to $25, with hats at $5, $10 and $15. Pasternak, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

Wheary Luggage at Camalier and Buckley

—includes a complete showing of the various types of trunks and bags made by this famous line. Wheary originated and made the first open-top wardrobe trunk. The famous Wardrola trunk is in this line. This opens so easily that a child can swing it open without the least difficulty. If you belong to the era which struggled with trunk lids, you will marvel at this.

Women's wardrobe hand luggage may be purchased at Camalier & Buckley's, beginning as low as $10. One of the models in this type of trunk has a wardrobe tray, which can be removed entirely, with ample space for either men's or women's hats, shoes and lingerie. This would be a perfect fortnight trunk, when you wanted to travel light.

Ask to see an ensemble of pigskin striped in two shades of brown. This is simply stunning. Camalier & Buckley, 1141 Connecticut avenue.

Great News About Schwartz's

—this morning! Dozens of charming models which have been priced as high as $25 have been marked down to $12.95, beginning today. This group includes flat crepes, crepe de chines, crepe failles in all the delightful colors you want to wear immediately.

Schwartz, 1325 Conn. Ave., is the place I have told you of so often, where you receive such courteous treatment, where you find always such a wide variety of styles, sizes and colors. I have more than once heard grateful, appreciative people say, "You'll find just what you want at Schwartz. They have everything." Imagine such frocks for $12.95.

Affectionately,

ELMER SPERRY DIES; APPLIED GYROSCOPE

Inventor of Plane Compass and Ship Stabilizer Operation Victim.

LONG ON NAVAL BOARD

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Elmer A. Sperry, perfector of the gyroscope, died today at St. John's Hospital.

In addition to his work on the gyroscope, he invented the gyro-compass airplane and ship stabilizer, high intensity searchlight, compound internal combustion engine, fire control apparatus and numerous special devices, many of them for the United States Navy. He had been a member of the naval consulting board since 1915.

Mr. Sperry underwent an operation several weeks ago and apparently was on the road to recovery when he had a relapse.

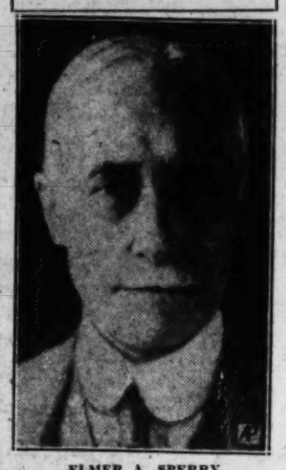

From his childhood in Cortland, N. Y., he had a predilection for mechanical toys. At his death he had filed 400 patents.

His inventions to him had distinct personalities and he spoke of them as "he," "that fellow," "that brute." In an interview recently he said:

"Take an ordinary engine," he said. "Here's a boy and a girl and they want to get married. They're the air and the gasoline in the cylinder. They chase each other around and then comes a spark. That's the parson."

Two years ago he disposed of his last business enterprise, the Sperry-Gyroscope Co., to the Curtiss Airplane Co., to devote his activities to research only. Previously he had sold his Sperry Electric Railway factory in Cleveland to the General Electric Co. Two sons and a daughter survive. Another son, coworker with his father on airplane devices, was killed when his experimental plane fell into the English Channel in December, 1923.

Bill to Provide $1,500,000 for Vollbehr Collection Nears Enactment.

The Collins bill authorizing $1,500,000 for the purchase of the celebrated Vollbehr collection of fifteenth century books for the Congressional Library moved nearer to enactment yesterday when it was approved by the Senate library committee. The House already has passed the measure.

The collection of Otto Vollbehr is one of the finest in the world. It consists of 3,000 items, including a Gutenberg Bible, printed on vellum.

The committee yesterday also approved a bill to authorize the citizens of Pennsylvania to erect a fountain on Pennsylvania avenue, and a resolution authorizing a monument in Manila to the late William Howard Taft, who at one time was Governor of the Philippine Islands.

Governor Aspirant Succumbs in Camp

Senator Joseph Had Defied Members of Oregon Supreme Court.

Camp Clatsop, Oreg., June 16 (A.P.). State Senator George W. Joseph, colorful figure in Oregon's public life, who won the Republican nomination for governor at the recent primary as a "vindication candidate," died suddenly here today of a blood clot on the heart.

Death came at the National Guard camp while he was talking to Maj. Gen. George A. White, with whom he was reviewing the 162d Regiment.

Mr. Joseph was 58 years old. He was born in a log cabin in the wilds of Modoc County, Calif., May 10, 1872. As a youth he was a sheep herder. He worked his way through school and acquired an education in law.

His political controversies brought Mr. Joseph sharply into conflict with members of the State supreme court, which body recently barred him from legal practice. A few moments after news of his death reached Salem, the State capital, his petition for a rehearing of the court's action, mailed last week, was received for filing. The court had offered to withdraw its order of disbarment if Senator Joseph apologize, but he refused.

Mr. Joseph was married and had one child, a daughter.

Bar Must Give Up Space In Building for Justices

After receiving a report Saturday from Joshua A. Brown, superintendent of construction in the office of the Capitol architect, David A. Lynn, Capitol architect, and two other assistants inspected the District Supreme Court building yesterday and decided that the entire space now used by the Bar Association of the District as a law library must go in order to make sufficient room for the housing of the two new justices recently authorized by Congress.

Mr. Brown, during his tour of the building Saturday, was of the opinion that only two-thirds of the law library space would be necessary. Mr. Lynn and his two assistants were accompanied by United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder.

Ford Seeks Equivalent Of U. S. Wage in Europe

(Associated Press.)

What a $7 a day man in Detroit does with his money has become the concern of a League of Nations agency and of the Department of Labor. It came about through Henry Ford's desire to have his workers in Europe enjoy the same standard of living as that of his employes in America.

He asked the international labor office at Geneva to help him and this office in turn asked the Labor Department to inform it how well the $7 a day Detroiter could live. It requested the sum be reduced to quantities and qualities of food, clothing, rent, luxuries and other things.

The results have been transmitted to Geneva and the labor office there is now interpreting them in terms of European living costs.

Boy, 9, Returns; Missing Two Days

Refuses to Tell Parents Where He Went After Leaving Home.

Lawrence Monroe Campbell, 9 years old, who absented himself from his home, 701 Fourth street northwest, for two nights, returned yesterday silent as to where he had been.

The boy, who became frightened at the thoughts of having several teeth extracted, left the Boys Club clinic Saturday and when he failed to return to his home a wide search was instituted.

He appeared at his classroom at the Gale School, and his teacher, learning that he had not been home, notified his parents. After eating a hearty meal he went to sleep.

It is believed the boy, who desired to spend the summer camping, but because of physical prequisite, the extraction of several teeth, would not be able to go, went camping alone and spent two nights and two days in the woods.

"I always recommend Palmolive ...for a very good reason"

says LINA CAVALIERI

Former opera star, now a celebrated Parisian beauty specialist

Unless the pores are freed of impurities, dirt, oil, make-up, serious blemishes appear. Olive oil, in soap, removes these accumulations gently and safely.

LINA CAVALIERI! Romantic figure in the world of opera; important figure, today, in the world of beauty culture. Born in Rome, Mme. Cavalieri was singing in opera in the great cities of Europe and America by the time she was 18. Today, she has turned to beauty culture, with salons not only in Paris, but in the smartest hotels of Europe's most fashionable resorts: The Hotel Carlton, Cannes; the Hotel Roseraie, Biarritz; Hotel de Paris, Monte Carlo, and another shop—opened last summer—at Le Touquet.

Madame Cavalieri's approval of Palmolive Soap is doubly important ... one might even say triply. For she speaks not only as a beauty expert and a former opera star but also as one of the world's most beautiful women. Therefore, when she finds Palmolive "safe, soothing, healthy for the skin" every woman must listen with interest.

Madame Lina Cavalieri's treatment

"Before retiring, of course, use Palmolive. Massage its lather gently into the skin of face and throat. Rinse with warm water, gradually changing to cold. Then, I advise the application of my Camphorated Jelly No. 5.

"In the morning, cleanse the skin thoroughly with this same soap. Then use my "Lotion Onctueuse" No. 7 before applying my cream No. 2 for neutral skins.

"By following this simple treatment, you will keep that schoolgirl complexion."

Go to the outstanding beauty specialists in any of Europe's leading cities—in any American city—and you will find every one of them recommends Palmolive Soap. A total of more than 23,000 professional beauty specialists advise their patrons to use this soap in preference to any other—for bath as well as face. Why?

Palmolive is made of the oils of palm and olives, famous for generations as the greatest natural cosmetic oils. Its color is the natural color of those same oils. It requires no heavy perfumes to mask rancid fat odors. Vegetable oil soaps are safest, most soothing, gentlest on the skin. Follow Lina Cavalieri's advice—use Palmolive.

"Ordinary soaps may cause serious irritation: if you have the mistaken notion that soap may harm your skin, it is because you are not using the right soap. Next time try Palmolive. I heartily advise it ... to keep skin smooth and lovely."

Lina Cavalieri
61, Avenue Victor Emmanuel III, Paris

Here is the exterior of Madame Cavalieri's famous salon at 61 Avenue Victor Emmanuel III. It will be recognized by travelers to Paris ... for it is one of the most pretentious salons in a city famed for its beauty shops.

Here is professional approval that means something. More than 23,000 of the world's beauty experts advise Palmolive.

THE NEW TARIFF LAW.

As promptly as possible President Hoover announced that he would sign the tariff bill. His review of the bill sweeps aside much popular misunderstanding, most of it deliberately injected by opponents of protection. Among the worst offenders against truth in tariff matters have been the selfish interests that are trying to induce foreign governments to grant them special tariff favors. These interests would not hesitate to injure or destroy other American businesses if by so doing they could sell more goods abroad. Many of them have been built up by the protective tariff; and now, after having reached the state where they are not in need of protection, they are not willing that American labor, industry or agriculture should have protection.

The new tariff law is strictly in line with the majority sentiment of the United States. It increases duties principally on agricultural products. It maintains duties in industries employing millions of men. It makes relatively few increases in industrial duties, and with all the political agitation against the bill no one has yet pointed out an increase that is unwarranted. The purpose of the bill is to stimulate production and to keep producers employed. Unless Americans can be employed productively they will not be heavy consumers of anything, however cheap. Employed at high wages, they are the greatest consumers in the world. Their purchases of foreign goods run into billions of dollars annually. No foreign country that can produce the raw materials required by America need fear the new tariff law.

Mr. Hoover takes pride in the fact that his insistence has brought about a great improvement in the mechanism which will make tariff readjustments flexible, by particular items and not by general revision. The turmoil attendant upon general tariff revisions is relished by nobody, and it is gratifying to see new legislation that will make general revision unnecessary for a long time to come.

The success of the flexible provision will depend largely upon the ability of the new Tariff Commission. Increased salaries will enable the President to obtain the services of capable men. He will select Democrats and Republicans in equal numbers. A recommendation by the Tariff Commission will necessarily be nonpartisan, and the spirit of the new law requires that the commission shall apply the protective principle. Improved methods of ascertaining the disparity between cost of production here and abroad will enable the commission to make prompt reports, upon which the President can readjust rates to meet changed conditions.

The Democratic party seems to believe that it can make the tariff a leading issue in forthcoming campaigns. To this end the spokesmen of the party have been indefatigable in their criticism of the new law. Many of them have gone contrary to their own party platform in trying to defeat a system that insures employment of American workingmen in preference to foreign workers. The American industrial system, which is the envy of all other nations, is based upon protection. The people have repeatedly, by overwhelming majorities, approved of protective tariffs. The new tariff law enlarges the protection afforded to agriculture, but does not otherwise materially differ from former tariffs. Therefore it does not seem probable that a successful attack can be made upon the tariff as a political issue.

GERMANY'S NEW ERA.

S. Parker Gilbert's final report as agent general for reparations payments takes the form of a warning to Germany to set her financial home in order. The Young plan has recently gone into effect. For the first time since the war Germany knows exactly the full extent of her international obligations, and for the first time the new republic controls its own finances. While the slate is clean the German people should take stock of their assets and liabilities and lay careful plans for the future.

Mr. Gilbert calls Germany's attention to the fact that her tendency is to spend more than is justified by her income. "Public revenues throughout the whole period of the Dawes plan have shown beyond a doubt that the necessary material for budgetary equilibrium exists and that under prudent administration the resources available to the budget would be ample to meet all legitimate requirements," he says. "What has been lacking," he adds, "is any determined effort to control public expenditures, and the result has been a constantly mounting level of expenditures exceeding even greatly increased revenues and culminating in the serious financial troubles of the past year."

Germany is not unlike other nations in that her politicians and her people sometimes seem to believe that public revenues flow from an inexhaustible horn of plenty. The German system of public finance, in which responsibility is divided as between the authority that collects the taxes and the authority that spends the money, may be faulty, as Mr. Gilbert suggests, but rectification of the system depends largely upon realization that public funds are not inexhaustible. The present Congress of the United States has been notable for the various and sundry proposals for spending public funds that have been placed before it and seriously considered. The British Parliament only recently was forced to raise taxes and approve other revenue-raising devices to meet the constantly increasing budget. Everywhere the tendency is to pour out public funds profusely. Germany is not the only nation needing a warning for extravagance.

But Germany is starting on a new epoch. In the past, says Mr. Gilbert, as a result of the depressing influence of tension in the public finances "producers and consumers have found it difficult to go ahead with their plans, and this hesitation has contributed materially to the decline in production and the falling off in trade, while capital which has otherwise been available for productive business and industry has been largely absorbed by the ever-pressing demands of the public authorities." Her debt reduced by the Young plan, Germany's progress will be accelerated if she will adjust her expenditures to her income. Mr. Gilbert's warning comes at an appropriate time. The good sense of the German people may be depended upon to command for it thorough consideration.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST NARCOTICS.

President Hoover has signed the bill introduced by Representative Porter, of Pennsylvania, which abolishes the office of deputy commissioner of prohibition in charge of narcotics, and creates in its stead a Bureau of Narcotics in the Treasury Department, under the control of a commissioner, with a salary of $9,000, with authority to administer the laws for the importation, use and control of all habit-forming drugs.

Under the terms of the act, which will go into effect July 15, the bureau is vested with authority to confer on any of its officers or employes the rights, powers and duties of customs officers at ports of entry and anywhere else in the interior or along the coasts where such authority is necessary.

It is understood to be the purpose of the Treasury Department to transfer to the new bureau all officers and employes of the Prohibition Bureau who have had to do with the enforcement of the antinarcotic laws. A more vigorous campaign than ever before will be made against the illicit trade in opium, cocaine and their derivatives. The first results may be reached in and around Chicago, for it is the general belief that the gangsters and racketeers who infest that city are the ringleaders in the smuggling operations which are the principal sources of supply.

MEDICAL COSTS.

During the last three years a committee composed of noted men in medicine, dentistry and public health, with Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur as chairman, has been investigating the problem of the cost of medical care, and the first report of a completed survey has just been published. With the purpose of choosing a typical midwestern region the medical facilities of Shelby County, Ind., were selected as the first to be examined. The survey has disclosed some interesting facts, first of which is that the people of the county spent on the average $21 per capita in 1928, which meant an approximate total of $500,000. It was discovered that it is not the physician's fee that is the heaviest part of the cost of medical care. The cost of medicines, most of them not prescribed by physicians, made up over one-third of the total, and was 20 per cent greater than the total paid for the services rendered by the doctors.

In seeking a remedy for the high cost of medical care the committee is making 35 studies in all. Five of these studies have been completed and will be published later.

MUSIC FOR MILLIONS.

The gulf that separates grand opera from the movies is not as wide as it used to be. Madame Schumann-Heink is appearing in the "four a day" in New York this week, and it is said John D. Rockefeller, jr., has decided to devote the $250,000,000 worth of ground he assembled some time ago in the heart of New York City for a new opera house to an entertainment center, the principal feature of which will be a 7,500-seat movie palace. In addition, Mr. Rockefeller will build four other theaters in the center, one for drama, one for musical comedy, one for concerts, and one for additional movies. The entire unit when completed is to be operated in conjunction with visual and audible radio.

A few persons will feel that Madame Schumann-Heink has lowered her standards by appearing in a variety show. Some will criticize Mr. Rockefeller for having "gone commercial" in resolving to devote a valuable piece of property, not to "art," but to the movies and radio. But after all, the "four a day" and radio have come to provide the average man's entertainment and recreation, and their elevation is to be strongly approved.

BIRD REFUGES.

In February of last year Congress authorized the expenditure of nearly $8,000,000 over a ten-year period for surveys of sites and the acquisition of lands for migratory bird refuges. Congress waited until many species of wild fowl and smaller birds had been almost extinguished before awakening to the necessity for protective measures. The passenger pigeon, which appeared in flocks of millions in the late sixties and early seventies, has vanished completely; prairie chickens and sage hens, once found by thousands in the Middle West, are today almost as scarce as wild turkeys in Virginia. The bob-white appears to be following in the wake of the ruffed grouse, while the Northern meadows seldom hear the bob-o-link propounding his old question, because in his migrations to escape the rigors of northern winters he injudiciously visited the marshes of the Potomac, where he fell victim to the shotgun of the pot hunter, out for "reed birds," or, escaping from the waters of the Potomac, he encountered the gunman of South Carolina, who shot him down as the "rice bird."

It is too late to save the millions of robins which have fallen before the guns of the "hunters" of North Carolina. There will be difficulty in finding a sufficient number of those beautifully colored migrants known as wood ducks to start a new colony. But now that the migratory bird conservation commission has begun to purchase wild lands for refuges there is reason to hope that some of the feathered visitors may be given the opportunity to build up their depleted families.

The first purchases for refuges consist of a tract of 32,555 acres in South Carolina and another of 5,180 acres in Colorado. Specialists of the Biological Survey report that both areas are ideal for the purpose for which they are acquired. The cost was only $1.13 per acre. If other lands can be obtained at similar prices the survey will be able to add thousands of acres to the refuge areas during the period covered by the authorization.

SAFETY FOR SHIPS

From the Christian Science Monitor.

It is time for navigation to go to school to aviation. When ships of the air are developing "eyes" and "ears" to overcome fog, it becomes inexcusable for ships of the sea to "go it blind" while carrying human freight in crowded waters. That must be one of the inescapable conclusions provoked by the disastrous collision between a passenger ship and an oil tanker off the Massachusetts coast. While it is unusual that one ship and its crew should go to the bottom almost instantly, and the other lose several passengers and members of its crew in the flaming oil that enveloped it, the very helplessness of all concerned once the collision had occurred should emphasize the necessity for abolishing such collisions by making use of fog-conquering apparatus already available.

In cases of disaster it is easy to charge negligence. Sometimes there is negligence. More often chances are taken because shipmasters have their own masters who are not inclined to favor the captain who lets fog interfere with sailing schedules. And behind sailing schedules is a public which demands speed. There is always a compromise between speed and safety.

But the margin of safety can be greatly increased by the use of devices now available. It would be shortsighted to censure those involved in this latest tragedy too harshly. It will be more useful to direct thought and energy to lessening the chances of disaster for thousands of other ships whose equipment gives them no larger margin of safety. The sinking of the Vestris directed attention to overloading, and international agreements and proposed legislation in Congress have started a movement which should reduce that danger. The Fairfax-Pinthis collision should do much to remove the dangers of collision in fog.

Much can be done. Aviation has shown the way by inventions which enable a pilot to fly in a totally inclosed cockpit. And "eyes" and "ears" of many kinds have been devised for ships. Submarine bells are already in use on lightships, which can be heard by approaching vessels farther than a foghorn.

Automatic radio signals are available and some ships are equipped with fathometers which show the distance of the ship from obstacles. In England a siren-detector has been tested which is said to be 1,000 times as sensitive as the human ear. It can "hear" an "inaudible" signal and point out on a screen the place from which it comes. American engineers have developed a neon light which can be seen half a mile away in fog, while another British invention is a device called a "noctovisor," which "sees" infrared rays from ordinary lights two miles through fog.

While all these "eyes" and "ears" may not today be commercially practicable, some of them are, and certainly the greatest speed is called for in adopting and perfecting them. Such action is dictated not only by safety of passengers but by enlightened self-interest of shipowners, for ships which can "see" and "hear" will avoid not only collisions, but the extremely costly delays now imposed by fog.

JUST A MOMENT.

By STEPHEN B. STANTON.

Breadth of mind and width of interest always make for moderation.

Nov. 11—Two minutes of memory for things too soon forgotten. Were it not better to commemorate the beginning of a war with symphonies pathetiques and dirges than to celebrate the winning of it with rejoicing?

Into what different products we digest identical experience!

Never to its old shores returns the river of time, however reminiscent the scenery.

Against the inroads of nature what slight shelter affords civilization.

Now They'll All Want One!

He never spake an unkind word,
By malice he was never stirred,
His was the clearer, kindlier eye
Which lets the little flaws pass by Unnoticed, but is quick to see
The good in all humanity.

His was the gentler mind which thought
Less of what those who knew him ought
To be and do, and more and more
Of the far goals they struggle for.
And that strange heavy weighted pack
Of cares and doubts which held them back.

Care made him tender. Well he knew
The pitfalls all must struggle through
Long hours of toil had made him wise,
Sham never took him by surprise,
He knew too well the tricks of fate
To give his heart to scorn or hate.

His was the friendly life and brave,
Unto this world himself he gave.
His dreams were lofty, and his creed
Found utterance in many a deed.
Clean, manly, upright to the end
He taught us how to be a friend.

A Rough Sketch of Plans That Can Be Used in Building a Character.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

I SHALL not devote myself to any undertaking without first considering whether the profit to be gained is worth the effort, but having undertaken the matter I shall prosecute it with all the energy I possess.

I shall be slow to pledge my word, but having pledged it I shall remember that my honor is in pawn and shall do my utmost to redeem it.

I shall not believe any evil of my fellows until the truth of it is established beyond doubt.

I shall speak no evil, but remembering my own need of charity shall endeavor to find in every man something to commend.

I shall speak the simple truth, confessing ignorance rather than sacrifice my self-respect to conceal it; accepting blame rather than play the coward to avoid it; renouncing the public's good opinion rather than lie to win it.

I shall give fair praise to my equals and inferiors who deserve it, and thus enrich their lives without cost to myself; but I shall not make it a practice to praise my superiors, lest the hope of gain adulterate my sincerity.

I shall remember that a word once spoken becomes a witness for or against me, and I shall be careful to say the thing I mean, without equivocation, dissimulation or exaggeration.

I shall espouse no cause on account of its popularity, nor shall I accept as my own convictions the opinions of other men, but I shall examine all available evidence and accept the verdict found by my own intelligence—realizing that I may often be in error, but will in any case escape intellectual slavery.

I shall read good books, and yet reserve the right to disagree with authors who do not prove their contentions.

I shall bear my necessary burdens and accept the inevitable without whining, and shall conceal my sorrows from a world that has sorrows enough of its own.

I shall not waste my time or the time of other men, but I shall remember that play and meditation may at times be more profitable than work.

I shall respect both my mind and my body, giving to each of them the care a priceless and profitable machine deserves.

I shall be moderate in all things, remembering that virtue itself may become a vice if carried to excess, and realizing that excess ends in satiety and gives life the flavor of ashes.

Finally, I shall value my own honor above all things and yet shall walk humbly before God in the knowledge that I am often at fault and thus a brother to the high and low who are, like me, the pawns of fortune.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE RED CROSS TAKES UP MOTORING.

Automobiling now takes its position alongside of war, famine and pestilence as a cause of human suffering in the eyes of the Red Cross. The society, sensing that the Sunday auto tour and the week-day ride through traffic have become as bloody as the great battles of history, announces plans to succor the wounded.

* * * *

The National Red Cross will now establish stations along the main highways, dotting the country with dressing stations and seeing that every dangerous intersection has its supply of liniment, adhesive tape, splints and bandages.

The announcement will be welcomed by automobile owners. It gives them the comfortable feeling that if the boiler is sideswiped by the fire chief's auto they won't have to look for a crutch. When the crash comes, the driver of each vehicle will know there is a fair chance he may be pitched directly through the windshield into a dressing station with no intermediate stops.

* * * *

The Red Cross nurse will soon become a familiar figure in every traffic jam. And, with this recognition of automobiling as a full sister of war, the society may soon have home units making bandages for tourists, knitting socks for careless taxicab drivers and writing letters to wounded and friendless motorcyclists.

* * * *

Wayside stores, gas stations, hot-dog stands, barber shops and corner drug stores are to be commissioned as Red Cross stations. Local chapters will be charged with the duty of seeing that picknickers knocked through the roof of a flivver get prompt attention and that no wounded autoist is left under his car in a ditch pending instructions by letter from distant relatives.

* * * *

Red Cross markers will dot the highways denoting the distances between first aid stations. You know the kind:

"Take first left for canes and crutches."

"Red Cross Chapter 345 bids you welcome. Come again."

"Emergency dressing station. Stay long. Come often."

* * * *

SENATORIAL QUIZ.

The Senate board marched up the hill
To show the bishop full of sin;
It marched right up with mighty will—
And then it marched right down again.

"The market couldn't act worse if there had been another conference of industrial leaders at Washington," says Elmer Twitchell.

In Boston a domestic who has been 48 years in one family has left the house and taken her first ride in a subway train. She was a little disappointed because the engineer wouldn't let her wash the dishes and make some beds.

By getting out of a Senatorial inquisition Bishop Cannon becomes the logical successor to the late Houdini.

New York City census returns show Manhattan has 400,000 fewer people than it had ten years ago. They are probably lost in taxicabs trying to get from Pennsylvania Station to the Grand Central.

A statue has been dedicated to the pioneer woman. She deserves it. The things she was able to do without electric sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, set tubs and taxicabs are amazing. And bear in mind that in addition to her other tasks she had to do up her hair.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Eddie Savoy, Genius of the State Department — Alvey Adee's Tea Party.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Eddie Savoy is a perpetual fixture of the State Department. He is not a "career man," and yet his career is remarkable. Secretary Stimson has asked the President to promulgate an executive order which will permit the retention of Mr. Savoy on the rolls of the department during the remainder of his life. Eddie Savoy was born in 1855, and has been on the pay roll ever since he was 16 years old, back in 1871.

Today he occupies the position which he has held for many years. He is the usher in chief, who conducts all foreign diplomats and functionaries into the presence of the Secretary of State. It is reported that with the aid of a "ghost writer" this rather diminutive colored servitor will soon tell some of his experiences in connection with his duties and the world dignitaries with whom he has come in contact during the last 59 years.

This forthcoming volume will probably not contain the details of an incident to which Eddie was a party, when Walter Q. Gresham was Secretary of State and Kenesaw Mountain Landis was Mr. Gresham's private secretary. The Assistant Secretary who wrote all the diplomatic papers at that time was the late Alvy A. Adee. His room adjoined that of his chief. On the wall back of his desk was a full-length portrait of the Bey of Tunis. It was part of Eddie Savoy's duty in those days to obtain a pot of tea for Mr. Adee each afternoon at precisely 4 o'clock. On this particular day Mr. Adee was busily engaged in preparing an important state paper, and he ignored the refreshing draught which stood steaming at his elbow. Twenty minutes elapsed, and Eddie, fearing that the beverage would grow cold, touched his busy chief on the shoulder and pointed to the tray. He was waved aside. Ten minutes later Kenesaw Mountain Landis, desiring to summon Mr. Adee into the Secretary's room, also tapped that gentleman on the shoulder.

Mr. Adee resented this second interruption. Without undertaking to ascertain who had done the interrupting, he reached for the tray and angrily tossed the whole service over his head. The teapot cut a nasty gash in the counterfeit presentment of the Bey of Tunis, while the contents of that teapot trickled all over his countenance. If this had occurred in Sarajevo the World War might have been fought during the administration of President Cleveland. As it was, the portrait, after having been carefully repaired, was hung in another part of the building, and Mr. Adee finally completed his dispatch.

Callous Indifference to Sacrifice of Life an Alarming Feature of New Machine Age.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: News items from day to day recording fatal accidents by automobiles and airplane, naturally lead one to wonder whether the age in which we live is to be conspicuous for its indifference to sacrifice of human life.

This thought is stirred in connection with the account in Monday's paper of the killing of a man, two women and a child by an airplane which smashed into their automobile, parked in the Robey, Ind., Speedway Field.

Quite a number of similar accidents have heretofore occurred.

In this instance the pilot tried to skim his plane over rows of parked cars, failed, and the churning propeller chopped the automobile and its occupants to pieces.

Already the growing automobile death toll in the United States is nearly 40,000 per annum. But, although interest in the promotion of street and highway safety is increasing, the speeding up of traffic alone seems to be the chief concern of municipal, business and automobile experts.

It is to be hoped that the safety point of view will finally be so general that the protection of human life will have constant consideration in the regulation of traffic.

When, written the next decade or so, the annual toll of tens of thousands of automobile victims is increased by airplane fatalities, a dreadful situation will be presented.

The time is not far off when drastic laws, rigorously enforced, must protect the public from skyway as well as highway danger, or else our boasted age of mechanical marvels and efficiency will take its place in history with a record of cruelty as coldblooded if not so barbarous as that of the days when gladiators were butchered to make a Roman holiday.

Heroic and Skillful Efforts of Firemen at Friday's Fire as Verified by an Eye-Witness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The firemen who fought the stubborn blaze in the Rudolph & West establishment Friday evening deserve credit for their splendid efforts in checking the spread of the flames. I arrived at the scene of the fire at 6 o'clock when the flames were mounting high into the air, and it appeared that the whole block would soon be enveloped. But the firefighters were equal to the emergency. They devoted their first efforts to keeping the flames from spreading. After it was certain that the adjoining structures were not in danger they directed all attention to quelling the flames within the one building.

At one time the flames had ignited an awning on the rear window of the National Electric Co. and another awning on the north side of New York avenue caught fire. If the firemen had not gone about their attack with great skill and promptness the property loss would have mounted into the millions. With the wind blowing as it was at the time there is no telling where the end of the conflagration would have been.

The firemen willingly risk their lives to save property. One of them is dead from his injuries and others are badly hurt as a result of their courageous work in Friday's fire. No fire department in the world surpasses the one we have here in the District. These men deserve an increase in salary, and Congress should see that they get it. Where would the Capitol itself be today if the firemen had not quelled the blaze there last winter? The firemen are always on the job, as are the police. Congress should immediately grant them the increase in salary which they deserve.

12 Injured as Disturbance in Front of Bombay Store Is Repressed

BRITAIN HITS DEFIANCE

Bombay, June 16 (A.P.).—The monsoon, perennial deluge, today came to reinforce the thousand or more armed soldiers sent to the relief of the sorely tried police and civil authorities in the Bombay residency.

At the same time the Government gave the clearest indications it no longer would tolerate the defiance of Viceroy Lord Erwin's picketing and boycott ordinances by decisively repressing a disturbance in front of one of the leading department stores of Bombay city, where followers of Mahatma Gandhi were engaged in a demonstration. About a dozen persons were injured.

With the beginning of the rains it was predicted confidently there would be great abatement of the open air activities of the civil disobedience volunteers for some weeks to come.

Outbreaks Are Decreasing.

Meanwhile renewal of arrests has commenced. Volunteers posted outside of liquor and foreign cloth shops here today were removed in police vans and immediately replaced by colleagues who in turn were taken into custody.

Other than the disturbance in front of the big European department store, the city of Bombay was quiet.

As regards the country as a whole, certain well-informed observers today permitted themselves a new measure of optimism. Outbreaks of violence have lessened.

Thirteen Arrested in Calcutta.

At least two highly influential Moslem leaders have had interviews with the viceroy, at which, it is believed, satisfactory results were obtained in so far as the attitude of a vast portion of the Moslem community to the civil resistance campaign is concerned. However, hopes so often have been dashed recently that even the most optimistic individuals hesitate to make prophecies.

The police today made five raids on the congress offices in Calcutta and arrested thirteen persons.

Tension still continues at Dacca. The streets are deserted and a steady exodus of Hindus is taking place.

Peshawar reported that Utmanzai, a village near Charsadda, headquarters of the "red shirt" organization, was occupied by police and troops on Sunday.

Reparations Bank Widens Bond Offer

Twelve Additional Nations Invited to Subscribe to Young Issue.

Basel, Switzerland, June 16 (A.P.).—The directors of the Bank for International Settlements, pleased by the success of the first Young plan annuities bond issue, decided this afternoon to extend subscription invitations to twelve additional countries.

The new countries will be allotted 4,000 shares each, as were Holland and Switzerland, earlier. Invitations will be sent immediately to Austria, Hungary, Poland, Roumania, Greece, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Bulgaria, Denmark and Danzig. Portugal and Jugo-Slavia also will be invited to subscribe, but the delivery of shares in these countries will be withheld until they have stabilized their currency.

The board appointed Montagu Norman, England; Emile Moreau, France; Dr. Hans Luther, Germany, and M. Venduci, of Italy, to deal directly with the national central banks of all countries which have subscribed to the issue or will be invited to subscribe.

Brown Honors Kellogg.

Providence, R. I., June 16 (A.P.).—Brown University, at its 162d commencement, today conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Frank Billings Kellogg, former Ambassador to Great Britain and Secretary of State in the Coolidge Cabinet.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

REGARDLESS of the outcome of the primaries out in Minnesota, the campaign served to emphasize the fact that dentist-Farmer-Laborite, Senator Henrik Shipstead, is the power to be reckoned with.

The gentleman carried his State two years ago by nearly 300,000 and his fortunes were not hitched to any national party or to any presidential candidate.

Now in the campaign just closed he has been the issue. That is to say the two candidates in the Republican primary, Senator Schall and Gov. Christiansen, vied with one another in heaping tributes upon him.

• • • •

AS NEAR as one can get at it at this distant range the Minnesota Republican electorate had only to determine whether Schall or Christiansen is more like Shipstead. Both of them contended all over the State that they are his counterparts, that his record in Washington is something they will try to emulate, that his political philosopsy is theirs and always will be.

The tariff was not an issue between these two Republicans at all so it can not be said that the administration will rise or fall with the outcome.

BOTH Christiansen and Schall campaigned against the measure.

Schall raced back here to vote against it.

Christiansen sort of had the earmarks of a regular when he started out, but he soon came out against the tariff and several weeks ago he came out for the debenture plan. Such a State is Minnesota.

Under the circumstances, it is not wholly unlikely that neither Mr. Schall nor Mr. Christiansen will be elected in November.

It is quite possible, in fact, that Senator Shipstead may have a Farmer-Laborite colleague with him.

• • • •

THE Farmer-Laborites and the Democrats held primaries, separate ones.

The possibility between now and November, though, is that they will consolidate their forces and put up a fusion senatorial candidate.

Inasmuch as the State thinks so well of Senator Shipstead it would seem to be no more than logical for his party to go after another senatorial seat, especially when the Republicans are insisting they are just exactly like him.

John D. Jr., In Giving $600,000 Bars Name

Providence, R. I., June 16 (A.P.).—As a memorial to its late president, Dr. William H. P. Faunce, Brown University this afternoon announced the gift of $600,000 from John D. Rockefeller, jr., for the enlargement of Rockefeller Hall, on the campus.

One of the remarkable terms of the gift provides that the name of Rockefeller Hall, housing the Brown Union, is to be changed to Faunce House or Faunce Hall, as the corporation may decide.

Legge Is Approved By Senate Committee

(Associated Press.)

The Senate agriculture committee is willing to give Alexander Legge, the chairman of the Farm Board, an opportunity to finish the work he started a year ago in administering the new farm act and yesterday unanmously approved his nomination for reappointment.

Legge's nomination, along with that of C. C. Teague, of California, representing fruit and vegetables, was laid before the Senate without comment and early confirmation is in prospect, although there is no assurance of unanimous approval there.

Northfield, Vt., June 16 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the United States Coast Guard, and Col. Ralph M. Parker, of Washington, were awarded honorary degrees of master of military science at Norwich University today.

Lisbon Assassin Insane.

Lisbon, Portugal, June 16 (A.P.).—Frank Pelchowski, assassin of Dr. Albert von Balligand, today was found mentally deficient and unfit to stand trial. The slayer was sent to an asylum for the insane for treatment. The trial was adjourned until such time as Pelchowski may be pronounced cured.

GALA CORONATION CAROL'S NEXT STEP

Prof. Jorga to Bring Formal Invitation to Ceremony to This Government.

OTHER ALLIES BIDDEN

Bucharest, June 16 (A.P.).—Now that Carol has swept all obstacles from his path to a full and valid kingship of Roumania, he made plans today for an impressive coronation that will be the last triumph in the journey of an exile to a throne.

Two weeks ago Carol was a private citizen in a foreign land, divorced from his wife, with the throne of his father—which he renounced four years earlier—occupied by his own 9-year-old son.

Today Carol Caraiman is King Carol II, his divorce is recognized as morally nonexistent by the Roumanian Orthodox Church, his wife, whom he proclaimed Queen Helen, is reported near a reconciliation with him, and his son is merely a carefree little crown prince.

The coronation will be the last and most brilliant event in the series of startling developments. It will be held at Alba Julia, where the late King Ferdinand was crowned, and has been set for October. It is believed likely that October 11 will be the date, for it was on that day in 1914, that his father, King Ferdinand I, became monarch of the Balkan kingdom.

King Carol intends to invite all the crowned heads and presidents of Roumanian World War allies to the impressive event. Today he commissioned Gen. Prezan, an outstanding soldier, who attempted to form a cabinet last week, and Prof. Nicholas Jorga, his boyhood tutor and friend, to deliver the invitations personally.

Both will leave Roumania June 30. Prof. Jorga going to London and Washington, and Gen. Prezan visiting Belgrade, Rome, Brussels and Paris.

Gillette, Actor, Now M. A.

Hartford, Conn., June 16 (A.P.).—William Gillette, East Hadlyme, Conn., creator of the stage role of Sherlock Holmes, today was awarded an honorar degree of master of arts at the 104th commencement exercises of Trinity College. Six other honorary degrees and 51 academic degrees were awarded.

Adkins Selection Is Given Approval

Senate Committee Reports Nomination of District Court Justice.

The nomination of Jesse C. Adkins to be an associate justice of the District Supreme Court was favorably reported yesterday by the Senate judiciary committee, and is expected to be confirmed by the Senate at its next executive session.

The committee acted after receiving a favorable report from a subcommittee composed of Senator Waterman (Republican), of Colorado; Senator Hebert (Republican), of Rhode Island, and Senator Ashurst (Democrat), of Arizona.

The vacancy which Mr. Adkins will fill was caused by the elevation of Associate Justice Alfred A. Wheat to the post of chief justice.

Gilberts Take Apartment in New York

Agent for Reparations Will Make Tour of West.

By JEAN ELIOT.

HIS fruitful labor in Germany definitely behind him, Mr. S. Parker Gilbert, jr., landed in New York yesterday from the S. S. France, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert. He arrived to find his name blazoned on the front pages of the newspapers with his final report on the accomplishments of the Dawes plan and his expressed conviction that Germany can and will meet her obligations under the new Young plan provided that there is immediate and radical budget reform.

For a number of years Mr. Gilbert has been serving as agent general for reparations under the Dawes plan, making his headquarters in Berlin. But henceforth apparently New York is to be his home, for he and Mrs. Gilbert have purchased an apartment at 30 Sutton place, of which they expect to take possession almost immediately.

Mrs. Gilbert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ross Todd, of Louisville, were in New York to meet the voyagers and propose to stay for a while at a hotel near the Gilberts' new apartment. Mr. Todd went to New York direct from Louisville, but Mrs. Todd has been in this part of the world for several weeks. She went to New York first to attend a meeting of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, of which Mrs. Charles S. Sabin is the moving spirit. Mrs. Todd is a member of the national executive committee—one of the vice presidents, if memory serves—and is president of the Kentucky group of crusaders for prohibition reform which has its headquarters in Louisville.

After this Mrs. Todd came to Washington for a few days and then went to Charlottesville, Va., to attend commencement exercises at the University of Virginia, from which her son, Mr. Jouett Todd, was graduated. Young Mr. Todd inherits his name from an ancestor of Mrs. Todd, Capt. Jack Jouett, who is known as "the Paul Revere of the South" from his wild ride to warn Jefferson of a proposed raid of Tarleton's men, which had his capture as its objective. From the Charlottesville region, where they lived in Revolutionary days, the Jouetts went to Kentucky. Capt. Jack Jouett's house in Charlottesville is now a gentleman's club and the ban against feminine visitors was lifted while Mrs. Todd was visiting in the quaint old town in order that she might inspect the home of her forebears.

After a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Todd in Louisville a bit later in the summer, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert propose to take a long and leisurely trip through the West, which will be Mr. Gilbert's first vacation in many a long day.

A Kentucky beauty, Mrs. Gilbert, as Miss Louise Todd, spent much time in Washington with her aunt, the late Mme. Christian Hauge, and her romance blossomed here while Mr. Gilbert was serving as Undersecretary of the Treasury. Still under 40, Mr. Gilbert was appointed to the important Treasury post when he was but a stripling and made a record which resulted in his being chosen for the important work in Germany which he has completed so successfully.

British Envoy Attends Commencement at Yale.

After attending commencement exercises at Yale University, where they went yesterday, the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay will spend a week visiting on Long Island. They expect to return to Washington on June 24.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur left Washington yesterday for Princeton, N. J., to attend the graduation exercises at the university today. Secretary Wilbur will go on to New York and will be a guest at the dinner to be given tomorrow evening for Dr. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil, and Mrs. Wilbur will return to their apartment at the Mayflower.

Dr. Hubert Work, former Secretary of the Interior, is here from his home in Denver and is at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Coolidge Given Honorary Degree.

Former President and Mrs. Coolidge spent yesterday in Burlington, Vt., attending commencement exercises at the University of Vermont. Mrs. Coolidge received an honorary degree from the university from which she was graduated in 1902. Her class held its twenty-eighth reunion. Mrs. Coolidge was born in Burlington and spent her girlhood there. While Governor of Massachusetts Mr. Coolidge received an LL.D. degree from the University of Vermont. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Northampton last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Van A. MacMurray will spend the summer abroad and on their return in the autumn will take possession of Greenfields, Mrs. George Ewing's estate in the Green Spring Valley near Baltimore, which they have recently purchased. Mr. MacMurray was formerly United States Minister to China. Mrs. MacMurray is the daughter of Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, former president of Johns Hopkins University.

Mrs. George T. Marye has gone to Newport, where she has taken a cottage for the summer. Mr. Marye, now in California, will go thence to Newport and they will be joined later by their son-in-law and daughter, Commander and Mrs. William D. Thomas, and their small daughter. Commander Thomas, who has been serving as air attache of the United States Embassy in Paris, has been ordered to duty at Newport on the staff of Admiral Arthur L. Willard, now commandant of the Naval War College.

Mrs. Slater to Sail For Sojourn Abroad.

Mrs. E. H. G. Slater, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Shaw Safe, in Newport, will sail from New York Saturday for Europe and will pass the summer abroad. Mrs. Slater has rented her Newport villa, Hopedene, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Bingham, of New York.

Maj. and Mrs. William Penn Cresen, of Washington, are with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chester French at Chesterwood, in the Berkshires, until their own cottage, Dormouse, is ready for them. Mrs. Cresson is an artist of no mean ability, having inherited her great talent from her father, Mr. French, who is one of the most famous of present day sculptors.

Senor Don Juan Riano, formerly Ambassador of Spain to the United States, will return to Newport today after a brief visit in Washington. Senora de Riano will go to Bar Harbor on June 24 to be the guest of friends for a fortnight.

Mrs. William Livingston Crounse has gone to her summer home at Chester, Nova Scotia, where Mr. Crounse will join her in mid-July. Mrs. Crounse was accompanied by Miss Margaret Wade, who also has a cottage at Chester, which she will occupy for the summer months.

Mrs. Maurice Thatcher Hostess at Luncheon.

Mrs. Maurice H. Thatcher entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton Hotel in compliment to Mrs. John R. Putnam, of Amoy, China. Others in the little company were Mrs. Frank C. Henry and Mrs. John Mason Brown.

Lieut. and Mrs. C. P. Summerall, jr., entertained at dinner last night at the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Country Club, on the occasion of Lieut. Summerall's birthday. The guests included Capt. and Mrs. Morris K. Barroll, jr., Capt. George J. Forster, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles E. Hart, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles H. Noble, Lieut. Raymond R. Bosserman and Lieut. Wilbur K. Noel.

Mrs. Isabel MacDermott, former editor of the Pan-American Bulletin, returned to Washington this morning from New York for a short visit with friends. Mrs. MacDermott is sailing on Friday for Chile, where she will spend about six months in connection with the rebuilding of the Santiago College for Young Women of which she is a trustee. She is a guest at the Mayflower.

Engagement Announced

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS HELENE FRIEDLANDER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Friedlander, will be married to Lieut. Morris Goldberg, U. S. N., in the near future.

Miss Seabury to Be Wed To Mr. Fergus Reid, Jr.

From Bayberry Rocks, Kittery Point, Me., the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William Marston Seabury, of New York, comes announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Etheldreda Winthrop Seabury, to Mr. Fergus Reid, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fergus Reid, of New York and Norfolk, Va. Miss Seabury is the niece of Mrs. Austin Kautz, who introduced her to society in Washington, and is the sister of Mrs. Edward Savage Crocker 2d, wife of the Second Secretary of the American Legation in Stockholm. She is a member of the Junior League.

Miss Seabury and her fiance come of a long line of distinguished ancestry. She is a descendant of five colonial governors, including Winthrop, Saltonstall and Dudley of Massachusetts. She also is a descendant of Bishop Samuel Seabury, first Episcopal bishop in the United States, and of Leonard Lispenard, who figured in the early history of New York.

Mr. Reid is a grandson of Gen. William Chamberlaine, of the Confederate Army, who was an aide de camp of Gen. Lee. He is the brother of Baroness Jean de Lustrac, of Paris, the former Miss Helen Reid, who, with her husband and children will spend the summer with her parents at Stone Wall, the Reid summer home in York Harbor, Me.

Mr. Reid was graduated from St. Paul's School and from the Yale Scientific School. He was a member of the Yale varsity hockey team for three years. He is a member of the St. Anthony, University, Nassau Country and Yale Clubs, and is a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

The wedding will take place the latter part of August.

Mrs. Kautz went yesterday to Kittery Point to be with Mr. and Mrs. Seabury until she sails for Europe on June 28.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Todd have arrived in Washington from Alexandria, Egypt, and are stopping at the Carlton.

Col. and Mrs. C. D. Herron have arrived at the Wardman Park Hotel, where they have taken an apartment. Col. Herron has been ordered to duty at the War Department.

Brides-Elect To Be Guests At Functions

Parting Honor Will Be Paid To Dr. Olaya

Sailing Date Put Off Till July 2 by Colombian President-Elect.

Dr. Enrique Olaya, President-elect of Colombia, will leave Washington on Wednesday by special train for New York and will be at the Savoy-Plaza until he embarks for Colombia. Dr. Olaya has put off his sailing date from June 25 to July 2 and has taken passage on the S. S. Zacalpa. Senora de Olaya, now in Baltimore, convalescing from a prolonged illness, will sail with him, as will his two daughters, Senorita Maria Olaya and Senorita Lucia Olaya. Senorita Lucia Olaya will probably accompany her father to New York on Wednesday, Senorita Maria Olaya remaining with her mother until the time for sailing draws near.

Since his return from Chicago, where he went after being entertained as the guest of the Nation, Dr. Olaya has been in Washington more or less "incognito," but when he takes his final leave of the Capital he will be sped on his way with official honors.

The Virginia State Society has chartered the new ship City of Washington for its final formal entertainment tonight for which an attractive program has been arranged. As the members arrive they will be greeted by a receiving line composed of the president, Mr. T. S. Settle; the vice presidents, Mr. Patrick H. Drewery, Mr. Fielding M. Lewis and Mr. E. M. Blackwell; the secretary, Miss Frances C. Linfoot; the financial secretary, Mr. H. Randolph Barbee; the treasurer, Mr. Fred P. Myers, and the following members of the executive council: Mr. J. Cloyd Byars, Mrs. Lena Epperly MacDonald, Miss Mary Norris McCabe and Dr. Henry Taylor Miller and Mr. E. Lodge Hill acting sergeant-at-arms. About 1,000 members are expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Felix Moore and their young son, Howard F. Moore, jr., motored to their farm Landmark near Middleburg, Va., Sunday to remain several days.

Lieut. and Mrs. A. Soucek are at the Carlton for several days.

Here's Health For Every Child

Mueller's Elbow Macaroni contains an abundance of energizing, body-building elements. There is no finer food for children.

Here is one nourishing, energy-making food that all children eat without coaxing. Mueller's Elbow Macaroni is made from farina—the heart of the wheat. And how the youngsters love it! It has a taste all its own—and a light and fluffy texture that means easy digestibility. It cooks in nine minutes. Avoid overcooking—though one or two minutes more may be allowed for extra tenderness. Your grocer has Mueller's or can get it for you.

NEW YORK WILL GET GIANT SHOW CENTER

Theatrical and Broadcasting Project Will Cost Quarter Billion.

FUNDS BY ROCKEFELLER

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Plans for a $250,000,000 theatrical and radio broadcasting center to cover an area of three square blocks in midtown Manhattan were announced today by John R. Todd, representing John D. Rockefeller, jr., and by the Radio Corporation of America and its affiliated interests.

The gigantic enterprise will be erected on ground bounded by Fifth and Sixth avenues and Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets, acquired by Rockefeller originally to erect a new Metropolitan Opera House. The property was said to have been rejected by the opera company.

The Rockefeller interests will finance the new architectural development it was announced and four theaters, 27 broadcasting studios and numerous office buildings, one of them 60 stories high, are included in the construction plans.

Offices and studios of the Radio Corporation of America, the National Broadcasting Co., the RCA-Victor Corporation of America, Radio Pictures and RCA Photophone, Inc., will be located in the buildings.

The Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation will operate four theaters. One will be a variety house, one a sound picture auditorium, a third devoted to musical comedy and a fourth to dramatic productions. Each theater in itself will be a broadcasting studio.

Construction work will start this fall and the entire project is expected to be completed by the fall of 1933.

Wife and Mother-in-Law Slain by Guard Officer

Jackson, Miss., June 16 (A.P.).—Maj. E. C. Lohr, of the Mississippi National Guard, shot and killed his wife and his mother-in-law at the family residence here today. He blamed domestic troubles for the tragedy. He surrendered to police and is being held in the city jail.

Mrs. Lohr and Mrs. H. G. Nixon, her mother, were in a bedroom when Maj. Lohr entered. Words were passed between him and Mrs. Nixon, according to his version given police, and the shooting started. Seven shots were fired. The two women died soon afterward.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT just goes to show how rattled these motion picture people can get you!

In the Sabbath review of "The Devil's Holiday," easily, I think, the most impressive vehicle in which Nancy Carroll has appeared, current at the Palace, I wrote—while all those people were looking over my shoulder—that Edmund Goulding had utilized, only perhaps a trifle more skillfully, the same theme as had been earlier employed in the Fox production of "City Girl," cofeaturing Charlie Farrell and Mary Duncan, adapted from the stage play, "Wheat." As I say, it just goes to show.

It comes to me clearly now that "City Girl" was the renamed picture originally made by F. W. Murnau, the director of "Sunrise," under the working title of "Wheat," and that the stage play from which the adaptation was made was Elliott Lester's play of "The Mud Turtle," which, in condensed form, had also served a lengthy vaudeville service for various emotional stars.

Now that that is cleared up and off my conscience—if any—it may be pertinent to reiterate that "The Devil"s Holiday" is an extremely moving and well made picture, in which Miss Carroll is not the only one who turns in a fine performance. I don't know when I have seen any juvenile who gave the impression of meaning every word of it, like young Phillips Holmes, son of a noted dad—who may have had a hand in coaching the boy for the part, for all I know. Certainly the youngster who made his first screen appearance with "Buddy" Rogers, Mary Brian and Chester Conklin in "Varsity," offers a straightforward, ardent and convincing characterization in a role that is neither fragmentary nor easy.

And Hobart Bosworth, as the high principled father, is no less to be commended for an especially eloquent bit of pantomime.

I say "pantomime" deliberately because, to me, the excellence of his work lies less in his reading of the lines than in the expressive mobility of his countenance in the same climacteric scenes that mark the high point of Nancy Carroll's accomplishment.

I mean those final scenes during which the floodgates of your easier emotions are apt to find themselves violently yanked!

The newsreels, it may interest you to know, are again impressive in personnel this week.

King Carol II, whose recent coup d'etat restored him to the Roumanian throne, delivers a friendly message to America in English that is rather less finished than might be expected of the son of an English mother. The close-ups would lead to the conjecture that little ex-King Michael is a better looking fellow than his pater, provided one wished to go in for a lot of those odious comparisons.

Another subject of more than passing concern is contributed by Gen. Pershing in his address to the American Gold Star Mothers visiting the tombs of their hero sons abroad. It is notable that the years are beginning to weigh a little upon the shoulders of the General of the American armies.

Although not vocally, Gallant Fox, the gallant 3-year-old, gives a fine account of himself in the running of the Belmont, for which, at the Palace, they are using the oversize screen that completely fills the proscenium. You will probably care for the track meets, too.

And, by the way, when do we get that Newsreel Theater?

Come Friday, we will have opportunity, at the Earle, to appraise in the flesh a fiery young actress from below the Rio Grande who has created no meager impression upon the silver sheet. Beginning June 20, Armida, to whom Mr. Richard Watts, jr., of the New York Herald-Tribune, mistakenly gave precedence over John Barrymore in "General Crack," but who gave a gay and garrulous performance as one of Frank Fay's temptations in "Under a Texas Moon," will occupy the Earle stage in person, in company with that venerable Columbus of the stage, Gus Edwards, who has discovered and made famous more youngsters of talent than any other impressario, and a few others of lesser note. As I understand it, Mr. Edwards has built the act around Armida's personality and varied accomplishments—which include singing and dancing.

It has come to my attention that to me has been attributed the statement that Warner Baxter is in town, incognito, sotto voce, e pluribus unum, or something. If such is the fact, it has been successfully kept a secret from me, and so, having had no intimation whatever of any such presence, it must have been two other fellows—or at least Mr. Baxter and one other fellow.

There are two screenings that are being looked forward to eagerly by the boys and girls on the photoplay desks—one is the preview of "The Big House," with Wallace Beery and Chester Morris; the other John McCormack's "Song o' My Heart."

Mr. Cullen, of the Loew interests, informs me that "The Big House" will be on F street within a fortnight, but "Song o' My Heart" will not appear at the Fox until the week of August 29.

I'll write you a letter about that other item I seem to have forgotten!

Man Severely Hurt by Street Car.

Emory Grimmel, 58 years old, of 928 Maryland avenue northeast, suffered skull injuries when he was struck by a Capital Traction Co. car at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest late yesterday. His injuries were treated at Casualty Hospital. He later went to his home, where he is under the care of a family physician.

Wife Returns, Finds $30,000 in Gems Gone

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Jewelry valued at $30,000 was reported missing today from the West End avenue apartment of Mrs. Joseph Baumann. Mrs. Baumann found the jewels gone from a dresser drawer when she returned home after being in a hospital four days.

Her husband told detectives he did not even know where the jewelry was hidden and there were no signs of forced entry into the apartment.

Brazil's New President Visitor at West Point

West Point, N. Y., June 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Julio Prestes, President-elect of Brazil, on a good will mission to the United States, today was a visitor at the Military Academy.

Dr. Prestes, his son, Fernando, and five secretaries came by yacht from New York City and were met by a cavalry escort. The corps held a review late in the afternoon.

When your Chamber of Commerce Secures a New Industry

There is rejoicing around the table—every member feels a thrill because this new industry is coming to town—a branch of a big automobile factory.

And there is just cause for rejoicing. It means a sizeable payroll to be distributed among local merchants. True, most of the material will be shipped in, and the finished cars will be shipped out—but a part of the total amount involved in the business will pass through local banks. And it means business for the railroad. Good news.

What about a Southern Dairies plant in the city? That means a sizeable payroll, too, to be distributed to local merchants. Money expended in the community for workers and executives at the plant, all selected from the community; for men on the delivery trucks, feed men and motor-supply merchants in the town, gasoline for the trucks, and a thousand other items.

But the local benefits go much further. There is the cost of extensive and well considered advertising and merchandising in the community, doing their part in the creation of an ever widening market and linking closely with similar efforts being put forth constantly by Southern Dairies in hundreds of other Southern communities.

The Southern Dairies plant, industrially, is one of the finest types of local institutions.

300 Stocks Drop to 1930 Bottom Prices; Tariff Opinions Vary.

5,600,000 - SHARE DAY

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The most drastic deflation of stock prices since the troublesome days of last November was experienced on New York Stock Exchange and other securities markets today. As measured by the composite price index of 90 representative issues, the general level of stock prices plunged to the lowest point since Christmas, and eliminating the shares dip during the latter months of last year, to the lowest levels since August of 1928.

The headlong decline in stock prices appeared to be a part of a world-wide deflation in the speculative markets, and was accompanied by sharp breaks in the cotton and grain exchanges, and further reductions in the prices of commodities not traded in organized markets.

While there was a tendency in some quarters to point to the passage and executive approval of the tariff measure as an aggravating factor, opinion in brokerage and banking circles as to its influence was widely varied.

Lowest at Close.

Aggressive banking support was lacking, although the decline was slackened in the afternoon by heavy accumulation of shares attributed in brokerage circles to important interests. Selling was in huge volume in the late dealings, however, and the day's lowest levels were recorded in the final transactions.

The day's sales on the stock exchange aggregated 5,600,000 shares, the largest turnover this year, save for the 8,000,000-share day of May 5.

On the stock exchange alone, approximately 300 issues sold at new low levels for 1930. The ticker did not print the final quotation until 50 minutes after the closing gong.

Shorts Thought Relatively Few.

While bear pressure was said in brokerage circles to be in substantial volume, and there were rumors in Wall street that interests opposed to the tariff were taking part in a bear campaign, brokers were inclined to the opinion that short selling was a relatively small factor in the day's transactions.

The volume of selling and the investment character of shares under heavy liquidation were indicated as evidence of wholesale abandonment of holdings.

Particularly disturbing to the stock market was a break of about 2 to 3 cents a bushel in wheat futures, which reached new low levels for the season. A further drop of about $1.50 to $2.50 a bale in cotton futures, shading of the export copper price from 12.55 to 12.30 cents a pound, and gasoline price cutting in California, where retail quotations were reduced from 20 to 17 cents a gallon.

Gallinger Patient Commits Suicide

Woman Hangs Self After Tying Sheet to Upright in Bathroom.

Mrs. Catherine Tubb, 41 years old, of 504 Oglethorpe street northwest, a mental patient in Gallinger Hospital, hanged herself in a bathroom of the institution yesterday morning.

Mrs. Tubb served as a yeomanette in the Navy during the World War and prior to being admitted to Gallinger June 2, she was receiving treatment at the Veterans' Bureau.

Mrs. M. E. Robey, an attendant at Gallinger found her. Mrs. Tubb had fastened a bedsheet together and after tying one end around an upright and the other around her neck, jumped from a chair.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

John W. Fisher Honor Graduate.

John Walker Fisher, of 1312 U street southeast, was graduated with honor from the Benjamin Franklin University at graduation exercises Saturday night. His name had been omitted from the list of honor graduates made public by the institution.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

There is a lot of fun in "Your Uncle Dudley," the farewell play of the National Theater Players' 1930 season.

Of the twelve plays offered—ten in the regular schedule and two additional—this hilarious farce from the production rooms of George Tyler and the Erlanger offices easily tops the list. It makes a fitting farewell gesture.

Howard Lindsey and Bertrand Robinson, coauthors of "Your Uncle Dudley," know what makes sure-fire comedy. They inject plenty stage tricks in this play. As a result an audience needs only to sit back and laugh—and laugh, and laugh some more.

The story concerns a scheming mother who has a daughter with a voice. It happens that they live in Uncle Dudley's House, he being the lady's brother. Furthermore, when Uncle Dudley's brother-in-law died he left $5,000 to the widow—and Uncle Dudley promptly borrowed this to boost business in his paint and varnish factory. Will the widow let him forget? She will not!

"Your Uncle Dudley" romps along in all its innocent fun, with dashes here and there of spontaneous humor. No gainsaying the fact that this belongs to the realm of real American comedy.

Miss Edith Gresham, as a haughty lady, turns in a performance that ranks with some of the best stage portraits. She it is who plays the widowed mother, her eyes set on a concert caree for her daughter; played delightfully by Miss Marion Sterly.

Walter Gilbert, of course, is "Your Uncle Dudley." He rises to heights of splendid attainment in the last acts. Mrs. Hibbard, as a grandmother, ready to enter into any bith of devilmnet abroad, is a delight, as always. So, too, Romaine Callender playing a young yokel in love with the songbird—and, in truth, he marries hte girl.

Miss Marion Wells, looking for all the world like one of the Norwegian people, though she hails from Iowa, comes forth that this time with a Danish accent—and does nobly by the part. Freddie Sherman speeds up the piece as a playboy and H. Dudley Hawley is a hard-boiled banker.

As their valedictory, the National Theater Players cuold have found no better vehicle. "Your Uncle Dudley" had its first Washington presentation last night. George Tyler hoped to bring it here but circumstances prevented. For his own satisfaction it might here be stated that the National Theater Players do honor to a worthy work of the theater.

GAYETY

Jeremiah Mercia McCauley, known to those who travel Ninth street as "Jerrie," smashed her own record for attendance at the Gayety yesterday. Noted for her active participation in burlesque "Specialty" numbers, this girl whose features resemble the famed Nancy Carroll, made it known with her dancing and singing yesterday should I. H. Herk carry out his threat to insert vaudeville talent on his circuit next season she will continue to be a headliner.

"Boots Rush," a beautiful, shapely brunette, came in for some high honors when she stopped the show with her Collegiano specialty. A fast stepper, "Boots" was well liked yesterday. Bobby Nissen continued with her excellent work, which of late has become a weekly feature. "Tiny" Huff and Ryan, the prize steppers, have things their own way in the dancing part of the program. Prior to the finale "Tiny" departed from tapping the boards and put over a snappy song number, "Ba-Ba.'" Young Costello, who has been making them laugh for the past six weeks minus the comic make-up, appears in street attire and goes over big. The pair of "Haps," Hypatt and Fryer, with Moss and Costello, make the greatest array of comic talent to assemble here this season. Syde Rankin, stunning blonde, led the choir through several numbers. Lew Petel and Producers Charles LeRoy round out the cast that makes "Record Breakers" a continuation of action. Amateur wrestling and auction night again this week.

TAYLOR ADDRESSES LANGLEY GRADUATES

Central Presbyterian Pastor Tells Pupils of Opportunities.

$80 FOR SCHOOL GIFT

"Being something is better than doing something," the Rev. James H. Taylor, of the Central Presbyterian Church, told the graduating class of the Langley Junior High School last night at the commencement exercises at the school, First and T streets northeast.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor was the chief speaker on a program that included Henry Gilligan, a member of the Board of Education. Mr. Gilligan, who presented the diplomas to the seniors, also spoke to them briefly.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor outlined to the class the great works that await the right man or woman in the arts and sciences. The president of the class, Albert P. Thompson, as master of ceremonies, introduced the speakers. The names of those receiving honors in high averages, in gaining of more than the required number of credits and in attendance, were read by the secretary of the class, Miss Dorothy F. Campbell.

Richard C. Mackenzie, vice president of the seniors, presented to the school the parting gift of the class, $80 in gold, to be used for buying needed furniture for the school and books for the school library. Chester W. Holmes, principal of Langley, accepted for the institution.

Miss Lucile Profe gave the valedictory address, while music was furnished by the Langley Junior High School Orchestra. The Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty, of the United Brethren Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Asked by Prisoner

William T. Lawrence, through Attorney Henry J. Sweeney, yesterday applied to the District Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus, setting out that he is being illegally detained in the First Precinct Stationhouse.

Lawrence tells the court that he was arrested Saturday and that no charge has been made against him, and that his jailers have told him that he is wanted as a fugitive from justice from La Plata, Md. Lawrence asks the court to order the Superintendent of Police to release him.

JAMES BROWN SCOTT SLATED FOR JUDGE IN HAGUE COURT

(Copyright, 1930.)

Dr. James Brown Scott is a widely-known resident of this city and serves as professor of international law and foreign relations in the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University. He makes his home at 1201 Nineteenth street northwest.

He has represented the United States in numerous international conferences during the last 30 years and is a leading authority on international law. Last year he was elected president of the American Society of International Law to succeed Charles Evans Hughes. He was also chairman of the international law section of the American Bar Association and president of the Institute of International Law, and has been trustee and secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace since 1910. He also was editor of the American Journal of International Law from 1907 to 1924.

Dr. Scott was solicitor of the Department of State between 1906 and 1910 and served as a delegate to the Second Peace Conference at the Hague in 1907. He was special advisor for the Department of State on the Joint State and Neutrality Board from 1914 to 1917 and was technical delegate to the American delegation at the Paris Peace Conference and also technical advisor at the Washington Arms Limitation Conference.

He was the American representative on the arbitration commission between the United States and Norway, a member of the arbitration commission of Guatemala; he was named last year as president of the commission on conciliation between Poland and Denmark, to act as umpire on their disputes, and he was president of the conciliation commission between Switzerland and Belgium. He was a member of the American delegation to the Pan-American Conference at Havana, and was a delegate at the conference of Pan-American Commission of Jurists at Rio de Janeiro. During the World War he was a major and judge advocate in the United States Army.

He has written numerous books on peace subjects and international law, including "The Hague Peace Conference of 1899," "An International Court of Justice," and "The United States of America."

Naval Quartermaster Dies of Crash Injuries

Edward Walker, 35 years old, chief quartermaster in the Navy, who has been assigned to temporary duty at the Naval Observatory, died early yesterday in Naval Hospital from injuries received Sunday night when his auto was in collision with another machine on the State highway between Highland and Ellicott City.

Walker, before being assigned to the Naval Observatory, served at the air station at Anacostia and on the U. S. S. Partridge.

Toll in Plane Crash Raised to Three Dead

Horse Cave, Ky., June 16 (A.P.).—The death of George Plummer, of Piqua, Ohio, at a hospital at Glasgow, Ky., today was the third fatality from the airplane crack-up that occurred near here yesterday.

Plummer, pilot of the plane, suffered internal injuries, and Lemuel Tinnon, of Pulaski, Tenn., and Marvin Mayfield, of Cave City, Ky., passengers, were killed instantly when the craft crashed on the Dixie highway after going into a tall spin. Plummer was 30 years old.

CONOCO
Celebrates its Conquest in America's Greatest Motor Classic!

GERM-PROCESSED is the First Stock Motor Oil to "place" in INDIANAPOLIS Speedway Races! .... Now PENETRATIVE LUBRICITY Proves it's Worth in the Terrific Punishment of Racing Motors

Dave Evans, driving a one hundred twenty-two cubic inch front drive Miller Special, placed sixth out of thirty-eight starters. Evans added less than one-half the amount of oil usually consumed in the average racing motor, in five hours, twenty-four minutes, fifty-four seconds of driving, at an average speed of 92.57 miles per hour.

More than one hundred and seventy thousand cheering, excited people, Friday, May 30, saw CONOCO do something that no other stock oil has ever done before! . . . saw CONOCO'S claims for the sensational new Germ-Processed oil verified beyond the shadow of a doubt . . . saw the supreme test applied to America's newest oil . . . saw Germ-Processed oil "place" among the leaders of the Indianapolis Race..saw CONOCO victorious in the domestic oil market of the Nation!

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

The Contest Board of the AAA took all the necessary steps to make sure that the oil used was the regular CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil.

It was only good strategy for CONOCO to again bring the superiority of Germ-Processed oil to your attention in this sensational way. At a time when motorists in every section of the country have been lending willing ears to the story of the Germ-Process . . . learning that this is the first fundamental improvement in oils since 1901 . . . reading the sensational disclosures of motor oil merit following the recent Pike's Peak Tests . . . CONOCO, by this masterful stroke, crystallizes the already wide-spread conviction, that Germ-Processed Motor Oil is the safest oil for every-day driving in twenty-seven million cars.

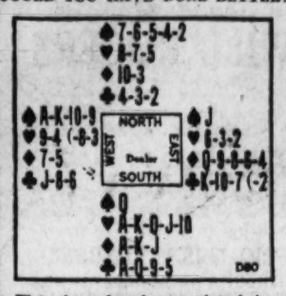

For the Germ-Processed oil used in this race was the same stock oil that you can buy at any service station bearing the CONOCO Red Triangle! You never were told that about any other oil, were you? Remember, Germ-Processed is the first stock oil that ever "placed" in this race. Now CONOCO has proven its claims, confirmed its challenge and justified this request of you:

"If you value the life of your motor, if you would reduce your operating costs, if you want better lubrication than any other oil can give you, go to the Sign of the Red Triangle and ask for . . .

WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?

The above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge, and South obtained the contract with a bid of three Hearts, West having overcalled South's one Heart with one Spade, and South's two Hearts with two Spades. South had ample strength to start with a bid of more than one, but felt that he was so strong that it was unnecessary to preempt.

Had the hand been played in Contract Bridge, how many Hearts South should have bid would have been an interesting question. He clearly had the strength for a bid of three, as his hand was worth at least eight, probably nine, tricks. The nine would be assured if West started by leading either minor suit. Although South had five possible losers with all the luck against him, but little help was needed from North to produce game. The Jack and Ten of Clubs would practically insure it, so many players would bid for Hearts with South's cards.

West led his two high Spades. South trumped the second and, realizing that he might lose four more tricks if compelled to lead from his Diamonds and Clubs after exhausting trumps, determined to utilise one of dummy's trumps to ruff a Diamond and then try the Club finesse. Consequently he postponed his trump lead and to tricks 3 and 4 led the Ace and King of Diamonds, following with the Jack to trick 5. This ruffing dream faded when West played the trump Nine, shutting out a ruff by dummy, and then led another Spade. The second Spade ruff reduced South's trumps to three and placed Declarer in such an awkward position that he failed to make game.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer was right in attempting to utilize one of dummy's trumps, but he should have played it as safely as possible by leading two rounds of trumps before leading Diamonds. This could do no harm and would have prevented the ruff of the third Diamond by West.

It will be noted that two trump leads would exhaust West. Then three rounds of Diamonds could be led, North ruffing the third, after which the Club finesse could be tried and would succeed. East's last trump then would be drawn and Declarer (as he would be fortunate enough to establish his thirteenth Club) would make five-odd.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

TO MAKE GINGER SNAPS AT HOME

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

If the family likes ginger snaps you can make them sometimes at home by following the recipe below. These ginger snaps should be kept in a tightly closed tin to retain their crispness.

1 cup molasses.
½ cup butter.
3¼ cups flour.
1 tablespoon sugar.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 tablespoon ginger.
1½ teaspoons salt.

Heat the molasses to the boiling point, and pour it over the butter. Dissolve the soda in a tablespoon of water. Add this and the dry ingredients which have been mixed together, to the molasses and butter. Chill the dough thoroughly. Roll out small quantities of the cold dough as thin as possible, and cut out the cookies. Keep the rest of the dough chilled until it is ready to be rolled out. Place the cookies rather far apart in greased pans, and bake in a moderate oven. Remove them from the pan while they are still hot. As these cookies cook, they become very crisp and will break if they are not taken from the pan immediately on coming from the oven.

Alma Mater Grants Mrs. Coolidge Degree

Burlington, Vt., June 16 (A.P.).—The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, wife of former President Calvin Coolidge, by the University of Vermont at commencement exercises today.

Mrs. Coolidge is an alumna of the University of Vermont. Ten years ago her husband, then Governor of Massachusetts and a candidate for the Vice Presidency, was given the same honorary degree. He accompanied her here today.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, June 14, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 12.50 cents to 21.00 cents per pound and averaged 19.05 cents per pound.—Adv.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI."

If June 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 7 a. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Troubles and obstacles in your pathway are anticipated for this date. If you receive them as a moral nortneaster to strengthen and to brace you, no harm can befall you, and good will come out of it all. Brace your shoulders and march steadily onward!

The child born on this June 17th will have a refined nature and a somewhat timid one. It will lack self-assertiveness and will need moral encouragement and kindly criticism. It will demand a great deal of love and affection, and will give the same in return.

Courtesy is a natural and not an acquired trait of yours—a symbol of your kindly heart. Outwardly, your character is not a forceful one; you win through more subtle ways and means. Your politeness is better than another's logic, and you can persuade when you can not convince. As a child, you probably coaxed your father or enticed your mother into letting you do things, which were against their parental judgment.

Develop your intuitive powers—your first impulses and first impressions are nearly always correct! This applies to people as well as other things, and your first loves usually remain favorites. Beware of underestimating your own abilities and of doubting your own judgment! You are better working alone than in partnership, and you will never do well if you take an inferior position. You have too much curiosity, too much independence of thought, to be a blind worker, or a mere cog in a wheel. You are not a "darling of the gods," you will succeed only through your own brains and industry.

You should possess great recuperative powers, and much, if not all of your ill health can probably be attributed to wrong habits of living. You are very sensitive to vibrations around you, and you quickly feel changes in atmospheric conditions—your body acts like a barometer.

Successful people born June 17:

1—John Wesley—Methodist clergyman.
2—Charles Frohman — Theatrical manager.
3—Edward J. Berwind—Financier.
4—John Robert Gregg — Educator Gregg shorthand.
5—Charles F. Gounod—French composer.

INDOOR AND OUTDOOR GARDENS

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to plant some small evergreen bushes. I see them wrapped in burlap in the stores. MRS. WILLIAM B. F.

If your soil is fertile you may plant them without any further preparation. Dig the hole one and one-half times as large as the ball about the roots of the plant. Make the hole broader at the bottom than at the top. Set the plant in the hole so that the top of the ball is about two inches below the surface of the soil. Carefully untie the burlap and cut away the upper part. The portion directly below the ball may be allowed to remain. If the ball is firm and you feel that it will not crumble, you can remove the covering before setting the root in the hole. Cover the ball with good rich earth, firming well with your feet or a firming stick. Avoid having any air pockets in the soil when filling in. Complete the filling in of earth, making a basin of loose soil about the plant that will hold water. Pour in water until the soil refuses to take more.

Please tell me how often and how much water to give a fern and a flowering begonia. MRS. A. M.

Water a fern in the house every other day; in the open water it every day. Spray foliage once a week with cold, soapy water. Keep fern in a light but not sunny place. Water begonia whenever the surface soil in pot seems dry. The roots of a begonia must be kept moist at all times, but if the plant is given too much or too little water it always loses its leaves. You really have to experiment with the amount of water you give one of these plants.

Please tell me how to care for the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf and flower. It has finished blooming and I don't know what to do with it. MRS. LOUIS S.

A calceolaria is an annual, grown as a rule for the Eastern trade and of no further use after it has finished flowering. The best thing to do is to discard it at once for, as it begins to fade, it is usually attacked by aphids, which are likely to spread to your other plants.

Please tell me how to prevent the leaves of a ribbon plant from breaking in the center. I am giving it the same care I give my spider plant. MRS. T. H.

I am sorry, but I do not know the plant by that name. Sometimes the ornamental grasses are spoken of as ribbon plants; these, however, are hardly suitable for house culture. If you care to write again and will inclose a leaf from your plant, I shall be able to tell you what to do to improve its condition.

Please tell me how to rid a snake plant and a night blooming cereus of scale. DORA K. L.

Literally scrub away the pests. This can best be done with a small brush. In order to prevent a return of the insects, spray the plants once a week with cold, soapy water or any nicotine spray available.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Two tailored frocks, one navy blue with white crepe de chine, the other brown with yellow vestee and cuffs. (Courtesy of David, Paris.)

Paris, June 16.

"WELL, Dare, I see that you're still making one thing do for several!" says Alana, sniffling around in my closet yesterday.

"Maybe that's why they call me one of the best dressed women in Europe in spite of my fashun-cricket's salary," answers I blithely, adding another swirl to a drawing.

You see, there are ways to beat the society dames at their own game, but it takes brains, lady, it takes brains! Didn't I heave a screech when the handsome M. Rossi chez Lucile said that the very attractive Mrs. Liggett had ordered 50 dresses? Fifty dresses plus three fittings apiece makes 150 fittings, plus a hat for at least every two dresses, also three fittings per hat—then gloves, bags, shoes, stockings, jewelry—I have it! It can't be done! And maybe that's the reason why so many nonchalant ladies who can flip a feeble fin in the direction of 50 dresses at once are not always, not even often, the best dressed women in the world. For today you have to have not so many outfits, since variety is no longer the basis of chic, and each outfit has to stand completely alone and on its own—look as though everything worn with it belongs, and was especially chosen to go with it.

And here's where French thrift and chic come in. For your clever little Frenchwoman would not think of having hundreds and hundreds of fancy shoes and hats and gloves, but no matter how much money she had, has one or two, five or six complete outfits each season, and then ruthlessly discards them in favor of one or two, five or six completely new outfits.

But here's the trick—in that completely new outfit you are quite liable to find a bag top or a hat ornament, a belt or a lovely fur brought over from the old ensemble. Or a good lining left from a previous evening coat. And do you think anybody minds? Why, on the contrary, it's quite usual for a couturier to ask you if you haven't a fur collar of your own for one of his models, or a belt buckle perhaps!

• • • •

Maybe you made bloomers and shorts from my leaflet last year, but maybe you didn't make enough to last till this year and you didn't know then how good they'd be for this season's dresses, what with their being smooth and tight over the hips. Anyhow, time to make more lingerie carefully cut from a half yard or a yard of material—in other words, time to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet. The shorts are grand for summer, and the bloomers when you will.

• • • •

Two good examples of the practical "little" dresses that have so many uses are the navy blue and white crepe de chine I have sketched on the right today, or the brown one with its pale yellow vest and collar, belt buckle and cuff incrustation. The navy blue had a skirt that widened at the bottom on account of its incrustations starting above the belt, and the brown had a pleated skirt. Aren't they nice? Both from Maison David!

We hope you're not neglecting to look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir!

The Goofus Crow

The Goofus Crow I'd like you to know
Is a bird that never steals corn.
Instead he eats sawdust
To keep himself robust
And also from feeling forlorn.
You'll note his ability and also agility
In producing his food with a saw
Though the noise that he makes
His mate oft mistakes

FEES OF PHYSICIANS DEFENDED IN SURVEY

Charges Not Largest Item in Medical Costs, Is Committee Finding.

STUDY MADE OF COUNTY

Contrary to the general belief, physicians' fees are not the largest item in the cost of medical care, according to the results of a survey announced yesterday by the committee on the costs of medical care, of which Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur is chairman.

Basing its conclusions on a survey of Shelby County, Ind., selected as a typical Midwestern rural county, the committee claims that the costs of medicines, most of which were not prescribed by doctors, constituted more than one-third of the $500,000 total which the county spent for medical care in 1928. Hospital care, nursing, dentistry and laboratory examinations made up a large part of the total.

The committee is composed of prominent physicians, dentists and public health officials, who are seeking a program that will make medical care available to rich and poor alike.

Among principal questions that the committee is attempting to solve are the necessity of preserving the personal relationship between physician and patient; the further use of preventive medicine, and the provision of adequate facilities for diagnosis and treatment.

The committee's survey of Shelby County was one of 35 similar studies to be made in the near future.

"Just a few words of praise of your medicine. Nothing gave me relief and health as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. I am a practical nurse and was so rundown that I was unable to work. I used to suffer agonies at times and would have to lie down the biggest part of the day. After two bottles of Vegetable Compound I felt better. Now I have used ten bottles and feel fine. I recommend it to many of my patients."—Mrs. Florence Johnson, R. R. #3, Chetopa, Kansas.

Win THIS GENERAL ELECTRIC ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR for your home!

This week, each man, woman and child in the audience will be given an opportunity to win the beautiful General Electric Refrigerator displayed in the foyer of the R-K-O (Keith's Theater). The refrigerator will be delivered to your home, free of charge, if you wish. This prize electric refrigerator is donated by National Electrical Supply Company, 1328-30 New York Ave. N. W., distributor of General Electric Refrigerators.

There's another great R-K-O show this week—and a great refrigerator to win. The General Electric Refrigerator, with its entire mechanism sealed in steel, is the refrigerator so free from trouble, worry and expense that it has established a record unequalled in the history of electric refrigeration.

NOT ONE owner of a General Electric Refrigerator has ever paid 1¢ for service!

The Silent Partner of Everyone

The stabilizing effect of Stock Fire Insurance in our commercial structure is of such importance that business paralysis would certainly follow its elimination or impairment.

Fire insurance so effectually safeguards the home, factory, and store, and contributes such an element of certainty to all enterprises in which men engage, that it is well termed the Silent Partner of everyone.

Makes the Uncertain Certain

Protection may be secured from Stock Fire Insurance companies against loss or disaster caused by fire and the elements—wind, water, hail, earthquakes—as well as riots and civil commotions and other causes.

These companies also issue policies protecting against property damage, loss of profits, losses due to interruption of business, loss of rents or valuable leases, loss of goods in storage, or in transit by motor, aircraft, railroad, steamship, or other carriers.

Fewer Hazards

Business runs more smoothly and economically, credit is stabilized, and fewer hazards accompany every business process because of the more than $150,000,000,000 constantly at risk in the protection of American property.

The Stock Fire Insurance business is related to all other businesses as a balance wheel, whose steady revolutions are essential to the general good.

THE GIRL IN THE AIR

BY JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Janet Decker, 18, and extraordinarily pretty, is a stenographer clerk in the Peerless Employment Bureau. She gets a call, while alone in the office, from a Mr. Temple at the Mount Tobe Airport asking for a stenographer with "plenty of nerve" to serve as flying secretary to Tolbert, president of the Great Eastern Air Transportation Co. She agrees to see if she can find such a girl. Fred Turner, an automobile mechanic, and sadly soft on Janet, runs up to have a word with her while Miss Miller, who runs the employment bureau, is at lunch. Fred asks if he may come out tonight, but she tells him she already has a date with Henry Frenda, a clerk in the office at the Mount Tobe Airport. Fred takes advantage of the opportunity at hand, takes Janet in his arms and kisses her. At that moment Miss Miller walks in and, after giving Fred a silent invitation to make himself scarce, fires Janet.

Janet tells her troubles to Bernice Terrell, her best girl friend. She says she wants the job at the airport herself and they agree that Bernice will call Temple and tell him a candidate for the job will meet him at Bernice's home next morning. Janet's mother strenuously objects to her taking the place. Janet goes for a ride with Henry Frenda and he gives her a book on aviation she finds in his car. He also tells her about a mysterious wealthy lumberman who is staying at his mother's house near the airport. When Janet gets home from her ride, her mother says she has called Miss Miller and that the latter has agreed to take Janet back in the office.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY!

Janet was thinking: "If he's young I may have a chance."

CHAPTER III.

Bernice had prepared her mother for Janet's interview with Temple in her own way. However, she had done it, Mrs. Terrell was more hospitable and assured Janet that they would not be disturbed.

Janet was thinking: "If he's young, I may have a chance. He sure had a snappy voice over the phone, and no old fogey would have been hanging on the line like he did." And then the doorbell rang and she heard Mrs. Terrell going to answer it.

He was very tall, 'll of 6 feet. His hair was black and inclined to be wavy. His eyes were deep brown, almost black. And his mouth—even Janet had to admit that it was a trifle larg-.

As he entered the room, Janet rose and nodded prettily. But the little speech she had prepared was blown to bits when he said:

"Miss Decker, masquerading as a poor little stenographer looking for a job. How are you?"

Janet had taken a step toward him, but now she stopped and stared curiously. "How did you know it was me? Or I? Or whatever's right? I told Bernice not to tell you."

"She didn't. She said I was to interview a young lady at her home here about the place with Tolbert. But I made up my mind right there that I'd go to the employment office anyway. You see, I'd heard your voice and I had to see if you were in harmony with it."

"You did?"

"You mean: 'Am I?' Yes, Miss Decker, you are. Voice, person, personality . . . all in harmony . . . a gorgeous symphony."

This was a new line to Janet and she wasn't quite sure how to meet it. Not that his praise was lost on her. Was there ever a woman whose vanity did not gorge upon any and everything that might be interpreted as a compliment?

"Sherlock Holmes doing his stuff," said Janet. "You're a wonder. Did they tell you at the office I'd been fired?"

"Why, no——"

"Which lets me out as a candidate for your job, I suppose."

"Let you out nothing," he said quickly. "If you've quit the employment office, you're free to take the place at the field at once, aren't you?"

"Do you know why I was fired?" She hadn't intended mentioning it before he came, but this man somehow made her want to be wholly fair with him.

"I don't know, and I wouldn't listen if you tried to explain. The place with Tolbert is yours, if you want it, and he'll be a lucky man to get you. I can't understand how a girl as pretty as you are could hide out in a town like this. They'd snap you up in Hollywood like that! Unless some wealthy young man beat them to it with a diamond."

"You're laying it on pretty thick, aren't you?" Janet asked defensively.

"When you asked about nerve," Janet said, "did you mean just nerve enough to fly. I thought I caught a hint of something else."

He rose and stood with his back to the fire. "I suppose I shouldn't tell you this, but I don't want you to take the job without knowing all that it involves. You'll treat what I say confidentially, of course?"

"Certainly."

"Well, the point is, the Great Eastern transports more cold cash than any other air transportation outfit in the county. It's a part of our business. And, sometimes there's trouble. Tolbert rarely moves any in his plane, but he has on one or two occasions, and he may again. I just want you to know the truth."

Suddenly Janet laughed aloud as if she'd thought of a great joke. "And you've got the nerve to suggest that you talk to my mother. No, thank you, Mr. Temple. I'll do my own talking. The job just begins to sound interesting. Now sit down here and tell me what the job requires besides risking my neck."

Temple departed at 11:30 after getting her address and promising to send for her Monday morning.

"If your mother doesn't weaken," he said when Janet saw him to the door, "we'll have to create a new job on the ground out there. But do your best. You don't know how you'll brighten things up at the field. And I'll hazard a guess that your first killing will be Dick Tolbert."

Janet had lunch with Bernice downtown and afterward was strolling leisurely homeward when a car stopped at the curb and Henry Frenda called out: "Cab, miss?"

"You're a sweetheart, Henry," Janet declared, dropping into the seat beside him. "My feet are just about to fall off. Aren't you working today?"

"Sure thing," said Henry. "I get an hour and a half for lunch and I drove in to get a letter off for Mr. Crell. That's the rich boarder I was telling you about. See what he gave me along with the letter." It was another crisp ten dollar bill.

"Hmm! I think I'd like to meet Brother Crell, Henry. Maybe I could manicure his nails and get a hundred dollar tip to buy some clothes with."

Henry said seriously: "I'll bet he'd go dappy over you, Janet. If you take the job at the airport, we can walk down to the house and I'll introduce you." A moment later he asked: "Did you mean that about wanting money for clothes, Janet?"

"Well," Janet admitted, "if I'm going to be a flying stenographer, I've got to have something to wear and this I've got on is the wardrobe at present." The same little tan tweed and no worse for another day's wear.

"The reason I asked," Henry said, "is that I'd like to lend you the hundred bucks I've got in the bank. I don't need it for anything right now and you do. You can pay me a little back at a time and that'll keep me from spending it."

Janet said: "That's mighty nice of you, Henry, but it wouldn't be right for me to borrow your money. It isn't done." But a series of shop windows with their tempting frocks ran through her mind. What couldn't she do with a hundred dollars!

"Gosh, Janet, there's nothing wrong about it. I've got the money and you need it. Nobody'll ever know anything about your borrowing it and . . . well, you've got to have clothes, haven't you?"

"Yes, but . . ."

In the end Janet agreed to let him lend her the money with the understanding that she would pay him back at the rate of $5 a week when she was working again.

They drove back through Exchange Place and Janet waited in the car while Henry went to the bank and drew out his savings. When he came back, he handed her a neat little roll of bills and waited for her to get out of the car.

"You're a peach, Henry," Janet declared, trying to persuade herself that what she was doing was quite legitimate. But when he had gone and she went back to the shop where waited her modest little dream wardrobe, something told her that she would live to regret this indiscretion. Henry was a good sort, but . . . a man's a man for a' that.

A hundred dollars in women's shops is not much, but wisely distributed it can be made to do wonders. To begin with, Janet carefully listed her clothes, what she already had that would serve. And then the things she had to have immediately.

At the end of the season the year before she had bought a good-looking brown tweed coat with a fox-fur collar. This, she decided, would be quite acceptable as her heavy coat. Then what?

She selected a deep-toned beige suede ensemble, wrist-length jacket and creamy satin blouse to wear with it. Then an attractive golden tan silk dress that would act as a foil for her hair, a blue "business" jersey, an "off-the-face" brown felt hat, brown suede pumps and a pair of patent leather pumps with a higher heel for dressier occasions. To these purchases she added gloves, stockings, a handbag, hankies and fragile little underthings, enough to supplement what she had and give her the confident feeling of being suitably and attractively attired. Altogether, she would be extraordinarily well provided for.

She ordered everything sent to Bernice Terrell's address before 6 o'clock, and then hurried to the laundry to tell Bernice that it was up to her to think up some plausible explanation to give her mother.

And now—she flinched at the thought—suppose her mother refused to be persuaded. A world of clothes (for Janet, at any rate) and no place to go. What a laugh!

Fred came early, as usual, and found Janet in the kitchen, Margaret ordered him to put on an apron and get busy, which he did with a dish towel despite loud protests from Mrs. Decker. Whereupon Margaret slipped out, leaving the two alone.

"The little schemer," Janet laughed. "Take off that apron and sit down while I finish up, Fred. You make me nervous flopping those plates around."

"Never dropped one in my life," Fred boasted. "Besides, it's time I was getting in training." And, in an undertone: "Did your mother go back in the living room?"

Janet nodded. "You're fidgety, big boy. Got a guilty conscience?"

"Afraid I have, Jan. Haven't slept a wink since I saw you yesterday. Bernice told me you'd lost your job; I was almost afraid I'd be thrown out when your dad came to the door."

"Did he say anything to you about it?"

Fred grinned and lowered his voice. "He said I'd ought to be horsewhipped. I thought he meant it, too, and I didn't know what to say. And then he looked around to see if your mother was listening and whispered: 'But you'd be a darn fool not to kiss her if she let you.'"

"What a dad!" said Janet. "He thinks I'm all right and he's not afraid to trust me. I sure hope he sticks by me when it comes to a showdown with Mud about that job at the airport."

"Are you going to take that job, Jan?"

"I can have it if I want it, and I never wanted anything worse. But Mud's opposed. Says she doesn't want me flying all over the country in an airplane with strange men."

"I don't blame her," Fred said stoutly. "That's no job for you. You don't know what kind of men they are."

"Listen, Fred; do I look like a sap? Don't you think I can take care of Janet anywhere, anytime? It's a business proposition, anyway, not a social engagement."

"I don't care. You're too good looking to be safe anywhere, Jan. Gee, I wish you wouldn't go out there. I never will see you, and just when everything was going good, too."

"Don't be silly, Fred. You'll see me when I'm home. Besides, you've got to be putting in time making something out of yourself. Remember what we were talking about yesterday?"

"All I remember about yesterday was when you—you let me kiss you. Did that kiss mean anything to you, Jan? I mean something big and fine and—and beautiful?"

"Hmm" said Janet. "I'm not sure, Fred; but it was the nicest kiss I ever had. Did it mean something unusual to you?"

"Gosh, did it! I was up in the clouds all afternoon, until I heard you'd been fired. And then I made up my mind there wasn't but one sensible thing for me to do."

"What was that, Fred?"

"Get married——"

Janet dropped the dish she was washing back into the water. "Fred! For what?"

"Well, it'd head off any talk the old hawk might put out. And you wouldn't have to worry any about another job. And—golly, Janet, whether anything had happened or not I couldn't think of anything nicer than having you walking down the aisle with me in a tux and you in all that white stuff that goes with it. Will you, Jan?"

It came over Janet suddenly that he was no longer talking about what he thought he would do, but about what he wanted to do. He was proposing, asking her to marry him.

She tried to think up a snappy answer, but when she looked into Fred's eyes, she knew that he was deadly serious, and that this was not time for smart repartee. "That must have slipped out, Fred. You didn't mean to ask—to ask what you did, did you?"

Fred dropped his dish towel and caught her by the shoulders, gently. "I never meant anything so much in my life. I'm not making much, honey, but we could live on it. I'm assistant foreman in the garage now and before very long I'm going to be foreman and get more money. We wouldn't have to have much, Jan, and we could be so happy."

Janet avoided his eyes. She thought of his kiss in the office the day before and wondered if the thrill of that moment had been love. Why couldn't she be happy with him? The money didn't matter. If he didn't make enough, she could get a job and help out. And he was such a darling.

"Can't you say 'yes,' Jan?"

Of course, she could say "yes." She could say "yes" and put such people as Miss Miller out of her life forever. Fred would pay Henry the $100 and that would be forgotten—and it was beginning to weigh on her conscience now. They could get a modest little apartment somewhere downtown and——

Some one was pounding the door leading to the dining room. Margaret cried out from the other side: "Break loose in there; I'm coming in."

Fred quickly picked up the dish towel and became feverishly active with a handful of silver.

"Phone call, sis," Margaret said, coming in at last. "Nice voice, but not as nice as Fred's. Go on, I'll take care of your boy friend."

Janet went out, wiping her hands and arms on her apron. When she returned, she said: "It was Mr. Temple. He wants me to report tomorrow morning. I couldn't understand all he said, but from what I heard I gathered something's happened. Something serious. He said I'd probably have to make a trip with Mr. Tolbert tomorrow as soon as I got there. What do you suppose it could be?"

Fred made no attempt to answer, and his silence was more eloquent than any plea he could have made. Janet saw that in her excitement over her own affairs, she had hurt him.

"I'm sorry, Fred. Everything's trying to happen at the same time, and I'm all confused. Will you forgive me?"

"I will if you'll answer my question," Fred said, petulantly.

"But I can't now, darling. Don't you see how mixed up everything is. I can't think. Give me a day or two to get my feet on the ground. I could say 'yes' now, Fred, but we might regret it. Let's be sure." Suddenly she stood on tiptoe and kissed him. "And don't you go cheating on me in the meantime," she teased, pushing him toward the door.

Now what? Marry Fred and get a new set of troubles? Tomorrow: Enter the handsome young man with the magical smile and the mysterious "package."

HUDSON'S GREAT EIGHT Wins Famous Tour de France

This Year again Hudson scores 100% in winning the highest honors in the nine-day Tour de France, most celebrated of the annual tests staged on the European continent.

Against eighty-seven cars from every country competing, Hudson's Great Eight won the Ansaldo trophy for starting on cold motor, most efficient braking and greatest hill-climbing ability. It also won the Gold Medal for completing the Tour and its many tests for speed, acceleration, hill-climbing, economy, brake tests and all-around reliability, without a single penalty. The Essex Challenger was also awarded the Gold Medal for flawless performance throughout the Tour. Hudson and Essex also won the Dunlop and Spido Cups, offered the two leading cars built by the same company.

The Tour de France consists of a nine-day run of approximately 310 miles per day, with intermediate days in the various French provinces devoted to speed contests, hill climbs, starts with cold motors, brake tests, acceleration tests and other events designed to bring out the full qualities of the cars.

The second successive winning of the Tour de France is important chiefly as it confirms what these cars have everywhere proved in reliability, performance, economy and value.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATING LEG ULCERS.

A MAN applied to a North Carolina clinic for ulcers of his leg. "Mah blood's bad," he explained, as he began to unwind oozy rags from his leg.

"Ah done everything dey tol' me. Ah put on collard leaves and vinegar, bread mash, fish meal and kerosene oil. I got a black salve at a drug sto.' I tried spider webs, turpentine and side meat. Ad done everything anybody tol' me to do, and here I is no better'n ah wuz."

A neglected sore on the legs may not have been neglected in one sense of the word. There is a fair chance that at one time or other the ulcers were treated with a poultice. Germs feed and multiply under the warm, moist culture medium which goes by the name of a poultice. Side meat, or some other form of fat meat, helped to make boils, carbuncles and ulcers worse for our grandfathers, and they are still working at the same old job. But we have made headway in that the collard leaves, vinegar, fish meal, spider web and other dressings named above are no longer used in good society.

There is no reason for chronic leg ulcers. All are curable if the job is rightly undertaken. School nurses have proved that a few applications of moist dressings to remove heavy scabs alternating with a little treatment of the cleaned sores cures the legs of school children. In adults the job is not so easy, but can always be accomplished if properly done. Many are cured by the simpler methods used on the legs of children. Many are due to varicose veins. These are more difficult to cure. We have given methods of treatment which physicians of experience use successfully in varicose leg ulcers. In some, injection of the veins by modern methods is required. In some, the circulation is so poor that the legs must be kept horizontal for a while. In some cases the cause is syphilitic infection. In these, the diagnosis is made by blood tests and part of treatment is directed against the constitutional infection. All ulcers of the leg not cancerous in nature can be cured.

The main theme of the North Carolina report, as made by Dr. C. E. Ford, was the folly of trying all the cures which were offered and not of following the advice of Davy Crockett: "Be sure you are right—then go ahead."

GINGER CAKE PARALYSIS.

A. C. G. writes:

1. What is the source (what country) of the poison causing the present Nation-wide epidemic of jake paralysis?

2. What is the estimated number of cases in the United States? I have heard it put at 96,000 cases.

3. It is curable?

REPLY:

1. The Government is trying to locate the source of the so-called ginger consumed by those who have jake. The bottles in my possession bear labies giving New York, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Jellicoe, Tenn., as sources. The wording indicates the same ultimate source for the separate distributing points. The cause of the trouble has not been agreed on. All the cases I have talked with admitted drinking the ginger, but I understand some say they have not.

2. No one has the answer to your question. I have heard an estimate of 10,000 cases. I think that is high, but I do not know.

3. Yes. Cure can be expected in time. The treatment is principally massage, passive motion and regulated use. Overuse is harmful.

GRIFFITH TRADES BRAXTON AND TATE FOR ART SHIRES; NATS SUBDUE BROWNS WITH 2 RALLIES NEAR FINISH, 9-7

Pegler

NEW YORK, June 16.—If old Mr. Muldoon, the prize-fight commissioner, had exerted himself in some other field of human effort, he might now, in his years of decline, have some progress to report. Mr. Muldoon is a patroiman at heart and it is just contrary to normal human emotion to sympathize with a born copper, so I do not pretend to be unhappy over the botch that he has made of his decade on the New York prize-fight commission. He thinks prize fighting, somehow, some day, can be made to serve the ends of fine citizenship by inculcating the ideals of self-reliance, chivalry and honor in the young, and he has been fumbling with the sow's ear for ten years.

Now, examining his work after the Sharkey-Schmeling prize fight, he discovers that it is still a sow's ear and he is disappointed and annoyed.

The idea that prize fighting could be made to serve the ends mentioned originated a political argument. The prize-fight promoters used it just after the war on the members of the various State legislatures, politicians not insensible to the persuasive force of a case of Canadian Scotch to convince them of a fine distinction between the prize-fighting trade and the pocket-picking trade. These were held to be all one under the law up to that time.

He Should Have Realized.

Mr. Muldoon should have realized that this was only political argument and no more seriously meant or taken than the argument that prohibition would empty the jails. But his whole life had been committed to the glorification of the male biceps, and boxing, theoretically, was a sublime expression of the thing he held most high. Besides he was a copper, and a copper sticks to his story. So he holds to his opinion of prize fighting or professional boxing, as Gene Tunney so nicely called it, although, in his ten years on the New York prize-fighting commission, he has seen dive-keepers, gunmen and common, petty conspirators climb the steps to the ring a hundred times, with his licenses in their pants pockets to attend various prize fighters in the work of inculcating fine ideals in the young.

Only the other evening, after Jack Sharkey fouled Max Schmeling, a second entered the ring to handle a fighter in the deferred semifinal bout carrying a license from the commission, who had been Arnold Rothstein's fixer in the frameup of the World Series of 1919, the most notorious fraud in the sport industry since the dealing of the Mabray gang.

Racket Should Not Be Scolded.

I do not think the prize-fight racket should be scolded for the sort of people who have always been most active in the business; that would be like scolding a goat for his smell. The goat can't help it, and he smells most briskly just after he has been washed by the cleansing rain of heaven. The prize fight racket cannot help being crooked, because that is the nature of the profession and, similarly, it is never more crooked than when the very best people are lending their distinguished patronage and contributing huge purses.

Old Mr. Muldoon is an impressive figure, with a chin as firm and square as the cornerstone of a county jail and an eye that glares at the world, seeming to say, "Tell me some wrong, some dirty or cowardly trick I ever did in my nigh-onto-ninety years." Because he is by nature a patroiman, accustomed to ordering people about, people never oppose him any more. All his life he has been twirling an imaginary nightstick, and when any one disputes him on any matter he shines up his badge, but Mr. James Farley, his associate on the prize-fight commission, learned how to move Mr. Muldoon around.

Mr. Farley Is Politician.

Mr. Farley is a politician, and soon after he entered the boxing board he perceived that Mr. Muldoon was not to be budged by force, so he used flattery. Mr. Farley deferred to Mr. Muldoon's judgment-boundless wisdom. He made speeches, referring to him as the grand old man. James J. Johnston, Farley's favorite prize fight manager, had his difficulties with Mr. Muldoon before Farley was appointed to the commission, but he took a political lesson from Mr. Far-

Diegel Leads U. S. Golfers In England

Field Led by Young British Pro's Record Card of 68.

Diegel Shoots 70 and Jones 73 in British Open.

By FRANK H. KING.

HOYLAKE, England, June 16 (A.P.).—William Thomas Twine, tall young professional golfer from the Bromley and Bickley Club in County Kent, shot a record 68 over the Wallasey course today to lead a big field of nearly 300 in the first qualifying round of the British open championship.

Leo Diegel, Archie Compston and Jim Bradbeer, a London veteran, were tied for second place with scores of 70, but Diegel and Compston played the course of the Royal Liverpool Club, over which the championship proper will be fought out. This course is at least two strokes harder than Wallasey.

Until Compston, a late starter, came in with his 70, Diegel led the half of the field playing at the Royal Liverpool. Diegel and Compston equaled the course record.

Bobby Jones returned a score of 73 over the Royal Liverpool, one stroke above par. George Von Elm played Wallasey in 71. This, too, was one stroke over par. Horton Smith and Don Moe, also assigned to Wallasey, today returned scores of 75.

MacDonald Smith and "Long Jim" Barnes had the same score—77—Smith playing at Wallasey and Barnes at Royal Liverpool.

All Americans Have Good Chance.

All the Americans, professional and amateur, have a good chance to qualify, although Joshua Crane, of Boston, and F. C. Stevens, jr., Los Angeles, who had 77 and 79, respectively, may have to do as well tomorrow as they did today. Estimates tonight fixed 158 as the probable figure needed to qualify after the final eighteen holes tomorrow.

Tomorrow the courses and starting times will be reversed.

Horton Smith, one of the last out at Wallasey today, will tee off early at Hoylake. Jones played during the noon hour today and there will be little change in his starting time when he moves over to the other course.

Jones Shoots Lazily In Humid Weather.

Many of the galleryites lunched on sandwiches en route with Jones, who played bareheaded and lazily in the sultry, humid weather. He shot par to the turn and seemed likely to finish on even terms with Diegel until he came out second best in an argument with a bunker at the twelfth, and took 6 for the hole.

Diegel and Von Elm staged great finishes to get their scores of 70 and 71, Diegel coming in 33 and Von Elm in 32.

Moe's 75 represented sound golf, but the young Westerner was disturbed because he missed six putts of 6 feet, or thereabouts, in the first twelve holes.

Horton Smith played his bad golf on the first nine holes when he had two sixes and used 40 strokes, but he came back brilliantly in 35.

It was a day of new upsets in form among the recognized leaders. In addition to Compston's great 70, Cyril Tolley had 72, Percy Alliss and Henry Cotton 73, Charles Whitcombe 75 and Abe Mitchell 76.

Sandy Herd, who won his first and only championship here 28 years ago, had 79.

The day's play placed dozens in the upper 70's and 80's, with two unat-

Ruel's Triple Prominent in Triumph

Wallop With 2 On in Eighth Again Puts Nats in Lead.

West Hits Homer in Ninth; Braxton in Relief Role.

By FRANK H. YOUNG (Staff Correspondent of The Post).

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, June 16.—After flopping around in and out of the lead this afternoon, the Nationals finally staged two late rallies, and beat out the Browns, 9 to 7. The victory put Washington in a tie for second place with the Cleveland Indians, who idled, and brought them to within half a game of the lead, due to a Detroit victory over the pace-setting Athletics.

It was a hectic game, with the Browns taking a three-run lead, losing it in the first part of the seventh and regaining it in the last part of the inning, only to see the Nats come back with a brace of two-run rallies in the last two frames. Even in the ninth tying runs on second and third when the Browns threatened, having the the final out was turned in.

Irving Hadley, Lloyd Brown and Garland Braxton were used by Manager Walter Johnson, while the Nationals knocked Walter Stewart, usually an enigma, and Chad Kimsey out of the box, bringing Sam Gray to the hill to finish out the string. These changes were made necessary due to bunched hits rather than to any great number.

Ruel's Triple Important Item.

Although Rice led the Nats at bat, with two doubles and a single, Muddy Ruel came through with a triple which figured preeminently, scoring two runs and giving the Nats their lead for the final time, while West's homer over the right-field wall opening the ninth did much toward clinching victory. Melillo and O'Rourke, with three hits and a walk apiece, were high guns for the home team.

Hadley and Stewart started the game as if they would stage a tight mound duel, but by the time the sixth rolled around Hadley had met with misfortune and had given way to Brown and the Nationals were on the short end of a 3-to-1 score.

Both teams had gone down in order in the first and a hit by Bluege, with two gone, had been wasted by

MACKS' LEAD CUT; TIGERS WIN, 9-8

A's Drive Hoyt Out of Box, But Are Held by Hogstett.

DETROIT, June 16 (A.P.).—The Tigers won the rubber game of the series with the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-8. The Mackmen retained a lead of a half game over the Nats, who tied the idle Indians in second place.

The A's pounded Waite Hoyt for four runs in the third and four in the fifth, but Elon Hogstett pitched

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 16.—For the third successive game the Nats' lead-off man was robbed of a hit. Goslin came in fast today to take Loepp's liner almost at his shoetops.

Goslin missed getting a homer by less than a yard in the Browns' first, the wind carrying his drive foul.

"Babe" Ganzel, former Nat outfielder, who is now playing third for the Louisville Colonels, stopped off while his team was en route to Kansas City to see his old teammates. Ganzel had plenty of nice things to say about Melbourne Simon, now with the Colonels, whom Commissioner Landis declared a free agent in the spring of 1929 while he was trying for a berth with the Nats. Simon had a great season last year and is now hitting around the .360 mark, says the Babe.

Gullic went well over toward the right-field line to rob Hayes of a hit, with Bluege on first, in the second frame.

In the home second Bluege raced over in front of Cronin to make a nice stop of Gullic's hot grasser only to peg badly to first. Hadley then pitched seven successive balls, a strike and another ball to fill the bases by walking both Melillo and O'Rourke. Four more wide ones in a row to Ferrell forced over a run, making only one strike pitched in thirteen successive deliveries.

McNeeley, former Nat, obtained the first St. Louis hit, opening the home third with a one-baser to left. The "Earl of Sacramento" started something, for three more cleans hits came before the Nats could turn in the third out.

Kress robbed Cronin of a hit in the fourth when he went over back of second for a hot bounder. He fell down after making the stop, but was

Grimm's Hit for Circuit With 3 On Wins for Cubs, 8-5.

NEW YORK, June 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Five—count 'em—home runs, all majestic smashes over the Polo Grounds fences, were manufactured by the New York Giants today right after the National League club owners had debated for some time over the evils of the lively ball.

But one little miscue on a ground ball in the ninth inning undid all the glory and majesty of the four-baggers, and Chicago's Cubs walked off with the third game of their series and tightened their grip on second place. The score was 8 to 5.

Italy Defeats Australia In Davis Cup Play, 3-2

Milan, Italy, June 16 (A.P.).—Italy eliminated Australia in the semifinal round of European zone Davis Cup tennis play here today. The final tally was three matches to two.

Leading by two matches to one at the close of the first two days of play, Italy clinched the tie when Baron H. L. Demorpurgo, ace of the Italian team, defeated Harry Hopman, 8—6, 2—6, 6—4, 1—6 6—1. Jack Crawford brought Australia's victories to two when he defeated Giogi de Stefani, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2.

Rough Water Forces Delay in Crew Race

Madison, Wis., June 16 (A.P.).—Rain accompanied by stiff winds kicked up high waves on Lake Mendota here this afternoon and forced postponement of the crew races between the University of Washington and the University of Wisconsin until 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The Washington freshmen's shell was swamped as an attempt was made to start the first race and the Badger yearlings' boat was half-filled with water. Coaches called the race in hopes of favorable weather in the morning.

The Washington and Wisconsin crews plan to leave tomorrow for the East to finish training for the Poughkeepsie regatta.

ago in collision with Lou Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman, in which the latter suffered a broken wrist and Shires sustained an injury to his back.

Shires has recovered completely from his injury but has not been able to regain his place in the White Sox lineup as the result of the brilliant playing of Bud Clancy, his substitute. Shires' batting this season has been below par, latest averages showing him hitting to the tune of only .254.

Is Stocky of Person.

The new addition to the Washington Club is a stocky, broad-backed individual, who bats left-handed and is something of a long distance hitter. As a fielder he is accepted as very passable, although lacking in the finesse of Judge.

Shires is calculated to supply in even greater measure the "color" that was lost to the Washington Team last week with the trading of "Goose" Goslin and Alvin Crowder, the first of Griffith's big deals in an effort to Goslin to the Browns for Heinie Manush to strengthen his club for the pennant drive.

The 23-year-old Texan, in his three years and a half in the big leagues has attained more publicity than any other player of his time, with the possible exception of Babe Ruth, and accounts of his doings on and off the baseball field, and in the prize ring during the off-season, have headlined the sports pages and the news sections of newspapers across the breadth of the Nation.

Shires has run the gamut of baseball discipline during his stay with the White Sox, who paid a round some for his contract in the Texas

OWNERS FIND NO CAUSE FOR CURB ON LIVELY BALL

Hitting Liked By Fans Is Finding

Scores of 8-6 Most Popular, Brooklyn Prober Learns.

Attendance Is Better, Magnates Learn at Meeting.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, June 16 (A.P.).—The crash of base hits rattling off the fences and home runs thudding over the barriers failed to disturb the magnates of the National League as they met with President John A. Heydler in special session today and argued over the so-called lively ball. On the basis of financial returns around the circuit, the club presidents decided to leave this strictly alone and let the clouting carnage go on.

Figures presented at the meeting but not made public disclosed that baseball's faithful apparently have no quarrel with the situation that has developed since the balls in use took on jackrabbit tendencies. Attendance at the ball parks has "increased substantially" during the first third of the 1930 season as compared with the figures for the corresponding period last year, President Heydler said. Clubs are doing especially well in Boston, Cincinnati and Brooklyn.

Carter Brings Out Figures.

A decisive note was added to the opposition to tampering with the present make-up of the ball by Walter F. ("Dutch") Carter, new member of the Brooklyn board of directors. Carter presented an imposing array of figures to show that baseball fans prefer baseball battles to tight pitching duels. Carter conducted a one-man referendum among the Brooklyn citizens and found that the most satisfying game to the majority of the fans ended in approximately an 8-to-6 score, combining fair pitching with not too much hitting.

Although trade rumors were in the air, with the deadline for the season set at midnight tonight, no player deals developed at the meeting.

Discussion of dates for opening the season ended with reference of the annual problem to the presidents of the American and National League, who will gather later to decide the issue. The possibility of night ball in the major leagues was not discussed.

Coaches placed on the active playing list because of the unprecedented league of injuries and illnesses visited on the National League clubs this season must stay on the inactive lists since they have been returned to their original jobs, President Heydler announced.

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Washington Park course features the Robert Sedgwick Handicap today at a mile and a furlong. It seems getting more difficult all the time to get large fields in distance races. Trainers are tending to sprint races, a quick dash, where the event is often decided by post position or a fast getaway from the barrier.

FEATURE RACE.

Five horses are entered for this feature, the conditions of which should draw a large field. STARS AND BARS has up only 113 pounds, and it is probable he will win easily. The field is more ordinary than those he usually meets. CANAAN is best of the others, and GALAHAD should show. The other starters are CHICAGO, a has-been, BEN MACHREE, a filly. STARS AND BARS won last on Memorial Day, beating much more formidable opposition, and is a good handicap horse, carrying the colors of the famous Greentree Stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney, of New York.

FIRST RACE—Maiden 3-year-olds start in the first race. BROADWAY LIMITED is best of the large field, as bad as he has become. BAKED ALASKA, which ran a good race at Churchill Downs, may be the second horse. JOHN R. has a chance to show.

SECOND RACE—CHATTER BLACK is selected to win the second race at a mile and 70 yards. STURDY STELLA is holding up to turn in a fair race occasionally, and looks like the contender. CLOVER CLUB should fight it out with RELLINE for third. CHATTER BLACK is better on a heavy track.

THIRD RACE—LEUCITE has the best chance to win in the third race that he has had for some time. This Rancocas horse has not been running up to his best form, but it is selected to beat FRANCES MILWARD, the strongest of the opposition. McGONIGLE, another mudder, may get third on a fast track.

FOURTH RACE—IN BETWEEN has shown enough speed by winning last week to take the fourth race, an allowance affair, from the field of 2-year-olds. The Rancocas Stable has a pair of shifty juveniles in the race, CHARMER being the stronger of the two, which should monopolize the place money. NORMAHAL is tabbed for third, and may be dangerous for the winning end of the purse.

SIXTH RACE—This is for 3-year-old fillies at a mile and 70 yards. ERIN is picked to win. She is of stake caliber and should be in best form by this time. She is trained in New York by James Fitzsimmons for the Wheatley Stable, and has a fine turn of speed, the only question being the distance. She ran third in the Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park, which is a mile and five-sixteenths, and was in front for six furlongs. GALADAY is the probable contender. TIPPY TOE should be in the money, and may be the favorite.

SEVENTH RACE—The seventh race is a good spot for IRENE T. She can go a route and will be hard to catch. VOLTMETER may be the contender. PORT O'PLAY should be the other money horse on Kentucky form.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAVORITE II, $11.28, $8.10, $4.18; PERCENTAGE, $5.88, $4.22; MISS MARNIE, $6.80.

FAVORITE II quickly sprinted into lead, set all his own pace with safe lead to the stretch, tired in late stages, but held PERCENTAGE safe. PERCENTAGE, a forward factor, came strongly in the final furlong, was wearing down the winner at the end. MISS MARNIE came to the outside for the final drive, closed a lot of ground and finished fast. GEORGE WEBER, away slowly, made up a lot of ground when he got through on inside in the stretch and closed with a rush. GIBBONS forced the pace to the final eighth, then tired. BRUNO, a forward factor first half, quit in the stretch drive.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Burnside. For 2-year-old maiden fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:51. Off at 2:55½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOLTAGREEN, $9.52, $5.84, $3.60; BEAUTIFUL DOLL, $10.50, $5.56; CANFLI, $3.72.

VOLTAGREEN, a factor from the start and never far off the pace, challenged strongly on the outside when straightened out in the stretch, wore down BEAUTIFUL DOLL and outfinished latter in a hard, final drive. BEAUTIFUL DOLL set a good pace first half mile, held on well, but could not withstand the winner. CANFLI gained gradually, came to outside for the final drive and outfinished CHICAGO GIRL. CHICAGO GIRL had early speed and held on well. TAVY could never reach contention. MICHIGAN GIRL tired in the stretch.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:21½. Off at 3:28½. Winner, C. W. Bidwell's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RIPFIELD, $103.22, $46.96, $26.86; JESSIE CAREY, $16.54, $9.36; MEDLEY, $11.08.

RIPFIELD, away well, forced the early pace and took lead from CAPTAIN HARRY entering the stretch, drew clear briefly, but tired and barely outlasted JESSIE CAREY in the hard final drive. JESSIE CAREY, close up on outside to the stretch, avoided interference and closed fast in final strides, just missing wearing down winner. MEDLEY improved position gradually and held on well in the final drive. TOMMY LAD, away slow, closed gamely on the inside. BROOKDALE MISS closed a big gap in final eighth and then tired.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:56. Off at 3:56½. Winner, E. M. May's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GUNFIRE, $18.56, $8.86, $5.70; THE DUKE, $12.34, $6.24; MISS JOAN, $4.14.

GUNFIRE, racing in his best form, rushed away into a good early lead, continued well to the end and had much in reserve. THE DUKE was on the outside, raced forwardly and was gaining on leaders in stretch until finish. MISS JOAN, in closest pursuit of GUNFIRE, went well to stretch, but faltered in the final drive. TWILL went wide. WEST VIRGINIA saved ground and had no mishaps. CARACALLA showed some early speed, then quit.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Illinois Athletic Club. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:28. Off at 4:30. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MORSEL, $9.32, $5.56, $3.50; JUSTINIAN, $5.92, $3.26; CROFTON, $4.64.

MORSEL, away fast and racing close to the pace, saved ground on inside, got through to leaders in the stretch run, drew away, but was under strong hand ride at the end to hold JUSTINIAN safe. JUSTINIAN, away and slow to find his stride, closed a big gap under pressure and was slowly wearing down the winner. CROFTON raced into closest contention, forced the pace to well into stretch run, then tired, but lasted to outfinish FLAT IRON. FLAT IRON closed a gap in the stretch and finished strong.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Grand Avenue. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:02. Winner, O. L. Foster's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROLLING SEA, $25.18, $9.06, $5.82; BILLY CHAMP, $5.96, $5.22; SUPRYSE, $7.30.

ROLLING SEA, outrun first half mile, was far out of it, but came fast on the outside entering stretch and, closing determinedly, was up to draw clear in final strides. BILLY CHAMP was rated in close contention on the inside, but lacked racing room, being repeatedly shut off, but came stoutly in the final furlong on the inside and outlasted SUPRYSE. SUPRYSE forced and set the pace along with ZIDA, finally racing latter into defeat, taking the lead again, but faltered in final issue. VALDOSTA, away last, closed a big gap and finished fast.

SEVENTH RACE—One nd one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:35½. Off at 5:37½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUMPSIE RAY, $19.68, $7.32, $5.00; OTILLA, $6.66, $4.28; FRIEDJOF NANSEN, $3.66.

BUMPSIE RAY, racing in best form and closer up than usual in early stages, moved up strongly to head off FRIEDJOF NANSEN at stretch turn, went into lead, but was hard urged to outlast OTILLA in a long, hard final drive. OTILLA made her run after being straightened out in the stretch, wore down and challenged BUMPSIE RAY, forced winner out fully, but was not quite good enough. FRIEDJOF NANSEN was always a forward factor, saved ground and held on fairly well. FIRE UNDER had no mishaps.

FOUR CAPITAL PROS QUALIFY TO PLAY IN U. S. OPEN

Al Houghton Leader at Richmond

Shorey and Thorn, in Tie for Second, Also Win Berths.

Beach Among Eight to Qualify in Philadelphia Section.

Special to The Washington Post.

RICHMOND, Va., June 16.—Three Washington golfers stole the show in the sectional qualifying test for the national open tournament at the Lakeside Country Club today.

Al Houghton, of Harper's Country Club; Mel Shorey, of East Potomac Park, and Arthur B. Thorn, of Woodmont—all pros—earned the right to compete for the crown now worn by Bobby Jones by outpacing a crack field of 29 linksmen gathered here from Virginia, Maryland, Washington, North Carolina and West Virginia.

It remained for the long-driving Houghton to lead the pack with his glistening score of 143 for the 36 holes route, while Shorey and Thorn were smashed in a tie for second with scores of 149.

Houghton was in tip-top form, playing unbeatable golf. In the morning round he clicked off a 71, even par for this trick course, while in the afternoon the Washington pro shot a 72.

Shorey Shoots 70 In Morning.

Houghton, outstanding in South Atlantic golf circles for many years, was in tiptop form, shooting consistently brilliant golf throughout the entire route. He was one over par in the morning round, turning in a 72, but came back stronger in the afternoon to blaze home with an even par score—71.

After negotiating the first half of the journey in 79 strokes, Mel Shorey, dazzled gallery gods with his superb performance in the afternoon, when he whipped through the eighteen holes with a record-breaking 70, the best registered in the day's competition.

Thorn, the Woodmont entry, set a conquering pace to lead the field in the morning play, clicking off a 71 to move into the final eighteen holes one stroke ahead of Al Houghton. Finding his putting unreliable in the afternoon Thorn finished with a 78.

There was an element of drama in the proceedings as far as the National Capital golfers were concerned. Going to the seventeenth hole in the afternoon one over par, Mel Shorey bagged two birdies to negotiate the final eighteen holes in 35—35—70. Shorey had a three on the seventeenth and rammed in a sensational 15-foot putt for a four, and Artie Thorn dropped a birdie on the eighteenth by playing three perfect shots to the green and then depositing his putt.

The cards of the three leading golfers with a par, follow:

Roland Hancock, of Lynchburg, State open champion, whose two sixes on the last two holes of the national open tourney in 1928 cost him the championship, was off color today. Hancock shot a 75—76 to tie with Charlie Isaacs, Winchester pro, who qualified last season, and Freddie McLeod, Columbia Club pro, of Washington, for the fourth place.

Hancock, the towering pro, who placed second to Bobby Jones, and Johnny Farrell two years ago, failed to produce the steller playing that won him the Virginia open here last year.

Freddie McLeod had a 75 in the morning and finished with a 76.

DIEGEL LEADS U. S. GOLFERS IN BRITAIN

tached pros from London going over 100.

Mark Seymour was advised of his father's death after he had completed his round in 71 and immediately withdrew from the competition.

Douglas Grant, American living in London, played well and returned a score of 76.

The field today was cosmopolitan, with players from Greece, Africa, Cuba, France, Italy, Spain and other countries. The contestants were benefited by the fine control of the galleries. An army of linesmen stretched three miles of rope to keep the crowds off the fairways and back from the greens.

The costumes, too, were varied today. Sid Ball played bare kneed in a sort of Boy Scout uniform. Another player wore a net over his sleek hair. Tolley split his sweater in one of his terrific lashes at the ball.

Gabriel Gonzales, of the Royal Puerta de Hirro Club, Madrid, speaks no English so the officials translated a long list of local rules for him and sent along an interpreter for his benefit. He had a good round of 78.

WOMEN NET STARS PLAY FINALS

Singles, Doubles on Program of District League Tourney.

A RENEWAL of the battle for the women's doubles championship of the recent City of Washington tournament will be fought today in the Women's District Tennis League tournament at Columbia Country Club courts when Phoebe Moorhead and Francis Walker meet Dorothy Kingsbury and Cecyle Raver at 4:30 o'clock.

One hour preceding the doubles final Josephine Dunham will engage Ruth Martinez for the singles championship. Following the doubles event the semifinals of the consolations will be held.

Have Chance for Revenge.

In the City of Washington tourney Misses Moorhead and Walker defeated Misses Kingsbury and Raver by scores of 6—4, 11—9, and the second set of that match was so closely contested that some observers thought the Kingsbury-Raver duo might reverse the result if given another chance. That chance is before them today.

Miss Dunham will be seeking her second championship of the season. She won the women's singles title of the City of Washington tournament.

In the second doubles semifinal yesterday the Moorhead-Walker team defeated Mary Ryan and Louise Omwake, 6—3, 6—4.

DOUBLES.

SEMIFINALS — Phoebe Moorhead and Frances Walker defeated Mary Ryan and Louise Omwake, 6—3, 6—4.

CONSOLATIONS.

Dorette Miller defeated Mary K. Burke, 6—3, 6—4; Goldie Crist defeated Marian King by default; Betty Cochran defeated Florence Seward, 6—4, 6—4.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

SINGLES.

FINAL—Josephine Dunham vs. Ruth Martinez, 3:30 o'clock.

DOUBLES.

FINAL—Phoebe Moorhead and Frances Walker vs. Dorothy Kingsbury and Cecyle Raver, 4:30 o'clock.

CONSOLATIONS.

SEMIFINALS—Dorette Miller vs. Goldie Crist, Betty Cochran vs. Edith McKelvey; 5 o'clock.

Japanese Lead Czechs In Davis Cup Tennis

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 16 (A.P.).—Japan took a 2 to 1 lead over Czechoslovakia in their semifinal round Davis Cup tennis contest today, when Takeichi Harada and Tamio Abe, of Japan, beat Jan Kozeluh and Roderich Menzel, 1—6, 7—5, 8—6, 9—7, in a hard fought doubles match. The two singles matches played previously had been divided.

LARRY BOERNER IDLES.

Charlotte, N. C., June 16 (A.P.).—Larry Boerner, pitcher, was suspended today by the Charlotte Hornets, of the South Atlantic Association, to make room for Eddie Wilson, outfielder, secured from Baltimore. Boerner, who is from Washington, had won five and lost three games this year.

NATS ACQUIRE SHIRES FOR BRAXTON, TATE

League. He has been chided, benched, suspended, blacklisted and expelled by the management, and in turn he has jumped the team, punched his manager in the nose on two occasions, repented, and lapsed again into fiery opposition to discipline.

He has taken a fling at the prize ring, "cleaned up" a cool $15,000 for four bouts, broken down and confessed the error of his ways in a star chamber session with Commissioner Landis and capped his off-season activities by being a holdout, later shaving his $25,000 salary demands to $15,000 then to $10,000 and finally signing for the reported terms of $8,000 offered by Owner Charles Comiskey.

Shires returned to the White Sox in training camp this spring to find a new manager, Donie Bush, at the helm instead of the hapless Lena Blackburne, who was the pet target of Shires' abuse and who took two decisive beatings at the hands of the Texan during the two seasons that they were player and manager on the same team.

WASHINGTON AWAITS CUP NET PLAY

Hotchkiss Tennis to Start Here on Friday.

THAT Washington will be afforded stern opposition in the Hotchkiss Cup tennis matches scheduled here Friday and Saturday seems definitely assured. The Baltimore Team, which has won the event five times since its inception in 1921, looms as the strongest contender for the title, this despite the fact that Washington, the winner in 1928 and 1929, retains the same clever players who participated the past two years.

Baltimore will present a powerful array, according to reports, which will include Eddie Jacobs, of the University of Pittsburgh, winner of the Maryland State singles championship, his younger brother, Billy Jacobs, national indoor junior champion; Johnny Howard and other ranking netmen of the Monumental City.

Both Richmond and Norfolk, the other two teams entered in the matches, are expected to furnish serious contention. Though neither ever has won the title, they have been improving year by year, and in 1929 Norfolk extended Washington to the limit, while Richmond did likewise in its battle with Baltimore. The latter bowed to Washington in the finals.

Washington's personnel, although not yet fully determined, is certain of showing Dooly Mitchell, of Georgetown University; Bob Considine, of George Washington University and local public parks champion; Tom Mangan, of Columbia Country Club, former District champion; Clarence Charest, of Edgemoor Club, present District champion; Eddie Yoemans, of the University of North Carolina, and Commander C. C. Gill, of the Navy Leech Cup Team.

Matches on Two Courts.

The matches will open Friday at 2:30 p. m., two teams playing at Chevy Chase Club and the other two at Columbia Country Club where the final will be held Saturday, also starting at 2:30. The pairings will be made Friday at noon when the visiting players will arrive. The visitors will stop at the Racquet Club.

The committee in charge is composed of Arthur Hellen, of Chevy Chase Club; Tom Mangan, of Columbia Country Club, and Clarence Charest, of Edgemoor Club.

Stribling 6-5 Favorite For Von Porat Match

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—William (Young) Stribling and Otto Von Porat, each aiming to improve his position in the heavyweight parade at the expense of the other, in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, went into their final training exercises today with the Southerner a 6-to-5 favorite.

Stribling took time out to go to New York for the Schmeling-Sharkey bout, while Von Porat remained at work. Stribling's greater experience and superior ring craft were expected to offset Von Porat's terrific punching power, although there was some wagering that Otto would give William his first knockout defeat.

The gate promises to be larger than the Von Porat-Gagnon bout three weeks ago. The advance sale today had reached $20,000 and more than $70,000 worth of trade was anticipated by the time they climb into the ring.

SELIGSON ADVANCES.

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Julius Seligson, of Lehigh University, top seeded player, advanced to the third round of the Eastern intercollegiate tennis title tournament today, defeating George Schaffer, Alabama, 6—2, 6—2.

NATS' SLUMP BLAMED ON PITCHING

Johnson Sees Early Return to Form; Crowder Starter.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

ST. LOUIS, June 16.—Despite the sorry showing of his team since it collapsed on him in Philadelphia last Decoration Day, Manager Walter Johnson has not lost faith in his Nationals, basing his hopes on what the club showed at the start of this year, plus what it did in the waning days of the 1929 race.

"You remember that we showed that we had the stuff to rate us among the best in the league last season, when, after playing only mediocre ball, we suddenly got going and traveled faster than any of our rivals in the last six weeks?" he asked. "Well, we showed again when this race started that we have the 'goods' and it's just a question of us getting started again. All teams have their slumps. We are having one now and it is a lucky break for us that, despite our recent losses we are just a jump out of first place. I see signs of our return to top form again and then—watch out."

Many Losses Suffered After Leading.

Johnson blames most of the club's sudden downfall on his pitchers. True, some of the players in other departments have slumped now and then, but it has been the inability of the mound staff to hold its own that has cost the team victories, many of these defeats having come after the Nationals had enjoyed a lead.

Just about the time the Nationals left Washington, practically all of the fingers suddenly flopped. Then an off day on the schedule and rain in the Detroit and Cleveland series kept the hurlers from getting the work they needed and ever since Johnson has been trying to develop a "big four," who could be depended upon to give good service on the rotation plan.

While concentrating on rounding four into condition, the others had to be overlooked. Brown, for instance, has not worked during this entire trip, but he will start taking his regular turn as soon as the team gets home Thursday, Johnson stated this morning.

Marberry, Thomas Disappointing.

During his experimenting, Liska and Hadley alone showed signs of returning to top form. Marberry has proved a big disappointment, while Thomas has been a total loss in relief roles. The recent acquisition of Crowder has helped considerably and with Brown promoted to Marberry's place, Johnson believes that he will get fairly good pitching from now, using Hadley, Liska, Brown and Crowder in order.

There has been considerable comment in connection with Johnson's failure to use Brown on this trip, but Trainer Mike Martin is authority for the statement that the left-hander went stale and was rather drawn and not at his best when this trip started. He now appears to be ready to go and probably will draw the starting assignment in Washington Thursday, when the Nats open their second 1930 defense against a Western invasion.

Johnson also was counting on the veteran, "Sad Sam" Jones, to come through with a victory now and then, but he was taken ill in Detroit and had to be sent home when the Nats reached Cleveland, their second stop. Word was received from the flinger's home at Woodsfield, Ohio, that he is still confined to his bed, which means that he will be lost to the club for two more weeks, at least.

End of Slump Near, Johnson Declares.

"We are coming along all right, though," said the Nat leader. "We are a little down but we are far from out and I'm not worrying a bit about our future. I've been in this game too long not to expect slumps and I can read the signs pretty well when one's near its end. We are just about out of ours—and I'll put that in writing if you want me to."

The series final with the Browns which also ends a rather disastrous Western trip for the Johnsons, is scheduled here tomorrow. Adolph Liska is due to get the call on the hill for the Nats, with "Rip" Collins probably doing the native slab work.

Club-swinging should come natural to Dave Harris, one of the Nats new outfielders, for he was a policeman in Greensboro, N. C., before taking up professional ball.

First Baseman Joe Judge probably will remain inactive until the Nats return home. His "charley horse" is about cured, but Johnson would rather keep the veteran on the bench for a day or so more than to take a chance on further injury, which might put him out of commission for a month.

fine ball after Hoyt was driven from the mound, and Tiger sluggers put on batting rallies in the closing innings, tying the score in the eighth and scoring the winning tally in the ninth. Alexander hit a home run with two on in the fifth. Roy Johnson hit two homers over the left field wall.

Herman Leads Robins To Victory Over Cards

Brooklyn, June 16 (A.P.).—Behind the steady pitching of Ray Phelps, the league-leading Brooklyn Robins defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 3, today. Phelps lost a shut-out victory in the final inning, when High's line single through the box injured the lanky Robins' pitcher's hand and the Cards went on to score three runs.

Babe Herman led Brooklyn's twelve-hit attack with a double and two singles in four trips to the plate, driving in three runs. Johnson was the starting pitcher for the Cards, but retired in the fifth in favor of Lindsey, who was followed by Frankhouse.

Reds Hammer Grimes In Trouncing Braves

Boston, June 16 (A.P.).—Burleigh Grimes and Bruce Cunningham were mistreated by the Cinicinnati Reds here today and the Ohioans romped off with an 11 to 1 victory over the Braves. Grimes was knocked out of the box in the fourth and Cunningham, who took the veteran's place, fared but little better, although he weathered the storm.

The Braves' lone tally came when Wally Berger drove his eighteenth home run of the season into the left field bleachers off Benny Frey.

able to force out Manush at second. Rice scored from third on the tap.

Stewart did not hit like a pitcher when he led off in the alien fourth. He lashed a liner-triple to left-center stands. This drive knocked Hadley off the hill, Brown coming to his relief.

Cronin made a fine play to kill Stewart at the plate in this fourth session, taking McNeely's ball on a bad hop.

McNeely, on second, and Goslin, on first, tried to pull a delayed double-steal off Brown in the fourth, but Brown had not started to wind up and easily nipped McNeely on a peg to Bluege.

Loepp flied to Goslin ending the fifth for the third successive time during the game.

A double play, Cronin to Myer to Hayes, prevented a St. Louis run in the fifth round, for Melillo and O'Rourke followed with clean singles.

Cronin went to the grass back of Bluege for Stewart's tap opening the home sixth, but his throw to first was just a flicker late.

Harris kept his record clean as a Washington pinch-hitter by drawing a pass when at the tee in place of Spencer in the seventh.

Judge got in the game for a few moments when he pinch-hit for Hayes in the eighth, singling to left to advance Bluege, who had coaxed a pass with two out. Thomas then ran for the regular first-sacker.

Patsy Gharrity got in his first regular game of the season when he relieved Hays at first in the eighth after Judge had pinch-hit for Hayes.

Lyons' 2 Wild Pitches Enable Boston to Win

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—Ted Lyons' efforts directed toward a tenth victory were not successful today and the Boston Americans made it two straight over the White Sox, 6 to 3.

Two wild pitches in the seventh inning, one of them a fluke, when the ball, made slippery by a slight rainfall, oozed from his hand, led to Lyons' defeat. The Red Sox built three runs about them and two walks, a single by Narlesky and Oliver's double.

FRONT ROYAL WINS.

Front Royal, Va., June 16 (Special). The Front Royal All-Star Baseball Team defeated the Rippon (W. Va.) Baseball Team at Rippon, 13 to 6. Rippon had the lead until the fifth inning, when the All-Stars tightened up and made several runs, tying the score and taking the lead which they kept. Eastham, pitching for the All-Stars, allowed only seven hits. Armstrong's playing for the All-Stars, getting two doubles, one triple and one single out of five was the main feature.

the Nats in the second round when the natives were presented with the first run of the game. A questionable error charged to Bluege gave Gullic life with one gone and then Hadley showed as wild a streak as has been seen in some time, quickly walking three men to force over a run. He then pulled out of further trouble, but ran into some more in the next round.

McNeely Starts Rally With Single.

McNeely opened this third canto for the enemy by singling to left and, after the next two had been retired successive singles, all clean ones, by Gullic, Melillo and O'Rourke, scored two more runs.

When Stewart opened the third with a lusty triple, Brown relieved Hadley and managed to keep the home flinger from registering. A double play prevented two singles from doing the Browns any good in the fifth.

Meanwhile, Stewart had no troubles until the fourth, when the Nats molded one counter, the ingredients being Rice's opening double, Manush's single, and Cronin's useful out.

In the sixth, Stewart's opening single, an infield out, and McNeely's one-baser to center, gave the Browns another marker and then the Nats suddenly came to life in the seventh and chased Stewart to the showers with a four-run rally which brought them from behind to in front.

Myer Opens Seventh With Double.

Myer opened this "lucky" frame with a double and, after Bluege had rolled to O'Rourke, counted on Hayes' triple to left center. Harris, up for Spencer, walked, and it looked as though the rally was over when Brown fanned. Loepp, however, singled Hayes home and Rice then cleaned the bases with his second two-bagger of the game.

Prosperity seemed to go to Brown's head, however, and the Browns retaliated in their half with a two-run splurge which put them in front again. With one out, Melillo singled, O'Rourke doubled and Ferrell singled and the runs were over almost as quickly as it takes to tell the details.

The Nats were not through yet, though, for they again took the lead in the eighth, doing their scoring after two were down. Then Bluege coaxed a pass, Judge, up for Hayes, singled him to second, and gave way to Thomas on the paths, and Ruel came through with a triple to right, putting the Nats on the long end of a 7-to-6 count.

West Opens Ninth With Homer.

This time the Nats made their lead stand up. After holding the natives scoreless in the lower portion of the eighth, they added two more runs to their total in the ninth. West gave them one by starting off with a home-run drive over the right-field stands, and Rice's single, McNeely's error on it, and Cronin's Texas leaguer to left were responsible for the other tally.

With two out in the home final, Ferrell coaxed a walk and was allowed to take second and third unmolested. Pinch-Hitter Hale then singled him home. When Blue doubled to right, sending Hale to third, Braxton relieved Brown. Only a hit was needed to tie the score, but the southpaw saw to it that this was not forthcoming by forcing McNeely to roll to Cronin for the out which ended the game.

Klein Hits 19th Homer In Phils' 18-14 Victory

Philadelphia, June 16 (A.P.).—In a wild and wooly contest marked by 32 runs and 38 base hits, the Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 18 to 14.

Chuck Klein kept up his hitting and ran his streak to 25 consecutive games by making four safeties. One of these was his nineteenth home run of the season in the third inning. O'Doul, Hurst and Brickell also hit homers. At one time the Phils held a 12 to 2 lead, but the Pirates came back in the closing three innings to score eleven runs.

ley and nowadays he can have just about anything he wants from Mr. Muldoon.

The ole man has wasted a tremendous force of purpose and principle on a racket too low for shame. No man ever has challenged his honesty or his sincerity, but the world might have been somewhat richer for his life if his intelligence had been of a kind to deal in government or industry or science. Even Burbank would have made a flop of his life if he had spent all his time trying to teach the stinkweed to give attar of roses.

STOCKS AGAIN SINK; NEW LOWS APPEAR

Hundreds of Issues Drop to 1930 Bottom Prices in Large Turnover.

GRAIN PRICES HARD HIT

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The world-wide period of deflation asserted itself forcefully on the financial markets today. Prices of stocks and commodities melted away rapidly in the severest liquidation of the year.

Share values on the New York Stock Exchange broke precipitately, plunging literally hundreds of issues, including many of the list's bulwarks, to new lows for the year. Wheat, corn and cotton were sharply depressed. Only the high-grade bonds showed any steadiness and the general tone of that market was irregular. New York bank stocks were weak.

The volume of stock trading gave a clue to the sources of the selling, for with sales totaling more than 5,600,000 shares it was apparent that professional operators were not responsible for all of the liquidation. Large holders of equity securities had obviously become discouraged not only with the market's recent performances, but with the prospects for as prompt a business recovery as had been thought likely. Quotable comment by prominent bankers was, of course, withheld, but one prominent financer expressed the view that overproduction was still an evil to be dealt with.

Tariff Is Selling Point.

The prospects that second-quarter earnings, which will be appearing in another fortnight, would be disappointing added to the general pessimism in speculative circles. Doubtless the tariff was seized upon by the bears as a selling point, but the part that this legislation played in today's decline was difficult to determine. Of perhaps more influence was the weakness of grain in the Chicago market. Wheat closed 3 cents lower and corn was off 2 cents. Cotton slumped $1.75 to $2.55 a bale on the New York Exchange.

Although some of the stock selling seemed to be coming from important holders, brokerage houses reported a fairly lively business on the buying side. Leading stocks were taken on the scale down by large interests, including investment trusts that had been pursuing a policy of watchful waiting. However, the forces favoring the decline were not to be denied and the market closed at the bottom.

The weakness of the list during the morning was relieved early in the afternoon by the appearance of support, but this was quickly overcome in the final dealings and net losses in the active high-grade shares ranged from 2 to 10 points and to 20 or more in others. Seasoned investment issues were conspicuously weak.

American Telephone Drops.

It was a hard day for such seasoned veterans as American Telephone, U S Steel, American Can, New York Central, Atchison, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Westinghouse Electric. The last named, with Telephone, Steel and Can, sank to a new low and net declines in the stocks mentioned ran from 4 to 10 points. Westinghouse closed 11¼ lower.

More spectacular breaks, from 20 to 22 points, appeared in Allied Chemical, American Machine & Foundry, J. I. Case, Peoples Gas and Worthington Pump, while Vanadium, Houston Oil and Auburn Auto were off 12 to 15 at the close.

The heaviness of the commodities, particularly the grains, was disconcerting. Buying power of a large part of the popular is affected by the prices of these staples, and with July wheat breaking to nearly 95c at its low point, the stock market was quick to make sympathetic response.

Money Again Eases.

Money again eased. Short term time loans were cut half of 1 per cent to the lowest in several years. It was reported that the New York Federal Reserve Bank had reduced its buying rate on short term bills by 1-8, and at least one prominent acceptance dealer cut its bid price by the same figure on 90-day paper.

Crude rubber, coffee and sugar joined the decline in the other commodities. Rubber futures made new 1930 lows, while sugar, under liquidation by Cuban houses, apparently were selling on the tariff news, declined to the lowest levels of the season in nearly all positions. The close in this staple, however, was fairly steady, at net losses of 5 to 7 points. Coffee eased 11 to 21 points.

Final quotations on Chicago wheat disclosed breaks of 2 7-8 to 3 1-4 cents a bushel. Corn lost 2 to 2 1-2 cents.

Foreign exchanges eased. Sterling sagged slightly, but the Spanish peseta dropped several points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—Cotton prices made new low records for the season today under further selling of July, attributed to liquidation of trailing long accounts and more or less general selling of later months promoted by weakness in stocks and grains and a favorable view of crop advices.

July contracts broke to 13.24, or 61 points net lower, and closed at 13.34, while the new October sold off to 12.75 and closed at that figure with the general market closing easy at net declines of 37 to 91 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 6 to 27 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and a favorable interpretation of the weather map. Selling soon became more active and general, while the market seemed to lack aggressive support and stop orders were uncovered on the decline. They sent the price of July off to 13.24 and at one time that position appeared to be selling a few points under the old December.

Weakness in the grain and stock markets seemed to stimulate the selling of cotton while the gradual disappearance of the July premium had an unsettling effect on sentiment. The decline to approximately 13¼c for July and about the 13c level for new December contracts brought in considerable covering or buying for a reaction and there were moderate rallies during the early afternoon accompanied by reports that the cooperative interests were not selling.

The demand appeared to be quite readily supplied, however, and the market weakened again in the last hour under a renewal of the selling movement, with all the new crop months reaching the lowest levels of the day and season. The closing price for July showed a rally of 10 points from the lowest, but other months were at the lows with the old December closing at 13.09 and the new December at 12.88. The closing quotation for July showed a premium of 59 points over the new October compared with 70 points at the close of last week.

Liverpool cables attributed the decline in that market to local and continental liquidation and reported a bearish sentiment in the Manchester goods market, with the break in cotton checking business in cloth.

Exports today 3,885, making 6,575,588 so far this season. Port receipts, 4,483. U. S. port stocks, 1,705,110. Fertilizer tag sales for 13 Southern States for six months ended May 31 are said to have been 2.7 per cent larger than last year.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS HARD HIT BY LOSSES

Section Drops in Sympathy With Stocks as New Lows Appear.

TIME MONEY AGAIN CUT

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The listed bond market gave one of its most ragged performances of the year today, when the weakness of stocks triumphed over easy money conditions to cause wide fluctuations.

Selling of stock privilege issues—convertible and warrant bonds—was heavy and several sank to the lowest level of the year. Best grade bonds in the strictly investment domestic list showed the narrowest fluctuations and were generally steady, but the rest were irregular, and 1 and 2 point losses were common. Foreign bonds and United States Governments held their ground.

Much of the selling was ascribed to necessity occasioned by demands for further protection of stock market accounts. A constructive factor which bolstered many of the prime investment issues was the further easing of time money rates on short maturities, the reductions establishing the lowest rates of the year. Call money remained at 2½ per cent.

American Telephone Drops.

The influence of the weakness in stocks was evident in the price movement of some of the most actively traded convertibles and warrant bonds. New 1930 lows were established by Atchison 4½s, off 1⅜; and International Telephone 4½s off 1¼. American Telephone 4½s lost 2½; St. Paul 5s sagged ¾ to equal the 1930 low; General Theaters 6s, ¾; Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, 3; Anglo-Chile Nitrate warrant 7s, 2; Pathe warrant 6s, 2, Walworth warrant 6½s 4⅜, and Warner Brothers Pictures 6s, 1¼.

The steadiness of legal issues of railroads was in sharp contrast with the reactionary turn the convertible issues of the same companies took. The fluctuations among secondary rails was more marked. Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s broke 3½ points to a new low for the year.

There were more signs of easing among utilities. The loss in the International Telephone convertible 4½s was duplicated by the debenture 5, which was close to the low of the year on the movement.

Richfield Oil Loses.

Among industrials, a heavy turnover took place in the National Dairy 5¼, which lost ½ point, to touch 97, the low of the year. Richfield Oil 6s, International Hydroelectric 6s, Cuba Cane Products 6s, Pan-American Petroleum 6s, Porto Rican Tobacco 6s, were at the lowest levels of the year, yielding 1 to 2 points.

Foreign issues were active and steady. South American governments were firm. Chile Bank 6s made a new 1930 high. Turnover in German 5½s was reduced and the price eased ⅜, to 90, the offering price.

Liberty first 4¼s and Liberty fourth 4¼s showed strength and enhanced their high price of the year.

A depressing factor in the market today was the huge total of new offerings with which the week started. They included the $60,000,000 Union Gulf Corporation 5 per cent bond issue, which was oversubscribed.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 16 (A.P.).—Disturbed by stock market weakness and by much talk of probable foreign retaliation against United States agricultural products, wheat prices today fell as much as 4c a bushel. All other grain values collapsed with wheat, breaking the season's low record, and in some cases overturning figures that went back for many years—July wheat, for example, plunging down below any point heretofore touched since 1914 and rye since 1900. The day's lowest prices were simultaneous with announcement that the new tariff bill had reached the White House for President Hoover's promised signature.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 2¾c to 3½c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1⅞c to 2½c down, oats ¾c to 1c off and provisions unchanged to a setback of 37c.

Heavy general selling that has been a feature of the wheat market of late came quickly into prominence again today the moment trading opened. Sharp downturns in Liverpool wheat quotations had preceded the start of business here, and there were also dispatches at hand telling of further rains in Canada and the American Northwest, beneficial to the spring wheat crop. Of still greater significance, apparently to the average trader, was the fact that President Hoover had made known his intention to sign the new tariff bill, and that in various quarters opinions were being expressed the result would be further tightening up of European import duties on wheat from the United States.

Despite the ensuing urgent pressure to sell wheat future deliveries, the trading pit gave no evidence of any such excitement as sometimes accompanies an unusual downward sweep of values. Lack of confidence on the part of buyers and a consequent dearth of orders to purchase was given by some observers as the chief characteristic of the trading. General uncertainty prevailed as to whether prospective world supply and demand conditions had yet reached a point which would afford an adequate basis for purchases on an extensive scale. Friends of higher prices vainly pointed out that wheat today was down nearly 13c a bushel compared with a year ago, and that July delivery of wheat at Kansas City representing the new crop now being harvested in the Southwest had fallen to below 90c a bushel, contrastnig acutely with the farmer's old-time idea of $1.

Corn and other grain went swiftly down hill, carried along by the momentum of wheat. For the first time in a long while, corn prices were in the "sixties." December delivery, which stands for the 1930 crop, being quoted at as low as 68⅝c a bushel. Oats were also weak despite reports that the oats crop is now promising a smaller yield than was expected.

Although hog values much of time today were steady to strong, provisions were unable to withstand the effect of grain weakness.

Closing indemnities:
Wheat—July, 92⅞ to 93, 98¾ to 98⅞; September, 95½ to 95⅝, 1.01½ to 1.01⅝; December, 99½ to 99⅝, 1.05½. Corn—July, 71½, 76 to 76¼; September, 71½ to 71⅞, 73¾ to 75⅞; December, 67¼, 70¼.

Flying in 1776

IN 1776 an enterprising pioneer fitted up a wagon able to make the ninety-mile trip over the rough and dangerous Colonial roads between New York and Philadelphia. The journey required only two days—and this was considered such marvelous speed that the owner advertised his wagon as the "Flying Machine." Today real flying machines, built through gradual and patient accumulation of flying knowledge, cover the same route in less than an hour.

The road to sudden riches, like the colonial roads of old, is rough and dangerous. Some people, seeing the vast wealth of many financiers, marvel—while others know that it is the gradual accumulation of funds over a period of years that brings real financial independence.

That is why wise investors purchase the First Mortgage Notes issued through Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company, for these notes have proven throughout the years that they do not fluctuate in value; are always worth 100 cents of your invested dollar—year in and year out, and steadily, unfailingly, they pay you your regular interest return of 6 per cent per annum.

Curb Review

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The curb market experienced its most drastic decline since the autumn selling panic today. Curb stocks were dumped overboard right and left to protect big board margins, and powerful bear attacks aggravated the situation in spots. Sales aggregated 1,788,100 shares.

A feature was Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line which collapsed from the year's high of 36¼ to a new low at 15, and closed at 21½, off 14¾ points. This stock was held stubbornly around the year's high level throughout the past two weeks of selling, but went into a nose dive today when the selling became so heavy in the Chicago market that it was necessary to suspend trading there to give specialists an opportunity to balance their books. Frank P. Parish & Co., which has been sponsoring the issue, announced that short selling became so heavy today that supporting orders were withdrawn, a technical situation not involving the value of the shares.

Such popular issues as Electric Bond & Share and Cities Service plunged to new low levels for the year, along with the majority of the more active issues. Electric Bond & Share dropped more than 10 points to 78, the year's lowest, compared to a November bottom of 50. Cities Service dropped nearly 4 points to a 1930 low of 25½, compared to a low last fall of 20.

Utilities bore the brunt of the selling, but oils, industrials and investment trusts were also under continuous pressure. American and Foreign Power warrants, American Light & Traction, United Gas, Lone Star Gas and United Light were among issues losing about 5 to 9 points. In the oils, Cosden and Gulf each dropped 5 points to new lows. Standard of Indiana lost only ¾. Deere was again under pressure, dropping 8 points to a new low of 100, then rallying moderately. In the mines, Newmont dropped 10 points to the year's lowest. In the investment and trading company group, Goldman Sachs sagged a couple of points to a new low. Transamerica was fairly well supported.

FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

Paris, June 16 (A.P.).—Prices were easier on the bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 87 francs 5 centimes ex-interest; 5 per cent loan, 101 francs 15 centimes; exchange on London, 123 francs 80 centimes. The dollar was quoted at 25 francs 48¾ centimes.

London, June 16 (A.P.).—Bar silver, 15 1/16d per ounce; money, 2 per cent; discount rates, short bills, 2⅛@2¾ per cent; three months, 2⅛ per cent.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN TO MEET THURSDAY

Head of Association Calls on Members for Their Whole-hearted Aid.

CHICAGOAN WILL SPEAK

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Aid of every member of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association in making the new administrative year a successful one, is requested by John H. Snyder, new president of the organization, who urges service on the membership committee, regular attendance at meetings, advice and suggestion for the welfare of the group.

In his message to the membership, Mr. Snyder states: "I would like to see more members take active part in the work of the organization. Surely every member can appreciate that the association has aided in the upward progress of life insurance, has strengthened the morale of the field men and has fostered the professional aims of our business. In turn, every member surely owes the association his earnest efforts to assist in carrying out to a successful conclusion the 1930 program.

"Efficient chairmen have been appointed to the various committees. Members who may be assigned to serve under them should be active and not leave the entire burden on the chairman to accomplish the duties of the committee. If each and every member will put his mind and heart, when called into action, into the work of the local and national association, wonderful results will be obtained.

"Seven Creative Ideas."

The June meeting of the association will be held Thursday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at Hay-Adams House and Paul W. Cook, instructor of agents, Chicago agency of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., will speak on "Seven Creative Ideas of Life Insurance." The speaker is a personal producer of high rank, active in the affairs of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters and is noted for his "recipes" for selling life insurance set forth in his work, entitled "The Cook Book."

The intelligent and courageous service rendered by the banks in the stock market collapse last fall has been a frequent subject for praise, but seldom for warning. Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board in his article "Safer Brakes for America's Credit Machinery," appearing in the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal, states that the banks were able to check the incipient panic without crumbling under the strain because the banking structure was sound. He warns, however, against the assumption that the banks would be just as successful the next time.

The essay of Miss Frances M. Pearce of the new business department, Federal-American National Bank, which was judged winner of the contest of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, has been published in pamphlet form by that bank for distribution to bankers and those interested in banking.

Prominent in Outside Affairs.

The Federal-American National Bank has figured prominently in outside affairs during the past year. Its president, John Poole, is president of the Community Chest; Wilmer J. Waller, a vice president, is the latest past president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association; Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer, is editor of the Bulletin, the bankers association's monthly publication; W. L. Sanderson, another employe, was a consul of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, and John C. Franzoni won honorable mention in the bankers association's essay contest.

Joseph Schiavone, former president of the International Exchange Bank, was host at a recent dinner at Congressional Country Club, honoring Col. Robert N. Harper, retiring president of the District National Bank and Joshua Evans, jr., new president of the latter bank. It was attended by 20 bankers.

Frank G. Burroughs, assistant cashier of Riggs National Bank, is on his vacation.

The June issue of Security News, published by the American Security & Trust Co., is a most interesting one.

Vice President A. M. Nevius, Riggs National Bank, is a business visitor in Colorado.

William Knowles Cooper, partner in Crane, Parris & Co., has sailed for a two months' European tour.

$31,510,423 Drop In Accepted Bills

Federal Reserve Bank and Outside Demand Seen as Rather Active.

New York, June 16 (A.P.).—The total of bankers' acceptances outstanding on May 31 was $1,382,206,855, a decrease of $31,510,423 from April 30 and a gain of $275,038,003 over the total a year ago the former date.

"For some weeks," said the American acceptance council in reporting the figures today, "the dearth of newly made bills offered in the market has indicated a possible heavy reduction in the volume of acceptance credits. The council figures not only do not support this theory but rather suggest that the low total for 1930 has been reached and that new credit bills are already making their appearance.

"Notwithstanding a very low investment yield, the demand for bills both from the Federal Reserve Banks and the outstanding market has been encouragingly active for the past month, exceeding on numerous occasions the supply of newly created bills available. The condition has been largely responsible for the recent cuts in bill rates to the present low level which has not prevailed previously since October, 1924. The present rates are considered sufficiently low, but if the investment market demand for bills can not be supplied, further cuts may be necessary to induce acceptance banks to release their bills as soon as they are made."

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

National City Bank.

J. P. M.—I would be pleased to receive your advice as to what I should do in the following instance: I own 60 shares of National City Bank stock, on which I have borrowed $10,000. This costs me $600 per year, and I am wondering what you think as to the advisability of selling or holding it. I might add that the interest on the loan represents an appreciative part of my income, which is entirely salary.

Answer—It is not within the province of the writer of this column to give advice along such lines. The purpose of this column is to pass judgment upon the investment qualifications of securities and not to advise as to whether the same should be either bought, sold, or held. Even though the yield on National City Bank stock at present is small, there can be no question as to its desirability as an investment.

Simmons Company and Others.

H. J. L.—The writer owns 50 shares of Simmons Co., 25 shares Cities Service and 100 shares General Baking common. What are the earnings of these companies and their future prospects?

Answer—Simmons Co. reported for year 1929 net income of $4,626,561, comparing with $4,275,371 for 1928. Sales for May, 1930, and five months ended therewith reflected substantial losses from corresponding periods last year. Outlook at present none too promising. Cities Service reported for year ended with April, 1930, net, after interest, etc., of $44,056,128, comparing with $30,461,184 the year previous. Prospects of company, in natural gas and other lines, are very bright just now. General Baking for year ended December 28, 1929, reported net incme of $6,439,799, comparing with $6,815,771 the year previous. Fact that company found it necessary recently to cut preferred dividend in half is not reassuring. However, company reports quite an extensive expansion program, with new plants now operating at Indianapolis and Washington, D. C.

Guardian Financial.

W. M.—Can you please give me any advice in this matter? In June, 1928, I invested about $1,100 in shares of the Guardian Financial Plan, Inc., main office, 205-217 Forty-second street, New York City. Last month I went to New York to sell the stock, but found out that the corporation was bankrupt. Have I any hope of getting some of my money back?

Answer—This is another case of locking the stable after the horse is out. Had you consulted this column prior to having purchased the shares referred to, you never would have done so, and your money would have been saved. It is impossible now to advise what can be done. On May 3, 1930, Justice MacCrate, in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, N. Y., granted a permanent injunction against seven interrelated companies and six individuals, restraining them, under Martin act, from further dealings in securities. Among the companies so enjoined was the Guardian Financial Plan, Inc., of 205 East Forty-second street, New York City. About the same time, the same justice appointed a receiver for the company. This receiver is Harold Turk, of 26 Court street, Brooklyn, N. Y. You might communicate with him.

St. Louis & San Francisco R. R.

F. H. D.—I am thinking of buying St. Louis & San Francisco Railway 6 per cent preferred stock, which is quoted now at about $99. Can you give me a word of advice on this stock?

Answer—You could hardly make a better choice. Earnings for the preferred stock in 1929 amounted to $20.81 a share, comparing with $16.61 in 1928. The yield on the investment at prevailing prices is slightly in excess of 6 per cent, a very substantial one. Moreover, there is every reason to expect a continuance of the present $6 dividend indefinitely.

Glidden Co., Family Stores.

F. B. G.—Please advise me as to Glidden Co. as an investment. Do you still think well of National Family Stores preferred?

Answer—In view of the fact that earnings of Glidden Co. in the six months ended April 30, 1930, amounted to only 30 cents a common share, whereas dividend requirements for that period were $1 a share, the stock does not appear any too attractive just now, even though the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share was declared payable July 1, 1930, and that the yield to the investor at present prices is in excess of 10 per cent. According to officials of the company, outlook for future business is somewhat improved. This may result in better earnings in the future.

Earnings on National Family Stores preferred for the fiscal year ended February 1, 1930, amounted to $21.30. This compared with $9.53 a share for the year ended January 31, 1929. Dividends paid on the issue are $2 a share annually. The return to the investor at present market prices is approximately 9 per cent. Considering these facts, the stock is well thought of as an investment.

American Chicle.

J. G. S.—What can you tell me about the earnings of American Chicle?

Answer—American Chicle is now selling for less than ten times the 1929 earnings and indicated profits for 1930, and one of the few companies whose business is exceeding that of this time last year.

An extra dividend, in addition to the 50-cent quarterly, was declared last month, payable July 1 to holders of record June 12. Profits for 1929 were $4.19 per share, as against $4.15 on a smaller amount of stock in 1928. Chicle may be regarded as a speculative-investment with some attraction.

American Tobacco B.

N. O. H.—A friend has advised the purchase of American Tobacco B stock on the ground that the dividend will be raised. How is the business of this company and how is the stock regarded?

Answer—Production of one of American Tobacco's cigarette brands shows a phenomenal increase for the first quarter over the same period a year ago, indicating a greater demand. It has been officially intimated that the stock will be split this year and a higher dividend announced. Unconfirmed reports indicate a splitup two for one with the new stock going on a $6 annual dividend basis. This would be equivalent to $12 on the present shares which pay $8.

Net income last year increased approximately $5,000,000 over 1928, earnings for the common being equal to $11.53 a share, as against $11.19 on a smaller number of shares in 1928. Working capital at the end of last year totaled $143,000,000, as compared with $109,402,000 the year previous. Current assets December 31 included $20,000,000 cash; $10,000,000 call loans and $102,500,000 inventories. The stock may be classed as a speculative-investment suitable for the long term.

Silica Gel.

M. B. A.—Can you tell me how much Silica Gel stock is now held by Davison Chemical? What is its foreign connection

Answer—Davison's Silica Gel interests were reduced by the sale to European interests two years ago of 80,000 shares at $25 each, and its present holdings amount to 164,650 shares. Davison has a connection with the Rio Tinto Co., of London, a copper mining company, which was made during 1927. Davison exchanged 90,000 shares of its stock for an equal number in Pyrites Co., Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of Rio Tinto. Subsequently Rio Tinto bought back the Pyrites stock at $35 a share. Davison and Pyrites now control the world supply of pyrites, a sideline which has had something to do with the increase in earnings of Davison the past year.

International Match.

V. S.—Do you regard International Match preferred as a suitable investment holding for one desiring safety?

Answer—Because of the nature of the product manufactured, preferred stock of International Match is about as safe, if any investment is safe, as can be bought at what is regarded as attractive price levels. Earnings last year were equal to $8.77 a share on the preferred after allowing for the participating features, as compared with $8.12 for the year previous. Dividends at the rate of $3.20 per annum, which were paid on the preferred since 1925, were increased to a $4 yearly rate with the payment last January of a $1 quarterly distribution. The preferred appears suitable as an investment to be held over a period of years.

Cities Service.

B. C.—I would like some facts regarding common stock of the Cities Service Co., and an opinion of it.

Answer—Cities Service appears to be an ideal investment for the long-term outlook. The company has added 300 new outlets since January 1 to market the increase production of crude oil and the products of the new refinery in East Chicago. To provide for this expansion, Cities Service has given rights to purchase the new issue of 5 per cent convertible debentures, which are convertible into the common stock between December 1, 1930 and December 1, 1935.

During the first six months stock may be purchased at 27½, with the price to be increased 1¼ points per share each six months during the period of conversion. Acquisitions and contracts by subsidiaries have added many new outlets in Indiana, Michigan Wisconsin, Illinois, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, Texas, Missouri, Minnesota, North Dakota, Utah and Wyoming. Earnings have been showing a monthly growth, and for the 12 months ended with April were equal to $1.31 per share of common, as against $1.14 for the corresponding previous period.

In re condemnation of lots 4 to 16, in square 1603, as a site for school building in Wesley Heights, District Court, No. 2040. Order of citation and publication. Upon consideration of the petition of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, filed in the above-entitled cause, and on motion of counsel for the said Commissioners, it is, by the court, this 9th day of June, A. D. 1930, ordered that the clerk of the court issue citation to the American University and all other parties in interest in the land to be condemned herein, particularly described in the aforesaid petition, to appear in this court on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, A. D. 1930, at 10 o'clock a. m. to answer the said petition and to show cause, if any they have, why the prayers thereof should not be granted, and why the land in square 1603, as shown on the plat filed with the petition in said cause, should not be condemned as a site for school building in Wesley Heights in the District of Columbia. It is further ordered that a copy of said citation be served by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia upon such owners of the land sought to be condemned herein and found by the said marshal, or his deputies, within the District of Columbia, and it is further ordered that all persons having any interest in these proceedings be, and they are hereby, warned and required to appear in this court on or before the said 1st day of August, A. D 1930, to answer the said petition and to continue in attendance until the court shall have made its final order ratifying and confirming the award and report of the condemnation jury to be appointed by the court to appraise the value of the respective interests of all persons concerned in the land and premises mentioned and described in the above petition. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once in the Washington Law Reporter, the Evening Star, The Washington Post and the Washington Herald, newspapers published in the said District, before the said 1st day of August, 1930. By the court, ALFRED A. WHEAT, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By J. W. GARDNER, Jr., Assistant Clerk.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION OF CITY INVESTMENT CORPORATION FIRST MORTGAGE 6½% GOLD BONDS, SECURED ON INVESTMENT BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Pursuant to the terms of a certain deed of trust made by the CITY INVESTMENT CORPORATION, a Delaware corporation, to J. ERIS POWELL, trustee, dated January 26, 1923, recorded January 26, 1923, in Liber 4902, Folio 76, of the land records of the District of Columbia, conveying lot No. thirty-five (35) of square one hundred and ninety-eight (198), as per plat in Liber 70, Folio 43, of the records of the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, securing all the bonds hereby called for redemption; notice is hereby given by the CONTINENTAL BUILDING, INCORPORATED, a Delaware corporation, and the present owner of said premises, that the undersigned will on July 15, 1930, at the office of the Real Estate Title Insurance Co. of the District of Columbia, and the Columbia Title Insurance Co. of the District of Columbia at No. 503 E street northwest, Washington, District of Columbia, redeem and pay all of the bonds numbered seven hundred and eleven (711) to fifty-two hundred and sixty (5260), both inclusive, according to the terms thereof and as described in and secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to be redeemed aggregating two million two hundred and seventy thousand dollars ($2,270,000) and being all of the bonds secured by said deed of trust now outstanding and unpaid. In redemption and payment of said bonds under the terms of the said deed of trust the undersigned will pay one hundred and two per centum (102%) of the principal of the said bonds called for redemption, all accrued interest thereon to July 15, 1930, all in accordance with the terms of said deed of trust. ## RUM RAIDS RESULT IN LEGAL BATTLE OVER JURISDICTION

Six Capital Men Among 15 Arrested in City and Nearby Maryland.

SOME CASES HANDLED BY U. S. COMMISSIONER

Police Judge Hears Others In First Skirmish Over Place of Trials.

A fight over where liquor cases should be arraigned developed yesterday as a result of the wholesale raids made Saturday night by special police and prohibition squads.

The action came while six Washingtonians in a grouy of fifteen men and women arrested by Federal agents from Baltimore in a series of liquor raids in the District and nearby Maryland were pleading not guilty upon arraignment before United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee in Baltimore, where all had been taken on charges of sale and possession of liquor. They were released on bond, with trials set next week.

Confusion marked arraignments during the day and while the Police Court was understood to have won the first skirmish it was believed that the engagement was only the beginning of a major battle which eventually, it is hoped, will result in the handling of most liquor cases by the United States commissioner—a condition that exists in all other Federal jurisdictions.

Judges Appose Others.

The battle yesterday found revenue agents, police and the United States attorney's office on one side and Police Court judges on the other. When the smoke of battle cleared away it revealed that so-called major violations had been handled by the commissioner, while others had been arraigned before Judge John P. McMahon.

The battle began when Police Court judges countermanded orders that persons arrested be taken before the commissioner. This resulted in freeing all defendants of their bonds in that tribunal and the order that they make bonds before the commissioner. Subsequently those orders, too, were countermanded.

Prior to enactment of the Jones act the commissioner handled arraignments of all so-called felony liquor cases. This step it was understood, was approved by the United States attorney's office but was frowned on by the Police Court judges. Recently Police Court judges have lost favor as issuers of warrants for liquor raids and practically all raids are now being made on commissioner's warrants, which, it is said, is responsible for the effort to shift cases back to that official.

Jury Trials Demanded.

The result of the battle yesterday was that four persons were arraigned before Commissioner Turnage while 29 were haled before Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court. The Commissioner continued the cases before him until future dates but in each of the Police Court cases the defendants waived hearing and demanded trial by jury, which brought the latter category of cases under the heading of misdemeanor.

Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of prohibition enforcement in the Police Court, decided that three defendants cited by the raiding squads should be cleared for lack of evidence and, accordingly nolle prossed charges against them. Those so treated were: Joseph M. McLaughlin, Joseph B. Carpenter and Ella Clay.

Commissioner Turnage continued charges against Edward Moore, Joseph Carr, William K. Hood and Mrs. Audrey Hood. Moore is charged with sale and possession while the others are charged with sale, possession and manufacture.

The Washington men arraigned in Baltimore and taken in one raid were released on $1,500 bond each for preliminary hearing next Tuesday. They are Isadore Shapiro, Hugh Lawler, Arthur Stark, Dallas Grasty, colored; Harvey Williams, colored, and Edward Gross, colored.

One $2000 Bond Set.

Thomas L. Avant and Clem T. Watkins, colored, both of Colmar Manor, Md., taken in a raid there, were released on bonds of $2,000 and $1,500, respectively, for preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Jennie Young, 41 years old, and Katie Tillman, colored, 27 years old, both of Camp Springs, Md., taken in a raid there, were released on bonds of $1,500 and $500, respectively, for preliminary hearing Monday.

Florence Wilson, colored, 23 years old, of Marlboro, Md., who was arrested in a raid there, was released on $1,500 bond for a hearing Tuesday.

Both Vincent Casinsarro, 30 years old, and his wife, Barbara Casinsarro, 33 years old, both of Hyattsville, Md., taken in custody there, were released on $1,500 bond each for a hearing Tuesday.

Robert P. Henderson, 35 years old, of Clinton, Md., and Luella Wiggins, also of Clinton, who were arrested in a raid on the Blue Bird Inn, on the Waldorf pike near Clinton, were released on $1,500 bond each for hearing Monday.

Autoist Arrested In Crash on Pike

Smoke Screen Equipment Charged to Driver When Passenger Is Hurt.

Charges of reckless driving and possessing smoke screen apparatus were lodged against Ray Tierce, of H street, near Sixth, northwest, last night, following a collision on the Baltimore pike in which a Washington man giving his name as "Slim" Taylor was injured.

A heavy touring car, allegedly driven by Tierce, struck a small machine near Beltsville, Md., badly damaging it, the smaller car turning over twice. Taylor, who was riding with Tierce, was taken to Providence Hospital, where an examination disclosed injuries to his back.

Prince Georges County Policeman Claude Reese said that he found smoke screen apparatus hidden behind a telephone pole near the wrecked car that Tierce was said to have been driving. Tierce was released under $200 bond for his appearance in the Hyattsville police court tomorrow.

The driver of the small car escaped injury.

FIVE FROM CAPITAL GET FAIRFAX FINES

CHURCH FETE TONIGHT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Five Washingtonians, including a woman, were fined $19.50 each by Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman at Fairfax, Va., at a hearing yesterday afternoon. All were charged with having been drunk and disorderly Sunday night at a railway station.

They gave their names as Mrs. E. Fry, of R near Fourteenth street northwest; Aubrey Tanner, same address, and James E. Havenner, of Klingle road, near Twentieth street northwest.

Deputy Sheriff Paul Herman, who made the arrests, said that he had received a complaint from a trolley motorman that the three were reeling about the station and were in danger of being struck by cars.

J. C. Chappell and Thomas Burnett, of Washington, were fined $19.50 each by Justice Chapman for being intoxicated on the highway near Falls Church.

Norman Herold, of Conduit road, Washington, was held for the action of the grand jury by Justice Chapman on a charge of stealing a calf from near McLean, Va.

Leeds H. Anwill, of Chevy Chase, Md., was arrested for drinking in public. He was taken before Justice of the Peace John T. Molling at Falls Church where a fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

The Arlington-Fairfax Fireman's Relief Association will hold its meeting tonight in the Falls Church Town Hall as the guests of the Falls Church Department.

The Rector's Aid Society of St. Timothy's Episcopal Church at Herndon, assisted by the Fellowship Club, will give a dinner today in the basement of the Congregational Church.

The annual festival and supper for the benefit of the St. James Catholic Church at West Falls Church will be given this evening on the church lawns. Martin I. Cook has been named chairman of the arrangements. Mrs. David Patterson and Eugene Shreve, jr., will have charge of the dinner. Mrs. Dan Brown will be in charge of the fancy work table; Mrs. Eugene Shreve, sr., and Miss Elizabeth Brown will be in charge of the candy, cake and ice cream. Arthur Schied is in charge of amusements and dancing.

There will be a meeting of the Home Interest Club at Herndon this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Russell A. Lynn.

The Women's Auxiliary of the St. Timothy's Episcopal Church will hold a meeting this afternoon in the church house. The subject for discussion will be "Missions."

Great Falls Grange will hold its meeting tomorrow night in the Grange Hall at Forestville. Following the business session a community meeting will be held at which time officers will be elected and arrangements made for the annual Forestville Day to be held July 26.

George H. Merkell, of Fifteenth street near B street northeast, Washington, was arrested for reckless driving after the car he was driving had sideswiped the car of George Keller, of Loch Raven, Md., between Gum Springs and Engleside on the Washington - Richmond highway. Herkel was taken before Justice of the Peace Harry Shephard at Accotink by Capt. Haywood Durrer, of the county road police, where he was fined $15 and costs on a charge of reckless driving.

Deputy County Clerk Elton R. Holbrook, of Fairfax County, made an announcement yesterday which he wishes called to the attention of those fishermen who believe that the season for bass fishing in Virginia opened yesterday. He states that many of the fishermen misinterpreted the law adopted by the last Legislature, which advanced the opening of the bass fishing from July 1 to June 15, but as this law does not become effective until July 1, no change in the opening of the season will be made until June 15, 1931. It has also been announced that Judge William S. Snow, of Alexandria, commissioner of game and inland fisheries for this district, will speak tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock over the radio from Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., on "Game and Fishing Laws in Virginia." In this talk he will emphasize the changes in the State hunting and fishing laws.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Volunteer Fire Department at Herndon will give a dance tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Herndon High School for the benefit of the fire department. Mrs. Arthur H. Buell has been made chairman of the committee, which is composed of Mrs. George R. Bready, Mrs. John Hurst, Mrs. Henry Kephart, Mrs. J. L. Nachmann and Miss Edith Reid.

Fairfax County Police, led by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams yesterday afternoon, made a raid on the O'Roark home on the Burke Station road south of Fairfax, where they arrester Vernon O'Roark on a charge of a sale of one-half gallon of alleged liquor. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman, where he was held under $500 bond for the action of the grand jury at the September term of the circuit court.

Hillsboro Federal Employe Expires

Theodore Gaver Was Head of Postoffice There for 30 Years.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hillsboro, Va., June 16.—Theodore F. Gaver, postmaster at Hillsboro, Va., for the last 30 years, died this morning at his residence in Hillsboro from pneumonia. He was 85 years of age, and a native and lifelong resident of Hillsboro. Prior to his being postmaster he owned and operated the Hillsboro Woolen Mills for 35 years. He had been a member of the Arnold Grove M. E. Church for 60 years.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Mamie W. Daniel, of Washington, D. C., and whom he married March 6, 1877; a son, G. D. Gaver, of Danville, Va., and a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Gaver, of Washington, D. C.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence, the Rev. O. C. Mitchell, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. I. G. Michael, officiating. Interment will be in Hillsboro Cemetery.

Sandy Spring

The Garden Show of Sandy Spring held its first flower show at Community House on Saturday afternoon from 4 until 9 o'clock, a most beautiful arrangement of flowers were exhibited, and the artistic effect and quality of flowers were particularly commended by the judges, Mr. Andrew Adams, a florist from Howard County, and Mr. Milton Bancroft, of Sandy Spring.

Mrs. Mortimer O. Stabler received three awards for her bowl of baby's breath and delphinium, it being judged the best bowl, best arrangement and horticultural exhibit. Other awards were: Miniature rock garden, Miss Mary Miller Stabler; delphinium, Miss Anna Farquhar; canterbery bells, Mrs. Milton Bancroft; petunias, Mrs. F. L. Thomas; snap dragons, Miss Rebecca T. Miller; phlox, Mrs. P. G. Ligon; madonna lily, Miss Mary M. Stabler; water lily, Mrs. Tom Ladson; single poppy, Miss Anna Farquhar; snap dragon, Mrs. Edgar Parsley; pink yarrow, Mrs. F. L. Thomas; vernhica, Miss Mary M. Stabler; Japanese iris, Miss Anna Farquhar; correopsis, Mrs. E. S. Alvord, sr.; bergamot, Mrs. P. G. Ligon; gallarvia, Mrs. M. O. Stabler; oriental poppy, Mrs. M. O. Stabler.

Also, best roses and collection of roses, Miss Edith Hallowell; larkspur, Miss Janet Miller; bouquet of roses, Mrs. J. C. Bentley; best bouquet of single varieties, Miss Anna Farquhar; luncheon table arrangement, Mrs. Katherine Alvord; young people's bouquet, Miss Jean Thomas; bedside vase, Mrs. M. O. Stabler. Mention was made of the red, white and blue arrangement exhibited by Mrs. Tom Ladson in honor of flag day.

A perfect replica of the beautiful old gardens at Cedarstone, home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Alvord and daughters, was exhibited by them in miniature form and was an attractive feature.

A silver offering for the Sandy Spring Volunteer Fire Department was taken, and about $65 was realized.

A miniature rock garden exhibited by Miss Mary Miller Stabler was perfect in detail and was awarded a blue ribbon.

The show was visited by many from the surrounding country and Washington.

Virginia Woman Injured By Capital Street Car

Mrs. Mary Conner, of Herndon, Va., narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a Lincoln Park street car while crossing F street at Ninth street.

The safety device beneath the car prevented her from being mangled by the wheels. Her screams were heard by C. A. Hellman, of 3809 Jocelyn street northwest, who rescued the woman. Mrs. Conners was taken to Emergency Hospital where it was found she was suffering from minor bruises and brush burns on the arms and body.

VETERANS OPPOSE LONDON NAVY PACT

Foreign Wars Order, State of Maryland Encampment, Urges Strong Defense.

NEW STAFFS IN OFFICE

Cumberland, Md., June 16.—Opposing the naval treaty and any further disarmament program that would weaken the National defense the State encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars elected Capt. Richard C. O'Connell, of Baltimore, State commander this afternoon over Commander Charles G. L. Huether, Baltimore, who sought reelection. Other officers chosen were: Senior vice commander, John A. Moody, of Annapolis; junior vice commander, John Hybenthal, of Baltimore; judge advocate, David W. Sloan, of Cumberland; chaplain, Charles D. Lamson, of Baltimore; surgeon, Dr. Herbert C. Blake, of Baltimore. The newly elected officers were installed tonight. It was indicated that Baltimore would be selected for the next State encampment.

A resolution advocating the increase of the State veterans relief fund for sick and indigent veterans from $50,000 to $75,000 was also passed.

The Ladies Auxiliary, Department of Maryland, also elected these officers: President, Mrs. Martha B. Hyde, of Annapolis, Md.; senior vice president, Mrs. Margaret Rotan, of Baltimore; junior vice president, Mrs Grace McCreary, of Perry Point, Md.; treasurer, Mrs. Myrtle O. Carlton, of Washington; chaplain, Mrs. Margaret McClaskey, of Baltimore; conductor, Mrs. Helen Bowers, of Baltimore; guard, Mrs. Marie Hubenthal, of Baltimore; councilors of adminnistration, Mrs. Fannie Hall and Mrs. Elizabeth Parsons, of Baltimore. The officers were installed by National President Mrs. Bessie Hanken, Revere, Mass.

Elizabeth Abell Elopes to Capital

Baltimore Society Girl and Associated Press Man Are Married.

Miss Elizabeth Carroll Abell, social registerite and member of a widely known Baltimore family, and Benjamin J. Reber, of the Associated Press staff in Baltimore, eloped here yesterday and were married by Municipal Judge Robert E. Mattingly. The couple stayed at a local hotel overnight before starting a motor trip as their honeymoon.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Charles S. Abell, of Baltimore, and the latter's divorced husband, Charles S. Abell, whose family established the Baltimore Sun, which he served as head at one time. On her maternal side, the bride is a descendant of the Carrolls of Carrollton. She made her debut in Baltimore several years ago.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Mandus B. Reber, of Charleston, W. Va., and has been connected with the Associated Press in Baltimore for several years. He gave his age as 28 years and the bride announced hers as 24.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA just couldn't understand what President Hoover meant when he said the new flexible tariff would do away with lobbies and log-rolling.

"You know what a lobby is, don't you?" I asked.

She smiled: "Haven't I met you in 'em, many times? You know, when we have a date downtown?"

We'll pass over that.

"But this log-rolling," she mused. "Why does President Hoover want to do away with log-rolling?"

"To worry the Democrats——"

"Are they log-rollers?"

Are they log-rollers! Those babies will roll anything they get their hands on—they'd even roll the poor Republicans out of office, if they had a chance.

* * * *

LUELLA still didn't understand.

"I never heard of such a thing. Hoop-rolling, yes! And girls used to roll their stockings, but——"

The trouble with Luella is, she's never been out in the log-rolling country; and I told her so.

"Where is the log-rolling country?" she asked, naively.

"Out where the West begins——"

"Umph!" she mumbled, and went on with her work.

After a while she came back.

"I remember reading of the man who rolled a peanut up Pike's Peak——"

"Well, you wouldn't call him a log-roller, would you?"

"No, but did anybody ever roll a log up there?"

"Not quite. They roll logs down the mountain side."

Finally it dawned on her. "Oh," she exclaimed, "I've seen pictures of it in the movies——"

"In the movies?"

"They were Indians——"

* * * *

If they were Indians they weren't foolin' with logs, clubs——"

"Clubs?"

"Certainly, Indian clubs——"

"Aw, you get out," said Luella, and took her broom and swept me out into the backyard, throwing me against the wood pile—where a log fell off and rolled down the terrace.

There, right in front of her, was a concrete example of log-rolling.

"And that's what President Hoover wants to stop, is it?" she asked.

"Yep. That's it."

"It's about time," she said, "you build a fence around that wood pile"—and there, all the afternoon, in the hot sun, she had me hammering away, to keep the logs from rolling.

KESWICK HUNT CLUB SHOW ENTRIES BIG

Noted Horses to Appear in Twenty-Two Classes at Exhibit Saturday.

KEEN COMPETITION SEEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 16.—More than 50 exhibitors from the States of New York, Ohio, Delaware and Virginia have entered horses for the annual horse show of the Keswick Hunt Club, to be held Saturday of this week at the club's show ground, west of Keswick Station.

The exhibition this year promises to be the largest and best in the history of the Keswick Hunt Club. The 22 classes will all be well filled and competition will be keen. Outstanding hunters from northern and Piedmont Virginia will compete for the trophies and money prizes offered by the club.

For the first time in years the stables of Mrs. Allen Potts at Happy Creek Farm, near Gordonsville, will appear in the Keswick ring.

Out-of-State exhibitors include Mrs. E. L. Ditto, of Huntington, Long Island; Mrs. Ellsworth Augustus, of Willoughby, Ohio; Augustus Van Courtland, of Mount Kisco, N. Y., and Mrs. T. H. Somerville, of Greenville, Del.

Danville Street Work To Be Completed Soon

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 16.—Barring unfavorable weather, street work here will be completed by June 25, according to City Engineer C. L. Scott.

Rapid progress is being made on the paving of the principal business section of Main street, which has been under way the past month, and which has been the cause of much complaint by merchants who claim their business is suffering.

FIRECRACKER EDICT ISSUED BY POLICE

Montgomery Arrests Will Follow Noises After 10 at Night.

COMPLAINTS ARE MANY

Annoyed by repeated complaints that boys and men are exploding firecrackers and other fireworks in the residential sections of Bethesda and contiguous towns, Montgomery County police of the Bethesda Substation have issued an ultimatum.

Any person caught exploding fireworks after 10 o'clock at night will be arrested and taken to police court, according to Sergt. Leroy Rodgers, in charge of the substation. They will be prosecuted under the provisions of section 118, article 27, Maryland Code, which prohibits the making of unseemly noises to the disturbance of the public peace.

Numerous complaints rained upon the personnel of the substation and Sergt. Rodgers finally decided to take the matter before States' Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., at Rockville. State's Attorney Peter dug up the law and told the sergeant that arrests could be made. Sergt. Rodgers last night instructed the men of his command to be especially vigilant and to warn persons caught discharging firecrackers that they would be arrested if they persisted after 10 o'clock at night.

It is understood that the other precincts of the county police will follow suit if there is any need for it.

Suit for absolute divorce was filed yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by Mrs. Ruth L. Tebbe, Sixth street near B street northeast, alleging that she and her two children had been deserted by Erwin F. Tebbe, also known as Jim Earl, of Chevy Chase, Md.

The wife, through Attorneys Robert W. McCullough and Thomas J. Luckett, of Prince Georges County and Washington, tells the court that the marriage took place August 5, 1915, at Mount Vernon, Ohio, and that her husband deserted her more than two years ago while the family resided at Takoma Park, Md. She asks alimony and custody of the two minor children.

Plans for the annual supper for the benefit of the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Department, which will be held Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Gaithersburg High School, are about completed, Mrs. Henry H. Griffith has general supervision of the supper.

Schwartz. Members of the fire department also will be active.

The Bethesda Daily Vacation Bible School opened yesterday at the Bethesda Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Episcopal Churches of Bethesda. The school is under the direction of Mrs. F. T. Israel, who directed the school last summer.

The school operates from 9 to 12 o'clock each morning for five days a week and will remain in session for two weeks. Children between the ages of 3 and 15 years are in attendance.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held tomorrow night on the lawn of the Bethesda Methodist Church, St. Elmo avenue, from 6:30 to 10 o'clock, for the benefit of the church. In the event of rain, the festival will be held in the basement of the church.

Mayor J. Roger Spates, of Rockville, expects to confer with officials of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission tomorrow concerning the hook-up of the Rockville waetr system with the sanitary commission water mains. While the water system with the sanitary come dangerous, there is a shortage of water in Rockville every summer, and it is hoped the mains can be installed and in service before the water peak season is reached.

Danville Woman Buried.

Danville, Va., June 16 (Special).—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Ida S. Cobb, 57, widow of S. E. Cobb, resident of Danville, who died Saturday in a local hospital. Mrs. Cobb was a native of Caswell County, N. C., but had lived in Danville practically her entire life. She is survived by one daughter and several step-children.

visor, and Mrs. Nettie Crouch, of Herndon Chapter, publicity chairman.

It was voted to hold the annual picnic August 9 in Imbody's orchard at Ballston.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce holds its monthly meeting Thursday night in the board rooms in the Reese Building at Clarendon at 8 o'clock.

Final plans for the joint outing of the local chamber and the chambers of commerce of Fairfax County and the City of Alexandria to Orkney Springs the week-end of June 21 will be made at this meeting.

The Lyon Village Woman's Club will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. John P. Balster, 324 Courthouse road. Election of officers will be the principal business.

The Sunday school of St. George's Episcopal Church holds its annual picnic to Glen Echo today. Buses will leave from the Parish Hall at 11 o'clock.

Clarendon Lodge, No. 1315, Loyal Order of Moose, held a special meeting in Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon last night when a large class of candidates received degrees conferred by teams from Baltimore Lodge, No. 70, and Washington Lodge, No. 126.

Representative Fred Zihlman, of Maryland, and supreme prelate of the grand lodge, addressed the meeting. He spoke of the great work the order is doing and congratulated the local lodge on its growth.

Preceding the meeting an exhibition drill was given by the Baltimore drill team under the leadership of Capt. Charles Kirby.

RIVER ROAD HAZARD CAUSES COMPLAINT

Alexandria City Manager to Take Up Matter With Highway Chiefs.

SCHOOL BAND PLANNED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Complaints are being made that the newly opened River road which has been widened in Arlington County, from the city limits at Four-Mile Run toward Washington narrows so abruptly at the Four-Mile Run Bridge as to be a menace to motorists. City Manager Wallace Lawrence stated yesterday that he will take the matter up with the State Highway Commission.

The matter of widening the River road was agitated by former Mayor William A. Smoot during his entire term of office, and it was through his efforts that the State Highway Commission finally agreed to widen this highway, over which traffic is probably heavier than any road of its length in the country, but when the city instituted annexation proceedings the highway commission delayed action until after the decision in the case, which shortened the county road by two miles; the original allocation for the four miles of roadway was $80,000, and after the distance was shortened to 2 miles, the contract price for that amount of roadway was approximately $79,000. The road narrows suddenly at Four-Mile Run Bridge making a dangerous funnel, and while a fence has been placed, it is a trap for the unwary at night.

George Mason and Mount Vernon Schools have recently sent out questionnaires leading to organize a school band, and to date between 60 and 70 answers have been received, and a meeting of the interested students will be held at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow night in the George Mason High School auditorium. A. W. Lawson, an experienced band man, will meet with the students, and C. H. Strader, principal of the schools, will preside at the meeting.

The body of William Breerwood Smoot, aged 73 years, who died Sunday evening at Atlantic City, was brought to his home, 804 Prince street, yesterday evening. Mr. Smoot had been in failing health for three years, but the past spring apparently improved, and shortly before Easter he, with his wife, Mrs. Margaret L. Cator Smoot, left for Atlantic City to pass the summer.

The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from the home, conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of which Mr. Smoot was a vestryman.

Mr. Smoot was born in this city, was a son of the late John B. Smoot, former mayor of Alexandria, and Sarah Breerwood Smoot, and up to six years ago was president of C. C. Smoot Sons Co., with offices at Washington and Wilkes streets, and since that company disposed of its business he has been engaged in winding up the details of the business and looking after personal affairs.

Mr. Smoot was the second president of the Mount Vernon Highway Association, succeeding his father, the first president of the association, which inaugurated the movement to construct a memorial highway from Washington to Mount Vernon, which is now reaching fulfillment. He was in an unostentatious way one of the most charitable men in the city and always interested in civic affairs. He was a member of the Maryland Club, the Alexandria Lodge of Elks, a charter member of the Old Dominion Boat Club and of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce.

The Rotary Club meeting today, at 12:30 o'clock at the George Mason Hotel, will be presided over by Dr. S. Nelson Gray, the president, and detailed reports of the Kiwanis-Rotary baseball game last Friday will be given.

Lawrence E. Roland, program chairman, has arranged that at each meeting a part of the procedure shall be to have a short talk by a club member on the particular kind of business in which he is engaged. Today Francis H. Fannon will give a talk on "Virginia as a Coal-Producing State."

Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer, will tomorrow inaugurate the first of the health clinics for the benefit of the newly annexed territory, holding the sessions in the building formerly known as the Jefferson District Welfare Center, on Mount Vernon avenue, just north of the George Mason High School. The hours each Wednesday will be from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

Petitions are being circulated among residents of the First Ward seeking to have abated what is termed the "smoke nuisance" from the plant of the Virginia Public Service Co., at the foot of Wolfe street. The petitions are directed to the corporation court and allege that smoke and cinders are distributed over the First Ward and the water front, causing damage to property and boats. They ask the company be required to abate the nuisance as provided under section 1520 of the Code of Virginia.

Thomas J. Simpson, representing residents of the First Ward, appeared at the meeting of the city council on May 15 and asked that body to take action to protect the property owners in that ward.

Alexandria Lodge No. 758, B. P. O. Elks, was represented at the Flag Day celebration on Sunday at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, by four past exalted rulers of the local organization, Robert South Barrett, W. H. Kelley, Howard D. Carter and Harry F. Kennedy.
